1923 Grand Opera Contract Closed by Wire

MUSIC FESTIVAL LEADERS ASSUME $12,000 DEFICIT

Directors Believe Amount Will Be More Than Made Good by Belated Returns This Week.

NEW STARS WILL COME HERE FOR FIRST TIME

Directors Consider Response to Call for Guarantee Fund Splendid for Limited Time Allowed.

Atlanta's opera season for 1923, which promises to be the most brilliant in history, was assured Thursday afternoon when directors of the Atlanta Music Festival association closed a contract by telegraph with the Metropolitan Opera company for the appearance of that company here during the week of April 23.

Directors of the association having complete faith in the success of opera next year, agreed to underwrite $12,000 of the $120,000 guarantee fund when the subscriptions were totaled and it was found that the required guarantee lacked this amount of being complete.

Colonel W. L. Peel, president of the association, who is in New York, was authorized by the directors to close the contract with the Metropolitan Opera company Thursday thus assuring the presence here next season of Mme. Marie Jeritza, of the Vienna Opera who is now the reigning sensation of the opera season in New York.

Faith in Atlanta.

Supreme faith in Atlanta caused the directors to underwrite the $12,000 needed at the last moment. They agreed at their meeting Thursday afternoon that the response of the people of the city really had been wonderful considering the fact that the campaign for the guarantee fund had been waged but five days. They pointed out that several weeks were required in the past to raise the guarantee fund and expressed confidence that the amount they have underwritten will be subscribed by receipt of belated returns from guarantors and by the subscriptions of people who hitherto have not had an opportunity to subscribe.

Realizing the serious situation existing the directors Thursday agreed to underwrite the $12,000 although they had already assumed a healthy proportion of the guarantee fund. There was nothing else to be done Thursday to assure a season of grand opera here next season and the directors met the situation confident that the people will subscribe the comparatively small amount needed to complete the $120,000 fund.

Signers of the guarantee fund will be granted the privilege of selecting choice seats before the general seat sale opens. This concession alone is well worth the risk that is taken in signing one of the guarantee cards and assures the signer of obtaining good seats for as many operas as he desires to attend.

Will Get First Choice.

No guarantor will be permitted to buy up large blocks of tickets but will be permitted to make his selection prior to the general sale under the condition that these selections be reasonable. Persons who have not yet subscribed to the guarantee fund may do so by telephoning Walnut 5445. The minimum amount of

C. R. McMillan Slugged by Highwaymen in East Point Thursday Night

C. R. McMillan, 311 West Peachtree street, was slugged and robbed by two highwaymen at Main and Washington streets, East Point, late Thursday night.

Recovering consciousness he called for help, and John Smith, of the Carmichael Grocery company, came to his aid and summoned the police, after he had called a Grady ambulance.

While McMillan, suffering from a dangerous scalp wound in the head, was being taken to Atlanta, Officers D. C. Harrison and S. C. Pyron, of East Point, started a search for the two thugs.

HOW ARMED MOBS DROVE PRISONERS TO DEATH IS TOLD

Witnesses at Herrin Riot Trial Describe Scenes of Horror on Day of Killings.

FOUND BODIES BOUND TOGETHER BY NECKS

Hundreds of Armed Men Drove Six Blood-Stained Captives Through the Streets of Town.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Marion, Ill., December 14.—The march of several hundred armed men driving before them through the streets of Herrin six blood-stained prisoners and the later finding of 20 bodies was described to the jury by several witnesses today at the trial of five men in connection with the riot.

Before a tense audience which packed the courtroom, witnesses for the state pointed out three of the defendants as men they had seen with weapons on the morning of the tragedy.

Six of the bodies, according to J. Marshall Lentz, a Herrin real estate dealer, and T. N. Lentz, his brother, who is a blacksmith and a member of the United Mine Workers of America, were bound together with a single rope about their necks. Fourteen other dead or injured victims were found on the outskirts of the town, they testified.

Finds Dead Men.

Marshall Lentz, the first of the two to take the stand, testified to seeing a crowd of several hundred men passing his house in Herrin early in the morning of June 22, the day of the killings. He said that the crowd acted like a mob and that "about six prisoners with bloody heads were being driven ahead." Later, he said, he had gone with his brother through the woods at the edge of the village.

"What did you see in the woods?" he was asked.

"Fourteen men who had been shot down and some armed men," and added that he had then gone toward the city cemetery.

"What did you find there?" asked Delos Duty, state's attorney.

"I found six men in the middle

GERMANY ON EDGE OF ECONOMIC RUIN, WASHINGTON TOLD

German Nation Fast Approaching Point Where Food Supplies for People Will Be Exhausted.

REPARATIONS TANGLE BASIS OF SITUATION

Lack of Agreement by Allies on Amount to Be Paid Slackened Commercial Germany.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, December 14.—Information reaching the American government through trade channe s, it was said today tends to bear out the statement of Premier Bonar Law that an economic collapse is threatening Germany. In fact, it was declared, Germany appear to be approaching the point where she will be unable to import food in sufficient quantities to feed her people. No estimate was made, however, as to when her food supply would be exhausted.

So far as the allied debt situation was concerned, officers maintained silence. The position of the United States, however, has been repeatedly stated as one holding the debt question to be distinct from reparations.

Germany normally produces only about three-fourths of the food she requires, it was said, and the information received here indicates she now is 2,000,000 tons behind on her normal annual import of cereals alone. The credit situation was said to indicate that there is little, if any money available to buy extra food required from the outside while to this is added the complication of the low state of the mark.

Reparations Blamed.

The basis of the whole situation was declared in high administration quarters to be predicated upon the reparations problem. Solution of that question, one official asserted, would go a long way towards tiding Germany over what was regarded as an impending crisis. Lack of an agreement by the allied powers as to the amount Germany will eventually have to pay and how she will pay it was declared to have slackened the whole of commercial Germany with the result that unemployment has markedly increased the last few months and those who have money are participating in the "flight of the mark."

It is known here that capitalists and industrial institutions in Germany who can do so have taken as much of their funds outside of their home land as they can. Against this and such funds as already were deposited by those individuals and firms in other countries, they have borrowed marks and are operating on this borrowed capital. The net result is, one government official asserted, a state of "frozen credit" never before experienced by any country and one that will not be eased until the reparations question is finally and definitely settled.

Settlement To Aid.

Any settlement of the reparation

Baley's Refusal All That Saved Job for Beavers

Police Board Member Admits Plan to Oust Chief Was Near Success.

All that prevented the present police board from firing Police Chief Beavers and electing a new chief eleven months ago was a last-minute refusal to accept the post by the new man selected for the job, according to information that came to the surface at city hall Thursday.

Rumors that a minority effort had been quietly organized to oust the chief was all that leaked out at that time.

But Thursday the rather startling news was disclosed that the anti-reformers had experienced defections from their ranks and the deserting members had poined in private caucuses to pick another police head.

How the Thunderbolt of War Was Launched

One of the most engrossing chapters in "The Mistakes of the Kaiser," a brilliant series of articles by Rene Viviani, premier of France at the outbreak of the war, which will appear daily in The Constitution, is that in which he deals with events immediately preceding the outbreak of hostilities. His story is an absolute refutation of that told by the ex-kaiser in his memoirs.

This, however, is but one of the many high lights in a series abounding in interest.

Beginning Sunday In the Constitution

Will You Help Her?

Today The Constitution and the Associated Charities offer the first of their annual "ten opportunities" to aid the ten neediest families in Atlanta. One new opportunity will be offered each day. In each case the amount asked is the smallest possible to accomplish the desired purpose.

SEVERAL GEORGIANS ATTEND CONFERENCE

Harding Says Farmers Must Organize If Government Aid Is to Be Effective.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, December 14.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Prominent farmers of the south and other sections of the country attending the first session of the National Council of Farmers' Co-operative Associations at the capital today were told by President Harding that government aid to agriculturalists can not be effective unless the farmers of the nation are organized and alive to their responsibility to establish and use practical instruments for the distribution of credits. The president's words were delivered to the meeting in the form of a message.

Attending the conference are several Georgians, including L. B. Jackson, of the state bureau of markets, and Eugene Price, representing the Georgia railway commission, who is investigating transportation facilities for agricultural products.

Atlanta's Ten Neediest

$198.64 WILL BRING JOY TO LITTLE FAMILY

Families Call for Aid

BY PAUL STEVENSON

The ten neediest families in Atlanta today appeal to the big-hearted people of this city for bread.

Atlanta's "Ten Opportunities"—the ten families of the city selected by the Associated Charities as being the most deserving of help—today raise supplicating hands for that most beautiful charity, voluntary extension of aid to the suffering in time of direst need.

This is an appeal that can not be turned down. It can not be refused. It must not be denied.

There is no "drive" about it. There is no campaign to it. Each day from now until Christmas one of the opportunities will be published—will be laid at the feet of the people. Each opportunity must be accepted the day it is published to make room for another opportunity. It must be accepted promptly by individuals, by organizations, by groups—but must be accepted at once.

Cry of the Needy.

As the bluff and hearty spirit of Christmas prevails; as the merry laughter and joyous cries of happy children arise; as the cheerful good humor of the Christmastide is felt by the more fortunate people of this good old city, there must be a brief pause. The call of the destitute must be heeded. The cry of the famine-pinched sufferers must be heard. The heart must swell in pity for the misery of the lean and haggard and abject victims of misfortune or there can be no real, true Christmas for anyone.

This is a charity which is direct. It is an applied charity, which brings all-the-year-around relief for each of the "Ten Opportunities." It is a charity that brings hope to the eyes of the hopeless. It gives helpless and innocent children a chance in this world where otherwise they would not have a chance.

Such is the spirit and plan of the "Ten Opportunities." The Associated Charities for three years has followed this plan with success which has brought joy and happiness to hundreds of people who have responded each year to the call. The plan has made life bearable to the unfortunate.

Opportunity No. 1.

Now, then, to the test, citizens of the south's greatest city! Let's see if your hearts are as big as the other big things we all brag about in Atlanta.

Here's Opportunity No. 1: A frail little widowed mother, with two bright children, a boy and a girl, is fighting daily a double battle — one against a disease which has left her weak and suffering, and the other against relentless poverty, which threatens to prevent the education of the two children, and which almost denies them scantiest clothing, and even a starvation ration of food.

Just $3.82 a week, or $198.64 a year, stands between this widow and children and a chance to live in the simplest comfort.

Seven years ago the father, a laborer, died, leaving no insurance and no provision of any kind for his family. There is no relative who can provide even food and clothing. In that time the family has gone through a dire period of distress, which was first relieved when a golden-hearted Atlanta man last year accepted the family as one of the "Ten Opportunities."

Performs Miracles.

The brave little mother, 33 years old, has performed miracles. In the mornings she works at one of Atlanta's big colleges, cleaning up rooms, for which she receives $3.50 a week. In the afternoon she washes window curtains for endless hours, which increases her income to about $7.00 a week.

The Associated Charities workers have figured that a minimum of $11.70 will provide relief for this brave little family, and that $3.82 a week will bridge the gap.

One of the children is a girl 11 years old, and, after tests, has been pronounced much above the average of children of her age. The little boy, 8 years old, also is exceptionally bright. Both are in school. But to remain there, to pay the rent on the squalid little home and to provide the smallest possible amount of groceries the $3.82 each week must be provided.

The little mother has worked from daylight until far into the night each day for seven years. She has enjoyed but one holiday in that period. And all of this she has done so that she and her family would not become a public charge, and that she could keep the family name cleared of such a stigma.

Now, who'll be the first man, the first group of men or women, the first big bank or office force, to step forward and take Opportunity No. 1?

Whoever does will live long and prosper.

Checks should be mailed to either the Associated Charities or The Constitution. The main thing is to mail them without delay!

WGM'S OPERATOR TALKS TO 'FRISCO IN RADIO RECORD

Two-Way Radio Conversation Early Thursday First Transcontinental Success Known Of.

CONSTITUTION STATION HEARD VERY CLEARLY

Much Sought After Record of Transcontinental Connection Made by The Constitution.

Station WGM, yesterday morning between 4 and 5 o'clock, took a prominent part in setting a new record in the history of radiotelephony.

A. W. Shropshire, operator of Station WGM, and W. H. Whitby, radio operator, using the powerful transmitter of The Atlanta Constitution, held a transcontinental conversation with the radio station of the Mercantile Trust company, San Francisco, Cal., which was participated in also by the Sweeney Automobile school of Kansas City, Mo.

This is the first time in the history of radiotelephony that such a transcontinental conversation has been held, so far as known.

WGM Heard Clearly.

Station WGM was heard clearly in the radio room of the Mercantile Trust company, which was using the call, 6XB.

The record was started when Mr. Shropshire and Mr. Whitby were tuning in amateur and commercial radiotelegraphic stations. It was accidental that they swung the dials of their receiving set to 400 meters. When they did they heard the Sweeney school conducting a conversation with the Mercantile Trust company of San Francisco.

Sweeney School Called.

The Sweeney school was called by Station WGM. The Sweeney school replied that it would call Station WGM at the conclusion of the conversation with San Francisco.

Operator Shropshire, of WGM, and Operator Adair, of the Sweeney school had held a two-way conversation for several minutes, when Operator Adair at Kansas City reported to Operator Shropshire that San Francisco was hearing both sides of the conversation and later that San Francisco was calling Station WGM.

On account of atmospheric disturbances and interference by other stations in Atlanta the calls from San Francisco were received with some difficulty; however, they were heard and at times plainly distinguishable.

Thus a new record was set in radiotelephony.

After the conversation with San Francisco, Operators Shropshire and Adair continued to talk back and forth. As daylight came, the Sweeney

CALLS PROBE ATTEMPT AT WHITEWASHING

But Committee Votes to Continue Investigation and Subpoenas Keller to Testify on Stand.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, December 14.—Representative Keller, of Minnesota, refused today to participate further in the hearings before the house judiciary committee on the impeachment charges brought by him against Attorney-General Daugherty. Characterizing the hearings as a "comic opera performance" he declared he would be untrue to his responsibility as a member of the house if he assisted further in "a barefaced attempt to whitewash Harry M. Daugherty."

Immediately after he announced his withdrawal, the committee voted to go on with the hearings; to subpoenae Mr. Keller as a witness, put him under oath and question him as to the basis of his charges of high crimes and misdemeanors against the attorney-general. Later he was summoned formally to appear before the committee tomorrow morning.

This turn in the proceedings came suddenly and was attended by a tumult and uproar seldom witnessed in a congressional room. After absenting himself much of the day, Mr. Keller appeared with a typewritten statement and announced he desired to read it. He was refused the opportunity but later made public the statement, which dealt in detail with his reasons for refusing to go on and embodied a demand that the committee favorably report his resolution to the house so that he might present his evidence "to an unbiased committee in the proper way."

Reiterates Charges.

"I reiterate now," the statement said, "that I am in possession of evidence ample to prove Harry M. Daugherty guilty of all of the high crimes and misdemeanors with which I have charged him."

Mr. Keller came into the committee room after a brief suspension of the hearing, requested by Jackson S. Ralston, counsel for Mr. Keller, so that he might confer with the Minnesota representative. When Mr. Keller asked to be heard, Paul Howland, counsel for Mr. Daugherty, demanded that the committee proceed with the hearing in the regular order agreed on unless Mr. Keller desired to give testimony, in which event he should be sworn.

Announcing that he did not have to be sworn, Mr. Keller said his statement had to do with the "conduct of this hearing," and he demanded the right to read it.

"Is it your object to lecture the committee?" inquired Representative Goodykontz, of West Virginia.

"I may," was the response.

into which Chairman Volstead broke with a direction to Mr. Keller to "sit down."

"I refuse to sit down," shouted the Minnesota member.

"I want to read this letter and I submit it to you now," he went on as he strode rapidly to Mr. Volstead's desk upon which he laid the letter.

"Look here," shouted the chairman, "you haven't any right to control this proceeding; the committee controls it."

As Mr. Keller insisted on being heard he again was ordered by Mr. Volstead to take his seat.

"Do you refuse to hear me?" shouted Mr. Keller.

"Well, we will have you sworn—you can't bullyrag this committee," the chairman returned.

"It is improper for you to say that," rejoined Keller. "I will say to you now that if I can not be heard on this statement I refuse to proceed anymore in this hearing. Nor do I expect to present any more evidence. I am through with you unless I can present this statement."

Volstead Gets Warm.

"That is just exactly what we expected from you from the start," declared Volstead. "Mr. Clerk, give us a subpoenae for Mr. Keller and let the sergeant-at-arms serve it on him. He is insulting this committee and trying to run it to suit himself."

Attorney Ralston then announced that in view of the contents of the letter submitted by Mr. Keller, "there is nothing for me to do but withdraw my appearance from the committee, which I do."

Representative Yates, republican, Illinois, declared that Keller's course was "a grandstand play, so staged and intended." Several other members broke into the general discussion to say that the hearings should go on and that Mr. Keller should be summoned and required to tell about his knowledge concerning his charges against Mr. Daugherty.

Mr. Howland also urged that the proceedings go forward, declaring the attorney-general had a right to demand it.

To Continue Hearing.

Finally the matter was put to a vote and the motion to continue carried, Chairman Volstead remarking that if Mr. Keller can't produce evidence we will go on as best we can."

Untermyer Letter.

In his statement addressed to the committee, Mr. Keller said he had made his decision to have nothing further to do with "these whitewashing proceedings" after consultation with his advisers, among them Samuel Untermyer, of New York. Along with his statement, he made public a letter from Mr. Untermyer, who, writing under date of yesterday, said "he must refuse absolutely to have any connection with this manifestly biased, prejudiced "whitewashing performance."

Mr. Untermyer wrote that when he "realized the extraordinary way in which the committee was acting and was asked to attend the hearings, I refused to do so and advised your friends who consulted me to urge you to immediately withdraw from the proceedings and to await an opportunity for a full and fair investigation before an impartial tribunal that would have a public responsibility and would not be so largely composed of 'lame ducks.'"

"I have sufficient confidence in the public intelligence and sense of fair play," the letter concluded, "to believe that the people will approve your action in refusing to go further before this committee." Renewing in his letter to the committee his complaint about the postponement of the hearings from last September 18 to December 8, Mr. Keller charged that the postponement had been taken to such a time "as the committee knew in advance that my chief adviser, Mr. Samuel Untermyer, would not be able to be in attendance."

Ten Complaints.

Mr. Keller then set forth ten specific complaints against committee action. These included:

That every important decision by the committee as to procedure has been made in secret and without opportunity for himself or his counsel to be heard in advance.

That these secret decisions had operated to restrict him in presenting his evidence in the order in which it could be most "expeditiously and effectively" presented and that also they had taken from him the right to call his witnesses without first notifying the committee as to what they would testify.

That the committee had failed to comply with his request for the presentation of documents from the justice and other federal departments, so that he might obtain from them in advance important evidence in support of his charges.

"Secret" Methods.

That the committee had "arrogated" to itself the right to determine what documents should or should not be admitted into evidence by a "secret examination" of such documents.

That the committee had announced that it would "in secret and without opportunity, for hearing or argument, correct the official record" by striking out such testimony as the committee might deem irrelevant.

That the committee had "one rule of procedure for the defense and another rule for the prosecution."

That the hearing room at all times had been "crowded with official and unofficial representatives of the accused attorney-general; that some of these agents have looked over my shoulder and have surrounded my clerks and associates in the room and spied upon their conversations and interfered with their effort to assist me."

Bias Indicated.

That the record of the hearings "is full of remarks by members of the committee and indicates bias and prejudgment of the case."

Before Mr. Keller announced his withdrawal the committe completed the hearing of testimony on the second of the fourteen specifications that alleged failure to enforce the safety appliance acts. Thomas Stephenson, counsel for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, and Arthur Lovell, vice counsel of that organization, testified as to defective motive power on the railroads and their efforts to obtain enforcement of the safety appliance laws by the department of justice.

Both of the witnesses declared that their organization had no part in the impeachment proceedings and Mr. Stephenson said he had no reason to believe that Mr. Daugherty was not "ready, willing and anxious" to assist in every way in his power to enforce the laws.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, an assistant general, called as a witness for Mr. Daugherty, told of the continuing efforts of her division of the justice department to which complaints from the railroad brotherhoods had been referred to obtain evidence to bring court action. She declared that court investigations showed there had been improvement in inspection of locomotives, particularly on the roads most complained about.

STORIES FROM FRISCO TELL OF RECORD.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

San Francisco, December 14.—San Francisco and Atlanta, Ga., established radio telephone communication last night in what is believed to be a record feat for a two-way conversation on the air. In the same test complete communication was established between San Francisco and Kansas City, Mo., on extended conversation traveling both ways with the same ease as over a telephone.

KFDB, the station of the Mercantile Trust company, of California, located on Telegraph Hill, San Francisco, using its experimental call 6XB talked at 3 o'clock this morning with 9XV, the experimental station of the Sweeney Automobile school, at Kansas City.

After an exchange of pleasantries, Kansas City, Mo., an extended conversation of The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., had been trying to get Telegraph Hill, San Francisco. The local station tuned in for WGM and the Atlanta station returned its call letters to San Francisco. The distance between Atlanta and San Francisco is approximately 2,500 miles airline.

BY UNITED NEWS.

San Francisco, Cal., December 14.—The Atlanta Constitution, the Mercantile Trust company, of San Francisco, and the Sweeney Automobile school of Kansas City, Mo., held a three-cornered conversation by radio at 4 a. m. Thursday.

The voices from Atlanta were heard clearly in the radio room of the bank. The distance between the two points is approximately 2,500 miles, airline.

This is believed to be the first time in the history of radiotelephony that a two-way conversation has been held over such a long distance.

Ideal wether conditions enabled the local station to pick up the Sweeney Auto School station, Kansas City, Mo., but while discussing weather conditions with the Kansas City station, Atlanta broke in and discussion turned to weather conditions in Georgia.

The Mercantile Trust company station, one of the largest on the coast, is situated on the top of Telegraph Hill, one of the largest hills of San Francisco. It is used principally to broadcast commercial news.

GERMANY ON EDGE OF ECONOMIC RUIN

questions, it was explained, will of itself aid in restoring confidence in Germany both internally and abroad because there can be no settlement except on a basis on which Germany can accomplish the agreement.

The continued dragging out of the reparations negotiations has served to reduce Germany's international trade, both buying and selling, almost to nothingness, it was said, this in turn, it was shown, has caused an appreciable slowing down in manufacturing with the added unemployment and the resultant loss of purchasing power within the nation.

As a result of the statement by Mr. Bonar Law, there was renewed discussion here of the suggestion made several times in Europe recently regarding a foreign loan by Germany and it was the opinion of some administration officials that such a program might save the country from the impending crisis. One official said however, it would require a billion and a half dollars to accomplish this purpose, although he did not expect to see the amount called for in one lump sum even if such a plan were attempted.

It was made clear that this government could have no part in such a program of financing, although some of its officials believed the proposition one basically sound.

The loan, it is explained, would provide Germany with money to buy food when she reaches the point where her stocks are exhausted and funds are no longer available for that purpose within the republic. Otherwise, it was said, when the three quarters of the years' supply of food were used up, none could tell what would happen.

ASKS $70,000,000 FOR FAMINE RELIEF.

Washington, December 14.—A resolution, reciting that widespread starvation prevails among the seventy million people of Germany and Austria and proposing an appropriation of $70,000,000 for relieving famine conditions in these countries, was introduced in the house today by Representative Newton, republican, Massachusetts.

The resolution provides that the fund be expended for food supplies in this country to be distributed by the American Red Cross and similar organizations in Germany and Austria.

Introduced in behalf of twenty-one members of congress, the resolution recited that unless relief is extended immediately "hundreds of thousands if not millions will die of hunger and cold during the coming winter."

Bread riots already have occurred in a number of German cities, the resolution continued, "60 per cent of the children of the two countries are undernourished, and the death rate from tuberculosis, stomach trouble and other diseases, has increased to an alarming extent."

Grain Necessary.

The resolution declared that the allied reparations commission had estimated 2,000,000 tons of grain would be necessary to prevent starvation in Germany, and that with the low value of the mark twice the present circulation of paper money in the nation would be required to pay for it.

In a statement accompanying the resolution, Mr. Newton said that under the terms of the peace treaty Germany had been required to relinquish milk cows, heifers, goats and sheep essential to her food supply, and that in addition the great bulk of her coal was being taken to France and Belgium, with a consequent shutdown of factories.

"We are a Christian nation," Mr. Newton said, "and our religion teaches charity, even unto an enemy, and while Germany and Austria were our enemies, they are now our fallen foe, and I am sure that America is not willing to see their helpless women and children die of cold and starvation.

Not War Guilty.

"The people who are now suffering in Germany and Austria are not the people who started the war, and they had no control over its conduct."

Quoting President Wilson as having said that the United States had no quarrel with the German people, the statement continued:

"Our government continued during the war, to pledge its sympathy for the people of Germany and to denounce the militarism and ambition of the Hohenzollern monarchy. The morale of the German army broke down; they drove out the kaiser and set up a republic resembling our own. Surely now we should not abandon them in their distress; for to do so would drive them to bolshevism. If we force the German power of industry, organization, chemistry, military discipline and skill into the resources and man-power of Russia the result to the rest of the world may prove disastrous."

Mr. Newton cited relief measures by the United States in behalf of China, Armenia, Belgium, France, Russia and the Balkan states, declaring the country should not now "permit women and children in Germany and Austria to die of cold and hunger."

BROWN MADE HEAD OF REALTY BOARD

min D. Watkins, representative to the national board, and the following directors:

Marion C. Kiser, H. F. West, R. R. Otis, W. S. Ansley, Alvin Cates, Oscar Mills, Forrest Adair Jr., Henry B. Scott and Frank Liebman. The new officers will be installed in January.

Recommendation that the board acquire an office of its own for the use of Miss Bradford, its assistant secretary, was made in the report of President Wight.

Make Recommendations.

Other recommendations made by officers and committees included the following:

That the "Own-Your-Own-Home" exposition, which was staged so successfully last spring, be repeated in 1923;

That the present associate membership of twenty-eight be increased to at least 100;

That the board support the movement to establish a large park near the congested section of the city; and

That the board increase its revenue by raising the membership dues.

The treasurer's report showed that all operating expenses for 1922 have been paid and that a substantial cash balance is on hand.

CONTRACT PLANS HUGE OIL SUPPLY FOR PACIFIC FLEET

Washington, December 14.—A huge fuel oil supply for the Pacific fleet will be built up, an extensive tract of country developed, and facilities for handling oil increased, and the government will get immediate benefit of royalties from naval reserve No. 1 in California, as a result of the extension today of a contract between the government and the Pan-American Petroleum & Transportation Co., it was said after announcement of the change was made by Secretary Denby.

The company, which was given "preferential rights to further leases" in the reserve under the original contract, is required by today's agreement immediately to drill offset wells to prevent draining of the reserve... and construct and fill great oil tanks at Pearl harbor, the new clauses involving expenditure by the company of "at least between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000," according to E. L. Doheny, head of its controlling interests.

The "supplementary contract," Mr. Doheny said, amounts to an "advance of possible royalties to the government totaling between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000."

WHITE PROVISION COMPANY BUYS CHAMPION CATTLE

Nashville, Tenn., December 14.—One of the spectacular features of Nashville's sixth annual fat stock exposition, which closed today with the auction sale of all the exhibits, was the liberal buying on the part of W. H. White, Jr., president of the White Provision company, of Atlanta. Mr. White bought the grand champion car load at $12.80 per hundred and also bought six other loads of cattle. He also bought the grand champion car lot of hogs at $9.20 per hundred and the remainder of the hogs that were on exhibit, paying liberal prices for everything. Mr. White said that while his heart was with Atlanta and the producers of Georgia, he fully appreciated the great impetus that was given to the production of better live stock by these expositions, and that he was willing to support any fat stock exposition in the south at any time.

COLUMBUS LEGION WANTS NEW MEMBERS

Columbus, Ga., December 14—(Special.)—Charles S. Harrison post of the American Legion is conducting a drive for one thousand members, seeking to retain the distinction of being the largest post in Georgia. Many new members were secured today.

Comer K. of P. Elect.

Comer, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—At the last regular meeting of Comer lodge No. 154, K. of P., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. P. Moon, C. C.; H. T. Hopkins, V. C.; Coil Cox, prelate; J. A. Sims, K. of R. & S. & M. E.; W. A. Rowe, M. F.; J. E. Cook, M. W.; J. H. Cooper, M. A.; J. R. Turner, I. G.; H. Moscow, O. G. These new officers were installed at the same meeting.

Turks Are Firm For Deportation Of Greek Primate

While Conciliatory on Other Points, Insist Church Head Must Go.

Lausanne, December 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Although Turkey was conciliatory today on the great question of accepting some form of supervision from without on the general treatment of the Christian populations inhabiting Turkey, she proved adamant in insisting upon the deportation from Constantinople of the supreme patriarch of the Greek Orthodox church.

This is one of the most important issues of the Lausanne conference. Around it all centers the historical and religious differences between Christianity and Mohammedism. Since the Turks consider Constantinople their sacred city they resent that its soil should serve as the permanent seat of the pontiff of the Greek Christian church. They maintain that Athens or Rome or some other avowedly Christian center should be chosen as his place of residence.

At the meeting of the sub-commission on the exchange of populations this afternoon, the allied delegates somewhat differently brought up the question of the Greek patriarch, knowing full well the dangers surrounding any discussion of this delicate religious problem. Immediately the Ottoman representative arose and insisted that the partiarch must go, because he had been mixng in politics to the detriment of the Ottoman state.

A debate of considerable asperity ensued. The Greek delegate warned the sub-commission that Greece would never agree to the deportation of the patriarch and probably would refuse to sign any treaty which authorized such a step. The meeting was somewhat hastily adjourned, but another attempt to reach an agreement will be made in a day or two.

Although there are five orthodox patriarches in the orient, it is the patriarch in Constantinople who has always been given the rank of primate, because he has resided for centuries in the ancient capital of the Byzantine empire.

By announcing today her intention of joining the league of nations as soon as peace is signed at Lausanne, Turkey virtually admitted she would accept the league of nations' supervision over the Christian population in Turkey. The powers have been advocating the appointment of a special international commission to exercise control over the status of the Greeks, Armenians and other Christians in Turkey, but are happy over Turkey's willingness to accept supervision by the league.

The subcommission for the study of the future administration of the straits, of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus is making progress, despite the several points still remaining unadjusted. Today's developments, despite the Turk's implacability on the question of the patriarch and the exchange of population, has created the impression that peace really will be signed at Lausanne.. Lord Curzon said he expected Turkey would join the league of nations in a few weeks, which means that the Lausanne document, barring the unexpected, should be drafted and disposed of before the middle of January.

RAIL POLICEMAN IS THROWN FROM TRAIN BY HOBOES

Thomasville, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—C. P. Ayers of this city, local police sergeant of the Atlantic Coast Line was taken to the railrond hospital in Waycross yesterday afternoon to be treated for bruises sustained by being thrown from a freight train by three hoboes who were stealing a ride.

The officer had heard that the hoboes were on the train and they were evidently on the lookout for him also. Finding that he was on board the train, which was a long through freight and was going through it looking for them, they managed to seize him when he came near where they were and threw him off, just as the train was passing over a trestle between Thomasville and Boston.

Fortunately for Mr. Ayers he fell in some soft mud and although very much bruised up and suffering a great deal, he sustained no dangerous injuries. The hoboes managed to escape from the train which was going very slowly, but one of them was captured in Boston later and is here in jail.

GARAGE AT GRIFFIN CHANGES OWNERSHIP

Griffin, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The beautiful new garage building formerly occupied by the Automotive company and now occupied by B. B. Brown's Ford garage, changed hands Wednesday morning, when Ezra Mann purchased the building from Haskell Bass. The building, one of the finest of the kind in the state, was built at the estimated cost of between $55,000 and $60,000.

The property was purchased as an investment, and the present occupants will not be disturbed by the change in ownership.

MERCHANTS PREPARE FOR ANNUAL MEETING

A special committee, headed by Ivan E. Allen, has been appointed by the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association to draft plans for the annual meeting of the association at the Capital City club Thursday evening, January 25. An elaborate menu, special hall decorations and a musical program are planned.

Negotiations are now under way to bring to Atlanta at that time a figure of international prominence who will deliver to the business men of this section through the merchants' association a message that will prove deeply instructive and entertaining.

A special nominating committee appointed at the November meeting of the association still is considering selection of officers for 1923. Their recommendations will be submitted and voted upon at the annual meeting. For the first time last year the occasion was thrown open to the wives and lady friends of the members and this will be duplicated this year.

The members of the association report results from the "Shop Early-Mail Early" campaign inaugurated about ten days ago by the postoffice. The merchants have been co-operating fully with the postal authorities by displaying placards bearing the inscription "Shop Early-Mail Early" in their windows. This suggestion has been a decided service to the buying public, according to association officials.

FRANKS WILL SPEAK TO CIVITANS TODAY

E. T. Franks, member of the federal board of vocational education, will deliver a ten-minute address Friday to the Civitan club. He will discuss the effect of vocational education on the upbuilding of the community and nation. The club meets at 12:30 o'clock at the chamber of commerce hall.

Louisiana and Oregon Executives Denounce Masked Organization.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., December 14.—Prohibition and the Ku Klux Klan were considered prominently at the fourteenth annual conference of governors at sessions today and tonight.

Governor John M. Parker, of Louisiana, in an address late today declared prohibition was a flat failure and denounced the Ku Klux Klan. He was joined in his attack on the secret organization by Governor Ben W. Olcott, of Oregon, who referred to the klan in an address tonight as a national menace.

The Louisiana governor said he referred to the subject of prohibition because of the intention of President Harding to call the governors in conference next month "regarding the matter of prohibition enforcement." Declaring that prohibition was almost a farce, he said it was infinitely better to abolish the saloon, permit light wines and beer to be sold, and have the government regulate the manufacture and distribution of liquor with penitentiary sentences for those who defied clear and explicit liquor laws. Both the prohibition question and the Ku Klux Klan, Mr. Parker said, were black clouds threatening law and order.

Says Klan Spreads.

The klan, he continued, was spreading over the United States, and working under mask and cowl was rising supreme to law and order. He asked that the governors put themselves on record at the conference as advocating that America should be ruled by her judiciary and not by an invisible klan; that no masked men should be allowed to parade the streets; and that federal legislation be enacted requiring secret organizations to file semi-annually with the department of justice sworn lists of their memberships.

"The boast of the K. K. K." said the governor, "is a boast of 100 per cent Americanism, but not once has the klan offered assistance to the department of justice or tendered information to officers enforcing law and order."

Governor Olcott challenged the klansmen to unmask.

"It is largely a political organization," he said, "founded for certain objects and purposes. Let it be specific. Let it throw down its gage of battle in the open lists, so the tournament may be fought under the eyes of all mankind.

Oregon Experiences.

"In Oregon we have had an example of what may become a national crisis. We have seen the injunctions of our forefathers disobeyed; we have seen class arrayed against class; neighbor against neighbor; we have seen families divided; communities split; we have seen communities where for years nothing but peace and amity had existed torn into contending factions, where men went around with guns, where deeds of violence were perpetrated under the guise of law enforcement, and where all that once had been peace, harmony and trustfulness was turned into suspicion and hatred.

"Are these things to spread, or are they to die under a resurrection of common sense? Is the heart of America to be true to first principles, or is it to beat to new and strange ideals and follow false gods to destruction?

"When I refer to what I consider one of the gravest menaces ever confronting our national or civic life, I refer to the Ku Klux Klan."

Governor E. Lee Trinkle, of Virginia, was another speaker at tonight's session. He described the operation of the budget system in his state.

BEAUDRY TO BE HOST TO FELLOW DEALERS

Earnest G. Beaudry, head of the Beaudry Motor company, will be host to his fellow Ford and Lincoln dealers and members of the Ford Motor company organization, at luncheon at 1 o'clock today at the Capital City club. Mr. Beaudry states that the gathering was an informal meeting of a fraternal nature and that preparations had been made for about twenty guests.

W. W. Mitchell, manager of the Atlanta branch of the Ford Motor company; Sam Murray, his assistant; W. B. Fitzgerald, H. E. Spangler and O. P. Lucas will be present, as will be every Ford dealer in Atlanta.

LYNCHING CONDEMNED BY NEGRO CONFERENCE

Governor Is Asked to Probe Exodus of Negroes From Georgia.

Resolutions condemning lynching, commenting on the migrations of negroes from the state of Georgia, and sponsoring better educational facilities among the negroes were passed Thursday at a mass-meeting, incidental to the C. M. E. conference in progress at the Butler Street C. M. E. church of Atlanta.

Bishop R. S. Williams, president of the conference, presided, Bishop J. S. Flipper, of the A. M. E. church, presided over part of the conference that followed the mass meeting.

The principal addresses Thursday were made by J. A. Bray, educational secretary of the conference; W. B. Hill, of the department of education; Jesse O. Thomas, field secretary of the National Urban league; J. A. Martin, editor of the Sunday school publications of the C. M. E. church; Dr. W. B. Wragg, of the American Bible society, of New York; W. B. Wilson, C. A. Wingfield, W. B. Ward; J. A. Ragan, Lee O'Neil and H. D. Stallworth.

Better Schools Urged.

The speakers all emphasized the point that when better common schools are secured, and a better trained ministry is put in the field, the race problems will cease to assume serious proportions.

The resolutions passed at the mass meeting follow:

The leading colored citizens of Atlanta and Georgia are watching with much concern the movement of large numbers of negroes of all parts of the state northward.

We appreciate the difficulty of their becoming adjusted, especially at this season of the year to the economic and social life of the urban centers in the north and west to which most of them are going.

This spontaneous exodus of large numbers of colored people, many of whom are substantial farmers, as tenants and landowners, has stimulated a desire on the part of the thinking members of the race to inquire into the reason for their going.

It has been stated through the public press that their leaving is occasioned by the presence of the boll weevil and other seasonal depressions of an agricultural nature.

There is a feeling abroad in the minds of a large number of the leaders of our group that all the facts incident to this general and spontaneous exodus, are not covered in the statement in reference to the boll weevil, and that a thorough inquiry should be made by an agency created for that purpose to ascertain all of the facts.

Appeal to Governor.

Therefore, be it resolved, That the governor, Thomas W. Hardwick, be requested to appoint a representative commission composed of an equal number of substantial, fair-minded white and colored citizens, to investigate the cause of so many negroes in all parts of the state leaving in such large numbers during the past few months and at the present time, as a basis of eliminating the cause thus discovered in so far as it relates to protection of life, liberty and limb as well as industrial and economic readjustment.

That the attitude of the white state Baptist convention and the women's inter-racial relation commission of the Methodist church, south, as representatives of the Christian church, comes at a time when the church can no longer hold its peace upon the direful acts of the mobs in the taking of human life; and is therefore calculated to strengthen the faith of the negro in the attempts of our southern whites to wipe out this, the most heinous crime of history.

This question of lynching and mob violence is of deeper concern to us than the method of eradication. And what is more grave than disputed rights as to national and state authorities in the matter, is the fact that lynching increases as to numbers and progresses in its brutality while state and national government each, seems powerless to check this awful evil, and we call upon all religious organizations, the pulpit and press to follow the example of the state Baptist convention and the women's inter-racial commission in arousing sentiment against these evils.

That we endorse the Rosenwall program of the common schools in Georgia and the south and call upon each minister to give every encouragement to the state authorities and their agents in attempting to build these schools throughout Georgia for our needy people.

HEMPEL CONCERT TICKETS WILL GO ON SALE SATURDAY

The sale of tickets to the Frieda Hempel concert at the Auditorium next Monday night, December 18, will open Saturday morning, at 9 o'clock at Cable Piano company on Broad street. The indication is that there will be a heavy demand for seats to hear this popular singer in her famous Jenny Lind concert, and those who want the best locations should be on hand early.

Tickets may be secured at the Cable company Saturday and Monday until the close of the office Monday evening, when the sale will be transferred to the Auditorium box office. The price of seats range from $2.50 for box, arena seats and four rows in the dress circle; $1.75 for remainder of dress circle and part of balcony, and $1.00 for other balcony seats, which are all good ones.

Coenraad V. Bos, pianist, and Louis P. Fritze, both widely known musicians, will be the assisting artists appearing with Miss Hempel. Mr. Bos, famous Dutch pianist, is said to be the king of accompanists, and his solo work places him among the first rank of concert pianists. Mr. Fritze, a highly accomplished flutist, was formerly with the orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera company, and is also a member of the Philharmonic orchestra. Both artists, in addition to accompanying Miss Hempel, will play a group of solos.

GRESHAM MADE HEAD OF ATLANTA POLICE RELIEF

It is now President John H. Gresham, if you please.

And it came about through the election Thursday of officers of the Atlanta Police Relief association, which proved a spirited contest, three candidates striving for the honor. Officer Gresham received as many votes as both of his opponents put together.

The other candidates for the office were Station Lieutenant T. D. Shaw and Guy Lindsey, of the detective department. These had announced Wednesday night, Officer Gresham being the eleventh-hour candidate, and really, so to speak, a "dark horse." Gresham campaign managers, Otis Hewell and John D. Wood, worked hard in his behalf.

Police Captain A. J. Holcombe, who has served the association for a long period of years as secretary and treasurer, was re-elected without opposition.

MILLS B. LANE WILL MAKE TOUR OF EUROPE

Mills B. Lane, of Savannah, Ga., president of the Citizens & Southern bank, who was in the city this week conferring with officers of the institution here, has announced his intentions of going abroad and touring Europe and the Holy Land.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. Lane. The trip will be made chiefly for pleasure but a careful survey of economic conditions will be made by Mr. Lane.

Man Is Sentenced For Effort to Kill His Atlanta Wife

Jacksonville Postal Clerk Gets Five Years for Shooting Wife.

Jacksonville, Fla., December 14.—James H. Wilson, fifty, a local postal clerk, who pleaded guilty in criminal court yesterday to a charge of assault with intent to commit murder in connection with the shooting of his wife here several weeks ago, has been sentenced to serve five years in the state prison. Wilson and his wife had been separated and Mrs. Wilson had gone to her former home in Atlanta. She returned here and filed suit for divorce on the ground of cruelty and threats to do her bodily injury. Wilson intercepted her a few days later on the street before the home of friends with whom she was stopping and shot her with a pistol, inflicting what at first was believed to be a fatal wound. It developed the next day that the weapon was government property when a post office official appeared at the police station and requested that it be delivered to him.

Relatives of the Mrs. Wilson mentioned in the above dispatch could not be located in Atlanta Thursday.

Grand Representatives Of Odd Fellows' Lodges Will Meet in Atlanta

Grand representatives of the Odd Fellows from Georgia and neighboring jurisdictions have been summoned by Judge Lucian J. Easton, grand sire, of St. Joseph, Mo., to meet in Atlanta January 8 for a two-day conference in subjects of importance to the order.

Local Odd Fellows are said to be planning a public meeting in honor of Judge Easton's visit and prominent Odd Fellows throughout the southeast are expected here to confer with him.

CLEMENCEAU WRITES TO ATLANTA CHILD

"I am touched to the heart by your little letter, and I long to come to Atlanta and kiss you in the memory of your dear father, but that, I am afraid, is impossible."

This is a free translation of part of a letter from Clemenceau, the "Tiger of France," in reply to little Roberta Meriguet, French war orphan, who was brought to Atlanta in 1915 when only two years old, to live with her grandmother, Madame Aline Cousins, a well known modiste of this city. The letter was received here from St. Louis, and in another part of the letter the little girl is admonished to never forget the cause for which her father died.

FAITHFUL JANITOR AT DAHLONEGA DEAD

Dahlonega, Ga., December 14.—"Professor" Roberts is dead!

This announcement will cause a pang of sorrow in the hearts of more than six thousand former students of the North Georgia Agricultural college here. During the past 33 years "Professor" Roberts has served the college as janitor. He was ever a friend of the boys.

As his remains, escorted by the faculty and cadets, passed under the shadow of the belfry, the bell which he had rung faithfully for a third of a century tolled for him a sad farewell.

CONVICT KINLAW FOR STRIKE DISORDERS

Was Charged With Attack on Railroad Worker in Waycross.

Waycross, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—A verdict of guilty of assault and battery was returned against R. P. Kinlaw, charged with having a part in an attack upon J. T. Ross, general inspector of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad company during the disorders connected with the strike in this city on July 17, and was sentenced to 12 months on the chaingang or pay a fine of $350, by Judge J. I. Summerall. The indictment against Kinlaw charged him with assault with intent to murder, and the fact that the jury reduced the charge to that of assault and battery proves that the defense established a doubt in the minds of the jury of the intent to murder phase of the indictment.

The jury returned a sealed verdict to Judge Summerall at the opening of court this morning, after deliberating during the greater part of the night. D. M. Parker and Solicitor-General Allen B. Spence represented the state in the case, while Jerome Crawley represented the defense.

Kinlaw, who was a striking shopman, and others were arrested in connection with an alleged assault on Ross July 17. Ross was taken from the steps of the local railroad restaurant and put into a car, according to evidence introduced, driven five miles from the city and beaten with billiard cues. Four or five shots were fired at him, it was stated by witnesses.

R. E. SKINNER IS DEAD

Body Will Be Taken to Norcross Today.

R. E. Skinner, 53, of 662 East North avenue died Thursday morning at the residence. Mr. Skinner was a representative of the Delker Brothers Buggy company, of Henderson, Kentucky. He had made his home in Atlanta since October, having come here from Norcross, Ga., his former home.

He was a member of the Yaarab Temple of the Shrine, and the Scottish Rite Masons. Funeral services will be held today at noon at the residence. The body will be taken to Norcross in the afternoon for interment.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters; Mrs. Hoyle S. Wilson, and Miss Mary Skinner, and one son, Frank Skinner, all of Atlanta.

CHILD MAY LOSE ARM AS ACCIDENT RESULT

Little four-year-old Eula Pearl Payne, of 114 Griffin street, will probably lose an arm as the result of injuries received Thursday afternoon when struck by a train of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic railroad on the Ashby street crossing. She was taken to Grady hospital where surgeons stated she was in a serious condition.

Details as to how the accident occurred have not been ascertained, although it is claimed by several witnesses that the little girl attempted to cross when the train was too close to her, and that it knocked her down. The train did not run over the arm, it being broke, it is claimed, from the fall.

JEWS OF ATLANTA CELEBRATE FEAST OF REDEDICATION

Hanukah, the Jewish feast of the lights, began at sundown Thursday, and will be observed by all Jews in Atlanta and throughout the world. Friday night special services will be held at the temple of the Hebrew Benevolent congregation at the corner of Richardson and Pryor streets. The annual Hanukah play will be given by the children of the Sunday school at 8 o'clock on Saturday night. Rabbi David Marx will address the regular open forum meeting at the temple at 11:15 o'clock Sunday morning.

Hanukah is the feast of the rededication of the temple in celebration of the Maccabees' victory over the Syrians who had defiled the temple. It has been celebrated every year through the centuries since the event.

MORRIS PLAN COMPANY WILL ERECT OWN HOME

Structure Will Be Built at 98 North Pryor Street.

The Morris Plan Company of Atlanta, formerly known as the Atlanta Loan and Savings company, will erect its own home at 98 North Pryor street, it was announced Thursday, after the concern purchased a 23x80-foot lot at that address from a client of Brooks Mell. The consideration was $35,000.

The property is now occupied by a two-story brick building. The tenant is the Wynne Pressing club. Details of the new structure have not been announced. The Morris Plan company was formed fourteen years ago by W. Woods White.

DAYLIGHT BANDITS SOUGHT BY POLICE

Two White Men, Unmasked, Hold Up Will Miller and Get $18—Burglaries Reported.

Police and detectives Thursday evening and night combed the city for the two white bandits who held up and robbed Will Miller, driver of a produce truck for W. D. Turner, of $18. in money at 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

Miller was robbed at Sunset avenue and Chestnut street, in plain view of several pedestrians, he said. The men accosted him, both drawing pistols and ordering him to throw up his hands and keep his mouth shut.

After getting what cash Miller had, the men walked leisurely off a distance of about 150 feet, making a dash in a nearby alley and escaping before the arrival of Call Officers N. E. Pittman and N. P. Parker, who were dispatched to the scene.

Neither of the bandits appeared to be more than 30 years of age, Miller reported to the police. One of them wore a soldier's overcoat and cap, and the other had on a black overcoat with corduroy trousers. His hat was also black.

Other robberies reported to the police Thursday included three burglaries occuring Wednesday night, in which thieves made a large haul in the way of smoking tobaccoes, cigarettes and other articles.

The Southern Transfer company, with quarters in the Central of Georgia railway depot, reported the theft of 10,000 cigarettes of various makes, while 15,000 were stolen from the store of J. G. Pratt, 151 West Mitchell street. Besides the cigarettes, Pratt reported the theft of 200 boxes of snuff, 3 cartons and 15 cans of smoking tobacco, 2 boxes of cigars and a box of candy.

The home of J. B. Sutherland, 21 West Alexander street, was entered by thieves who evidently anticipated the arrival of cold weather, as they took two heavy overcoats. Nothing else was missed.

$30,000 Fire Loss.

Corsicana, Texas, December 14.—Three buildings in Fairfield, Freestone county, were destroyed by fire early today. Origin of the fire was undetermined. The loss was estimated at $30,000.

Hymen Provides Elbert Sheriff Another Deputy

Jack Hailey, Youngest Georgia Sheriff, Weds Childhood Sweetheart Here.

The youngest high sheriff in Georgia, and the scourge of Elbert county moonshiners, has just announced what he declares is the biggest raid in his seven years' experience as a guardian of the peace. He is going to take his captive home with him to the Elbert county jail, where he lives. "She is the highest-powered sunshine still in Georgia," he declared when he introduced her to Atlanta friends Thursday after the successful culmination of the raid.

Young Jack Hailey, 24 years old, sheriff of Elbert county, was married Thursday to Miss Lucille Carpenter, 21, beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Carpenter, of Elberton. Dr. S. R. Belk, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, and former pastor of the Elberton church Mr. Hailey attends, performed the ceremony in his study at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon before a few intimate friends of the couple. They will spend a few days in Atlanta and then return to Elberton, where both were born and where they were sweethearts since childhood.

Sheriff Hailey is the youngest man in Georgia to hold the post he does. He is a son of the late S. N. Hailey, who was sheriff for ten years before he was killed, shot down performing his duty. Young Jack was 17 years old then, and had been one of his father's most dependable deputies. He was too young to run for the place held so honorably by his father, but he was on the ticket of the man whom Elbert county voters elected to fill his father's boots and continued to serve as chief deputy until he attained his majority three years ago and was elected in his own name.

Several hundred moonshine stills and a few murderers are included in Jack Hailey's list of captured offenders. He had, in the course of his service, dodged bullets a number of times, and also a few barbed darts from the bow of Eros, before he and Miss Carpenter decided that the Elbert county jail was too big a place for a young high sheriff to live alone.

LECTURER EXPOUNDS OPTIMISTIC DOCTRINE

One May Always Find a Second Opportunity, Says Christian Scientist.

Loss of one opportunity does not mean that opportunity will never again present itself, it is asserted by Rev. Andrew J. Graham, lecturer of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, Mass., in a lecture made public by the local scientist church Thursday.

Citing the parable of the prodigal son from the Bible, Rev. Graham declares that "there is no past that is irreparable but . . . he must himself arise." The message of the speaker follows in part:

And now, to proceed with the main thought, that is, the supposed power of the past and the destruction of that power through Christian Science. As an example, we cite the case of the Prodigal Son, as it is recorded in St. Luke's gospel. This is the type of the prodigal sons of all ages. The truth revealed in Christian Science follows the prodigal into the far country. There is no place, no condition, where it is not present. It is the Good Shepherd going into the wilderness after the sheep that was lost.

Pessimism Obscures View.

The prodigal's disease is a belief of wasted opportunity; he has left the home of love, separated himself from family and friends, squandered his means and wasted his years. When want and hunger and homesickness attack him, he looks back over a dissipated past and sees no promise of redemption in the present life. The religious teaching to which he has been accustomed promised his forgiveness in this life, but not renewed opportunity. He sees the past as irreparable. So general is the belief that opportunity rejected is never succeeded by fresh opportunity, that even the most loving friends of the prodigal keep fearing and thinking and saying: "He has lost his opportunity." This grevious burden of discouraging thought, to which the prodigal himself contributes, fetters him as with iron chains.

The prodigal's troubles have been the result of a twofold thought. He believed that following his own will would bring satisfaction, and, expectation disappointed, he fell into the slough of despond and experienced despair. Christian Science shows both these conditions to be false, and because false, unreal and subject to destruction. When self-will is cast out and the Christ-thought enters, the prodigal son disappears and the child of God appears. Mary Baker Eddy, on page 497 of the textbook, writes: "We acknowledge God's forgiveness of sin in the destruction of sin and the spiritual understanding that casts out evil as unreal. But the belief in sin is punished so long as the belief lasts."

There is no past that is irreparable, but let no one think he can lie supinely down in the far country and without any hunger or striving of his own be brought back to the land of renewed opportunity and peace. He must himself arise.

Recover by Own Effort

The prodigal in the far country may begin to long to return to the Father's house, and may honestly say: "I will arise and go unto my father;" but he will find it hard to do so without aid. Here the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Christian Science reading rooms, Christian Science practioners, Christian Science lectures, and the Christian Science periodicals are lovingly provided for his help. Through these avenues, many men, happy and blessed today, have come up out of a bitter past into their Father's house.

In that fascinating and edifying allegory, beginning on page 323 of "Miscellaneous Writings," Mrs. Eddy tells how the divine Stranger came down to earth, and meeting a penitent one, said to him: "Wherefore comest thou hither?" The penitent one replied: "'I came hither hoping that I might follow thee whithersoever thou goest;'" and the Stranger said, "'Make thine own way; and if thy strayest listen for the mountain-horn, and it will call thee back to the path that goes upward.'" That is the only way whereby one who has strayed from obedience may be led back to peace and renewed opportunity.

Grow in Image of Christ.

He who is obedient to our Leader is obedient also to our Way-shower, Jesus the Christ. In stern and unremitting watch over himself, yielding loving service to others, one grows into the image of Him who is the same, yesterday, today, and forever. The old past loosens its grip; the future ceases to threaten; the heart leaps up with gratitude, and in the practical performance of everyday duties it becomes true that—

"Earth breaks up, time drops away,
In flows heaven with its new day of endless life."

Time, mortal mind and its history, the past with its mistakes, rejected opportunities, sins, and sickgesses should all go—and go now, for they are unreal. All that is good, true, and beautiful is imperishable. It has always belonged to us. Only discord can be destroyed.

It is our priceless privilege to return to our Father's home, here and now. No belief of old age, chronic diseases, sin, sickness, or even death—no sense of discord in the so-called past should be permitted to grow in thought. They have no place in eternity. And we are in eternity now, because we are where God is.

AUTO OWNERS WILL SEE MOVING PICTURES

A special meeting of the Atlanta Automobile association has been called for tonight at 7 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce building to witness a moving picture entitled "Shop Profits" recently secured by the association for the benefit of its members and all those engaged in the automobile and accessory business in Atlanta and vicinity.

Invitations have been sent out by the Atlanta Automobile association not only to its own members but to a large number of businesses allied to the automobile or accessory business in this section inviting them to attend the meeting.

SHOW BETTER FARMING PICTURES IN DECATUR

Bainbridge, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Dr. Johnston, health commissioner, and Dr. Sawyer, county agent, showed photoplays at 15 school districts last week on better farming. The hog, pig and chicken industry were especially stressed in the pictures. Talks, explaining and emphasizing the benefits of diversified farming along the lines of the chicken and pig were made at each place by the doctors.

Facts About Faces.

(From "The Stiff Lip" by W. L. George.)

No woman's face lasts a man more than a year or two. However beautiful it is, he knows all about it; he may not be sick of it, but he ceases to take an interest in it. So long as one doesn't get repulsive, it doesn't matter what one looks like; you may catch a man with your face, but it's with something else you hold him—with charm, if you've got any, with interest in his immensely important affairs, by making him feel he's a god, your god, and that nobody understands him as you do.

Municipal Court Now Practically Self-Sustaining

Audit of County Books Completed by James L. Respess.

Fulton county's municipal court is practically self-sustaining, it was shown Thursday in the report of James L. Respess, accountant, who has just completed his audit of the county's affairs.

Operating expenses of the court for the fiscal year which ended September 30, were $127,163.13, and the department paid $124,457.95 into the county treasury, it was shown.

The county's total disbursements for the year were $2,615,114.65. Loans amounting to $620,000 were paid during the year, while only $150,000 was borrowed.

The public works department expended $1,141,612.49 on road and street improvements in the city and county. The largest item was the appropriation of $56,363.33 for the improvement of Marietta and Decatur streets.

Incidental expenses totaled $166,769.51, the largest item being $21,270.65 in salaries paid to general officers. Cost of maintaining the county police department was $77,539.

HONEYCUTT JOINS ARMY AND WILL LEAVE FOR TEXAS

Clarence Honeycutt, who came to Atlanta a few days ago broke, ragged and in despair of ever finding his mother and little sister, enlisted in the army Thursday and will leave Friday night for Texas.

Young Honeycutt states that his mother deserted him in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1919, and since then he has spent everything he had searching for her. When he began the search, he stated, he weighed 144 pounds, but when he reached Atlanta he weighed less than 120 pounds, the requirement for the army.

After being quartered at Fort McPherson for a few days, his health improved so that he could pass the medical examination, and Thursday he signed up the final papers which made him a soldier for "Uncle Sam."

RELATIVES OF DUGAN SOUGHT BY POLICE

Police Thursday searched for relatives of an aged man, giving his name as John M. Dugan and his residence as Sevierville, Tenn., who died at the Grady hospital from heart trouble. Dugan told hospital authorities he was 73 years old.

Dugan was found near the Terminal station several days ago and sent to the police station under a charge of vagrancy. He was bound over to the state courts, and while in the Fulton jail awaiting trial suffered the attack.

TRIO SERIOUSLY HURT IN CRASH

Automobile Plunges Off High Bridge With Macon Lawyer and Two School Teachers.

Macon, Ga., December 14.—An automobile containing Troy Davis, former army officer and now a lawyer of this city, and two high school teachers of this city, plunged off a bridge onto the tracks of the Central of Georgia railroad near Marshalville, Ga., tonight. The two teachers, Miss Miriam Sams, instructor of physical culture, and Miss Elizabeth Benton, science teacher, are thought fatally injured. Ambulances rushed to the scene of the accident.

Miss Sams' home was in Jackson, Ga. She was a star athlete at Wesleyan college.

Miss Benton is a member of a prominent family at Monticello, Ga.

The Central of Georgia provided a special train to carry the injured teachers and lawyer from the scene of the accident to this city.

Doctors said that Davis was suffering from shock and bruises. They could find no broken bones.

Of the teachers Miss Sams appeared to be in the worst condition on arrival here and there was doubt as to whether she would recover.

HOUSE ABLAZE, WOMAN CALMLY PREPARES FOR BED

Macon, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The home of Mrs. A. J. Sparks, 317 Adams street, was gutted by fire late tonight, causing a loss of $5,000, covered by insurance.

Mrs. Sparks' son, George Sparks, instructor in journalism at Mercer university, and his wife, discovered the fire when they returned home from downtown. Mrs. Sparks was in the act of retiring for the night in a room downstairs and did not know that the upper story of the house was ablaze.

The Sparks' home was a handsome one, overlooking Tattnall square.

Four-Year-Old Lured to Death By Rabbit Chase

Boy's Body, Dead From Exposure, Found After Thousands Searched for Days.

Junction City, Kan., December 14. A chase for a rabbit is assigned by the playmates of Marvin Koepke, 4 years old, as the lure which led him away from his home Sunday afternoon and to death by exposure while hundreds of persons searched for the child. A file of cavalry from Fort Riley and civilians found the body today in a small ravine about three and a half miles from the Koepke home. Efforts of cavalry, 2,000 civilians and three army airplanes to locate the little boy and proved unsuccessful Monday, as had the efforts of small groups since Monday.

Sunday afternoon Marvin was playing with his sister, Myrtle, 12, and some other children. Two shepherd dogs, belonging to the Koepkes, scented a rabbit. The children followed the dogs across the road. All returned but Marvin, who started to follow the trail.

The children tried to frighten Marvin.

"There are boogers in the hills," one of them said. "You had better not go over there."

But Marvin replied that there were no "boogers" in the daytime and solemnly walked away from them. The children were diverted by their play and Marvin was not missed until an hour later.

Sunday night the temperature dropped to 29 degrees. Monday morning a cold wave swept the country and by nightfall the temperature was 6 degrees above zero.

"ANOTHER WOMAN" HINTED AT TRIAL FOR BRUNER DEATH

Mount Holly, N. J., December 14.—A new element was introduced in the trial of Mrs. Dorothy Brunen and her brother, Harry Mohr, charged with the slaying of "Honest" John T. Brunen, circus owner, in the form of a mysterious unidentified woman.

Mrs. Anna Bauer, one of the three principal witnesses, today said she saw two women at the Brunen home soon after he was shot. One of them was Mrs. Brunen. She did not name the second woman and gave only a meager description of her.

Since Monday there had been reports that a fourth person, probably a woman, would be arrested as conspirator in the alleged plot out of which resulted, it is charged, the slaying of the showman by Charles M. Powell. Powell said he shot Brunen at the instigation of Mrs. Brunen and Mohr. Mrs. Bauer's testimony was the first mention in court of a fourth person.

Hazel Brunen, 18-year-old daughter of the circus owner, and Mrs. Marie Powell, wife of the slayer, were the other principal witnesses today.

Hazel resumed her testimony on cross-examination and was questioned chiefly as for her reasons in taking the stand against her step-mother, who, she said, had been her confidante. The girl denied she had any mercenary motive when asked by Walter Keown, counsel for defense, if she would have testified against Mrs. Brunen if her allowance had been continued. The allowance was cut off two months ago.

PLAN NEW CHARGES FOR ALL COTTON IN TRANSIT SOUTH

Memphis, Tenn., December 14.—Railroads have under consideration a change in charges on cotton in transit which will affect all points in the south, James S. Davant, commissioner of the Memphis freight bureau, announced today. The proposal will be acted upon at the next meeting of the Southern Freight association and contemplates an assessment of a uniform transit charge of three and a half cents per 100 pounds on all cotton, at points south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, and east of the Mississippi, in connection with the warehousing, concentration and reconsignment privilege.

It is proposed by the carriers to apply the transit charge, which will be in addition to all other charges to the outbound weight of the shipments from warehousing or concentration points.

BRADFUTE HEAD OF FARM BUREAU FEDERATION NOW

Chicago, December 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Election by acclamation of Oscar E. Bradfute, of Xenia, Ohio, president of the American farm bureau federation, to succeed J. H. Howard, who, condemning politics in the organization, refused to be a candidate again, marked the session here today of the federation's fourth annual convention.

W. H. Walker, of Willows, California, was elected vice president and E. A. O'Neil, Alabama; E. H. Woods, Kentucky, and John T. Orr, Texas, were elected members of the executive committee for the southern region.

$2,627,170 Disbursed In Compensation to Employees of Nation

Washington, December 14.—The United States employee's compensation commission disbursed $2,627,170 from its compensation fund and $156,990 in salaries and expenses in the fiscal year ending last June 30, according to its sixth annual report, made public today.

The major totals disbursed in connection with compensation awards for injuries, illnesses, disabilities and deaths of civil employees of the government while engaged in the performance of their duties were listed as injury compensation $1,169,775; lump sum awards for injury $415,568; medical tratment and supplies $412,712; death compensation $569,390, and lump sum awards in cases of death $13,679. The commission has designated 3,323 physicians the, report showed, to provide service in cases under its jurisdiction in cities and towns where other government agencies have no facilities. Government employees entitled to care under the compensation act to the number of 5,481, the report said, were treated in public health service hospitals in the last fiscal year, and 49,244 received treatment in dispensaries.

"With the decrease in the number of government employees," the report said, "and the approach to normal conditions, the number of injuries reported and claims filed has greatly decreased."

GEORGIA HOTEL MEN HOLD MEET IN MACON

Macon, Ga., December 14.—With delegates from all over the state in attendance, the Georgia State Hotel Men's association opened its sixteenth annual convention this morning.

The convention will be featured by talks by Frank A. K. Boland, attorney for the American Hotel association, and by a radio concert. Tomorrow the delegates will be given a barbecue. The morning session today was devoted to the registration and reception of delegates, the addresses of welcome and responses and appointment of committees. The afternoon session will be taken up with addresses and tonight a complimentary dinner and radio concert will be given.

DEMOREST ELECTION DAY PASSES QUIETLY

Demorest, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The election here today for city officers passed off quietly, though much interest was shown by the voters. One of the largest votes ever cast here was polled, resulting in the election of the following: Mayor, G. M. Sullivan; councilmen, O. E. Flor, Dr. E. H. Lamb, Frank Morgan, C. L. Perey; treasurer, T. D. Williams; the school board, Dr. G. S. Butler, Dr. R. B. Lamb, Mrs. Amy Flor Phillips.

FIVE-WAY DRIVE FUND FALLS SHORT

Abandonment of Charitable Activities in Atlanta Probable If Deficit Is Not Raised.

The five-way drive campaign for charity funds was a miserable failure, Kendall Weisiger, president of the organiztion, stated Thursday.

The drive concluded Wednesday, netted $94,540, of the $242,000 asked for, leaving a deficit of $147,560, figures announced Thursday revealed.

"This means," Mr. Weisiger said, "that the Associated Charities will be forced to abandon its charitable program after January 10, 1923, unless the deficit is raised in the meantime. The anti-tuberculosis society will be unable to conduct its clinic, and the nurses now employed will have to be released; the shop girls who labor through the stifling summer months will be unable to avail themselves of the opportunity to take a summer's rest, which in other years has been made possible by the Y. W. C. A. The Boy Scouts' program will have to be curtailed, and the Travelers' Aid society will be most seriously hampered by the lack of funds."

$12,000 Still Needed.

The yearly audit of the Associated Charities' books shows that the society needs more than $12,000 to finish the work started in 1922, and that a grocery bill totalling $3,000 is still unpaid. The funds secured in the recent drive will clear up the 1922 accounts leaving no 1923 operating fund, it was pointed out.

"The 8,000 destitute cared for annually by the Associated Charities," Mr. Weisiger said, "will suffer greatly as the result of the organization ceasing operations.

"The Y. W. C. A. owes $8,000 to the national organization. The account is of three years' standing. The anti-tuberculosis society was forced to borrow money to launch its Christmas seal campaign, and stand in dire need of financial aid to carry out their operations over the holidays."

Meeting Was Failure.

When the campaign workers foresaw the drive was doomed to failure, Mr. Weisiger said, "a meeting was called last Sunday. It was decided to appeal to 110 Atlantans who could amply afford to contribute liberally to the fund. Invitations to be present at a luncheon Monday were mailed by Rabbi Marx, Father Horton and Dr. Ashby Jones. Places were laid for sixty, it is said, and at the conclusion of the meeting only eleven of the 110 had put in their appearance.

"The public seems wholly unconscious of the fact that these five institutions are their institutions," Mr. Weisiger said. "They do not seem to realize that without their wholehearted support the work cannot be carried on. Although our workers have ceased their operations the five-way association will welcome further contributions."

Division Reports.

The campaign officially ended Thursday night with a meeting of the industrial division in the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. This organization reported $2,986.

The final report meeting of the general campaign committee Thursday noon added $11,104 to the fund. This included a report of $4,333 from the executive committee.

A meeting of the leaders of the campaign organization following the luncheon discussed measures for continuing the work of raising funds for the Associated Charities, the Young Women's Christian association, the Boy Scouts, the Travelers' aid and the Anti-Tubercolisis association.

At the final report luncheon meeting at the Ansley hotel Thursday Charles L. C. Thomas, the general chairman, congratulated the workers on their support during the campaign. He introduced the division chairman who spoke for the working organizations of the campaign.

Expresses Pride.

A. L. Myers expressed the pride of leadership over the splendid work of the men in division A, which he headed. Charles M. Marshall, chairman of division B, said that there was nothing wrong with Atlanta's heart but that she needs education that will make her support a complete social program for the city. H. C. Biglin, spoke for division C.

Mrs. B. M. Boykin, chairman of division D, suggested a continuation of the effort. She declared that thousands of dollars could be raised through a direct mail appeal. Mrs. E. C. Kontz thanked the women of her division for their continued support in the campaign.

Miss Bowie Won.

Miss John Bowie, captain of the business women's team, which won the team championship for the campaign, congratulated her workers for what they had accomplished during the week.

The winning team worked in Mrs. Kontz's division and did much to win the division championship for Mrs. Kontz. Her total for the campaign was $18,109.14. This mark was exceeded only by the executive committee, which reported $26,078.

Charles M. Marshall and A. L. Myers ran a close race for second place. The former won, with $14,353.25, only $6 ahead of his opponent.

Miss Bowie's closest competitor for team honors was Hank Powell, whose campaign total was $5,759. Miss Bowie's total was $5,912.25. Other winners of team honors were C. T. Pottinger, H. C. Biglin and Mrs. H. C. Bickmore.

CONTRACT FOR OPERA CLOSED BY WIRE

subscriptions accepted is fixed at $200.

It was stated that no call would be made on the guarantors until after the opera season and not then except in case the seat sale fails to pay the expenses. Even if there should be a small deficit it would amount to comparatively little to the subscribers.

Directors of the association feel that they succeeded in obtaining one of the greatest programs ever offered here, and are also pleased at the remarkable arrays of singers who will appear in the leading roles.

First in point of interest is the assurance that Mme. Jeritza will come to Atlanta. It was due to the desire of the directors to bring this great singer here that it was necessary to close the contract so quickly with the Metropolitan Opera company. Through the action of the directors the presence of this famous singer in Atlanta in "Thais" and "Tosca" is assured.

Barbara Kemp Coming.

Barbara Kemp, who will arrive in America from Europe in January, will sing in two operas, "Aida" and "L'Africaine." Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci will appear in her favorite opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor."

Another feature of the Atlanta season will be the first appearance here of the new Italian tenor, Sig. Lauri-Volpi, who has been scoring personal triumphs in his own country and in South America in recent engagements.

Next spring three operas will be offered here for the first time, these being "William Tell," "Romeo and Juliette" and "Thais." There has been a demand for "William Tell" for years but this is the first season it has been possible to offer it in Atlanta.

The coming of the new stars and the new operas, however, is by no means taken as anything which will overshadow the work of the eminent singers who have appeared here in recent seasons, notably last year. Virtually the complete list of last year's stars will be here again and the new singers are in some respects added attractions.

Among the old favorites who will sing are Scotti, always a favorite here since the inception of opera; Mme. Lucrezia Bori, whose return last season after several years' absence was a veritable triumph, and a long list of others, including Gigli, Martinelli, De Luca, Danise, Burke, Harrold and other favorites.

GRAND OPERA ASSURED!

The directors of the Atlanta Music Festival association yesterday wired to Colonel William Lawson Peel, now in New York, to close a contract with the Metropolitan Grand Opera company for a week of grand opera in Atlanta next April, on the basis of the required $120,000 guarantee!

This means that grand opera for Atlanta and the south next year is assured.

It does not mean, however, that the guarantee was subscribed in full by individual guarantors as a result of the recent general appeal to the public to that end, for, when the time limit expired—which was yesterday at noon—the total of the subscriptions in hand was still short of the amount required by several thousand dollars.

But, rather than to let it go out to the world that Atlanta was unable this year to make the requisite guarantee, and for the sake of the good name of this city and of the south, the Atlanta Music Festival association directors themselves agreed to stand responsible for the deficiency in order that they might instruct their chief, Colonel Peel, to "close!"

Each of these directors already was, of course, a heavy guarantor on his own personal account; and all of them underwrote the deficiency as a group. And they did it in a spirit of faith in the people of Atlanta and of the south, confident that with a little more time the amount will be absorbed by subscriptions from individual citizens whose names are not now on the list of guarantors, thus relieving them of the additional burden which they magnanimously assumed.

If this deficiency amount does not come in, the directors will, of course, have to stand back of their excess guarantee pledges.

But, surely, the prosperous and public-spirited people of Atlanta, of Georgia and of the south, will not permit that!

If the directors of the Music Festival association had not underwritten this additional amount when they did, Atlanta would have had no grand opera season next spring, and the city and the entire south would, thereby, have suffered irreparable damage in the form of unfavorable advertising throughout the country, and corresponding loss of prestige and reputation.

These facts should be appreciated by potential guarantors, who should express their appreciation by helping to make up the shortage which these gentlemen have so generously underwritten!

And, furthermore, aside from consideration of local pride and of Atlanta's good name, the public should not lose sight of the actual advantages that accrue to the guarantors.

It should be borne in mind, for instance, that before any seats are reserved or offered for sale to the public, the guarantors are given first choice of seating accommodations for the season.

This consideration will be of greater moment next season, perhaps, than ever before in the history of Metropolitan grand opera in the south.

The outstanding star of Metropolitan grand opera this season is Mme. Jeritza, who is likewise the outstanding star in the whole musical world.

Nightly there are thousands of music-lovers in New York who throng the doors of the Metropolitan Grand Opera house, unable to gain admittance to hear her simply on account of the limited capacity of the auditorium in which she sings.

In all probability there will be more people attracted to the Auditorium-Armory upon the occasions of her appearances here next April than by any other star, not even excepting the great Caruso.

And the chances are that only guarantors will be able to procure reservations enabling them most advantageously to hear Jeritza.

The prospective guarantor should remember, too, that signing a guarantee pledge for from $200 to, say, $500, does not mean that that amount or any part of it will have to be paid.

It means simply that if the amount realized from the sale of grand opera seats for the entire season is below $120,000 the deficiency will be pro rated among the guarantors on the basis of a percentage of their respective subscriptions.

The truth of the matter is, only once during the thirteen years that Metropolitan grand opera has been an annual institution in Atlanta have the guarantors been called upon for any part of their subscriptions, and then it was for only 25 per cent of the guarantee.

With such an unusually strong and attractive program as that the Metropolitan company will bring to Atlanta next April it is not within the bounds of reason to presume the receipts from seat sales this season will or can fall below $120,000!

It is to be hoped that the people of this community, especially the men and women of means who have not yet subscribed to this guarantee fund, will attest their appreciation of the courage and unselfishness manifested by the Atlanta Music Festival association directors in this instance, and see to it that the guarantee fund is fully subscribed and those gentlemen relieved of the obligation which they have assumed in excess of that which they already had assumed as liberal individual guarantors.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC LAWS.

At a recent conference of the governors of eleven western states the conferees unanimously agreed to seek throughout the west uniform legislation with respect to motorists' signals, rules of the road and right of way regulations at street and highway intersections.

Similar action might well and appropriately be taken by the conference of the governors of all of the states, now in annual session, at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Many of the automobile accidents that occur on our streets and highways from day to day are directly attributable to ignorance, on the part of drivers, of the local traffic laws, rules and regulations.

In this day of good roads and increasing highway transportation the automobile knows no state boundaries, and for that reason laws and rules covering traffic practices should be as nearly uniform as possible throughout the length and breadth of the whole country.

It is physically impossible for the drivers of these long-distance touring cars to familiarize themselves with all of the traffic laws, rules and customs of the various states, cities and local communities through which they must pass.

With a view, as stated by the Associated Press, "to check the mounting wave of automobile deaths" in California, the motor vehicle department of that state has prepared for submission to the state legislature a new and drastic traffic code, outlined in ten concise rules providing for—

1. Placing reckless driving in the same category with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, with a penalty of imprisonment of from six months to five years.
2. Keeping children on roller skates off the streets.
3. Prohibiting parking automobiles on the highway.
4. Prohibiting jay-walking on highways as strictly as jay-walking on city streets.
5. Requiring an applicant for license to operate motor vehicles to pass a thorough examination before the license is issued.
6. Forbidding any person under 18 years of age to drive a motor vehicle.
7. Forbidding the extension of baggage over the running board on the left hand side of an automobile.
8. Compelling pedestrians to walk on the left-hand side of the road where there are no sidewalks.
9. Requiring the placing of a white flag in the center of a tow line when one vehicle is towing another.
10. Requiring all motorists to stop when flagged at a train crossing.

If this set of rules would serve to minimize the traffic hazard in California it would serve to an equally good purpose in any other state and in all states.

It undoubtedly would be helpful to the motoring public and greatly curtail the automobile death rate throughout the country if a general traffic code were worked out and adopted by all of the states and applied uniformly.

Sooner or later, no doubt, that will be done; and an appropriate time to start such a movement is now, while the national conference of governors is in session.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution)

It is a mistake for the general run of sick people to come directly to a specialist, writes one of a group of specialists, and just as much a mistake for the specialist to accept them as patients. I have seen some ludicrous and some tragic mistakes made by very god specialists because of the lack of perspective. A specialist sees only his own work, and the better he is in his own work the narrower his perspective. There is one garage where they always insist on cleaning my spark plugs, no matter what may be wrong with the car. I have seen tonsils removed because of a reflex aphonia due to tuberculosis, I have seen countless appendectomies, by excellent operators, for functional disturbances. I have seen a nerve specialist overlook pernicious anemia as the cause of a spinal cord disturbance, and a skin specialist use his pastes and radiations on a case of diabetes—not because they were not capable men in their own fields, but because they lacked perspective. Mr. Theodore Layman requires considerable enlightenment on the matter of specialism in medicine. He should be encouraged to regard the reputable specialist as a very valuable expert, if properly used. It is only human that the very best specialists in their several fields of interest should lack the rounded judgment which is necessary. He can not pass. You and I should help the people to find that out before they get hurt too badly.

Should this fall under the notice of Mr. Layman, the suggestion of the specialist will perhaps have greater weight, coming from a specialist.

The "passing" of the general practitioner has ben hailed by some specialists and their friends for many years, the wish perhaps fathering the thought. Dr. John Brown, over 60 years ago, wrote in the preface to "Rab and His Friends" and other papers of his horae subsecivae:

"So also in medicine . . . there are now as few family doctors as servants . . . . all this sort of thing is greatly gone and especially in large cities, and much from this love of change, of talk, of having everything explained, or at least named especially if it be in Latin, or running from one charming' specialist to another. . . ."

And the author appends a footnote relating to the "love of having things explained," in which he quotes Dr. Cullen who wrote: "I have been obliged to please my patients sometimes with reasons, and I have found that any will pass, even with able divines and acute lawyers."

The specialist habit is largely cultivated by folk who have run the gamut of self diagnosis and self doctoring—fatuous folk who think they know as much as an "ordinary doctor" about their ills if not quite so much as a specialist. Good family doctors urge the counsel of specialists every day. Wise patients will consult specialists only by the family doctor's advice.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution)

THE GLITTER OF THE STARS.

Whenever you get mixed up in your thoughts about God and life, I suggest that you walk out into the night—alone—and take a long look at the stars.

I often do this and I always come back to myself in better heart, stronger, fuller of understanding, larger in faith.

Did it ever occur to you that the stars never go out—that they shine as truly by day as night? With this difference, that the light of the sun being greater for the day, their glitter is dimmed until the sun "goes down."

Which brings out this fact—that it takes darkness to show up the stars.

And it takes darknes to show up God, to reveal beauty, and to teach us how we should walk in the light, when it comes.

It takes darkness to show up a man, too!

As in the night we look up into the faces of the stars and learn lessons that have been there for billions of years, so may we go back from the dark nights of our experiences to the sun-streamed days of our happiest moments and find renewed faith awaiting to lead us on.

Darkness is necessary to bring out the glitter of the stars.

In like manner must we become acquainted with grief, tread the wine press of sorrow and adversity, that character may have a meaning in this workaday world.

HISTORY OF DAY IN WASHINGTON

The census bureau reported that cotton consumption in November was the greatest in any month since October 1917.

Hearings on oil and gasoline prices were resumed by a senate manufacturers sub-committee, with W. C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, as a witness.

Secretary Denby announced that drilling of off-set gas wells to prevent draining of oil reserves on naval reserve number 1 in California would proceed immediately.

Senator Brookhart, republican Iowa, offered an amendment to the administration shipping bill for payment of a subsidy to American industrial and agricultural producers, while plans were continued for displacing the measure in the senate for farm credits legislation.

Secretary Wallace, in testimony before the Interstate Commerce commission, supported the application of western states for lower transportation rates on hay and grain.

President Harding in a letter read at the National Council of Farmers Co-operative Marketing associations, endorsed their activities as an effective means of providing relief to agriculture. Secretary Wallace also endorsed them.

Two senate committee hearings on various farm credits proposals continued with Eugene Meyer, Jr., director of the War Finance corporation, among the witnesses urging enactment of relief legislation.

A resolution was offered in the house by Representative Newton of Missouri, endorsed by 20 other republication representatives, for a seventy million dollar appropriation to relieve famine conditions in Germany and Austria.

The house, beginning consideration of the naval appropriation bill, was told by Representative Lineberger, republican, California, that President Harding had been engaged with the question of negotiating with other powers for a limitation in construction of smaller craft. Representative Kelley, republican, Michigan, in charge of the measure, said the navy department had recommended construction program costing $331,000,000.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, December 14.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: The helter-skelter of Brooklyn bridge. A punster calls it the Jewish pass-over. Smoothly coiffed women. I like them better than the fluffy types. City Hall park. Torn newspaper. Faded flowers. Crumbs.

The statue of civic virtue. And groups waiting for the mayor to arrive. The lacey harbor sky-line. Always an urge for the poet. And more beautiful to me than natural phenomena—like the Rockies. Glittering baubles of Maiden Lane. Curb hawkers doing their solemn hocus-pocus.

Soup houses for stevedores. Only place I know to get round crackers with star points. D. W. Griffith gazing at a cathedral. Employment agencies with slumping, waiting crowds. Heavy air. Immense despair. A flock of sea gulls racing out the harbor.

Life crackles about the steamship piers. An incessant roar. Struggling dray-horses. Sea captains with their blase, worldly air. Freight bound for Alexandria, Naples, Buda-Pesth and Vienna. Scurrying porters jogging along with flamboyant luggage.

There's Geraldine Farrar's car. Wonder if she's going away. The picturesque little water-front inn. Called the Odyssey. Uptown folk come here for bar-le-duc. Brazilian coffee served from jugs and rare cheese. And there's a negro cabaret show. Called "High Yaller!"

Wish I could see a fish-hawk. Staton island in a necklace of lights. All the printers own homes there. Market stalls cluttered with dead fruit. A mongrel dog looking out at the black, booming sea. Poor little fellow. Drab homes. Huddled, abandoned factories. Vacant lots coated with iron dust. Broken bricks. Scrapped tin, no wonder I'm shivering.

What is it about the sea in the purple evening that inspires such suffocating gloom? I love to walk along the waterfront at eventide and I am hours shaking off the depression. In fact my latest stroll there drove me to a jazz mosque—among the shuffling feet of the barbarians. And I remained late enough to see a tipsy girl grab a policeman's helmet and dance about the floor wearing it. Incidentally he was stationed there to see that no drinks were served. Another young girl was spiraling with a professional dancer. A heavy moving couple lumbered into them. The girl stopped and cried to her escort: "Did you get the number of that truck?"

A great city like New York, of course, furnishes the gamut of thrills. There are some thrilled by a woman puffing a black cigar. Others watching Nijinski leap into the air for a buttercup; waiting for Maude Adams at the stage door; dodging Forty-second floor traffic; soaring to the top of the Woolworth building and rushing along in the subway. My greatest thrill is an electrical shoe repairing shop in Sixth avenue. Sixteen men in a window repair shoes while customers wait.

New York telephone service usually good. But there is one operator who evidently missed her calling. I asked her for a number and she gave me the wrong one.

"You've given me the wrong number!" I said.

There was a silence as she went off the line. When she came back she inquired very haughtily: "What was that last crack?"

Young spooners sitting out on the stone benches along Fifth avenue these wintry nights are rather pathetic figures. They prefer the winds and chill, however, to the one room and kitchenette apartments where they cannot hold hands without the whole family looking on.

Car of Cattle Fails To Supply Demands Of Decatur Farmers

Bainbridge, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The first car of Jerseys bought for the dairy association of Decatur county has arrived and the cows have been delivered to farmers in this section. C. K. C. Ausley is away for the purpose of buying another car, this one not meeting the demands.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Macon, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Constantine chapter, Royal Arch Masons, has held its annual election, and annual reports made by the different officers show that the chapter has enjoyed a most prosperous year in every respect. The membership increase during the past year shows an increase over the same period for 1921.

Floyd O. Schofield was elected and installed as high priest; M. McMaus, king; Frederick W. Williams, scribe; T. B. Elfe, treasurer; J. D. Owens, secretary; J. B. Meyer, captain of the host; H. C. Momand, principal sojourner; C. P. Shell, Royal Arch, captain; Louis P. Jones, master of the third veil; E. A. Damour, master of the second veil; Lawson Douglas, master of the first veil; F. B. Steger, tyler. Clarence H. Andrews, most excellent grand king of the grand chapter of Georgia, installed the officers.

BALLOTS ARE MAILED TO CHAMBER MEMBERS

All members of the chamber of commerce in good standing were mailed copies of the official ballot to be used in selecting eight new directors from the 16 nominees named in the recent nominating vote.

Albert S. Adams, J. P. Allen, E. A. Bancker, W. R. Bean, Milton W. Bell, George W. Brine, C. J. Kamper, Thomas C. Law, Charles M. Marshall, Norman C. Miller, Alfred C. Newell, Robert B. Pegram, J. R. Regnas, W. R. C. Smith, W. L. Stanley and E. Marvin Underwood were the sixteen nominees whose names appear on the ballot.

Eight directors will be chosen in the official vote.

MITCHELL HEADS WAYCROSS MASONS

Waycross, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Waycross Lodge, F. & A. M., at their regular annual election elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Flanders, senior deacon; W. E. Lee, junior deason; W. S. Rysdon senior stewart, Dr. Paul K. McGee, junior steward; Rev. W. L. Harper, chaplain.

The lodge will undertake this year the usual Christmas charitable work among the poor of the city.

CONVENTIONS BRING ATLANTA $3,000,000

50,000 Delegates Registered Here During This Year, Says Bureau.

Approximately $3,000,000 was brought into Atlanta by visiting delegates to conventions, and other events, during the past year, according to the report submitted to the executive committee of the Atlanta convention bureau at the Piedmont hotel Wednesday afternoon.

More than 250 conventions were held during the period, about 50,000 delegates were registered, and each registered delegate was estimated to have spent three days in the city and spending on an average of $15 per day. This does not include attendance at the southeastern fair and grand opera and other events which were estimated to bring the total of money left here up to $3,000,000.

Members of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association, a delegation from the Alabama Hotel Men's association and a number of north Georgia hotel men were guests at a complimentary breakfast given by Arthur R. Moody, manager of the Winecoff hotel, Thursday morning just before the hotel men left by special train for Macon to attend the sixteenth annual convention of the Georgia oHtel Men's association.

ACWORTH WILL HAVE MAMMOTH XMAS TREE

Acworth, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Six organizations of Acworth have united in a movement to have a mammoth community Christmas tree in Acworth Saturday night, December 23. Committees from these organizations have been at work for the past two weeks on the movement.

The huge tree will be erected in the center of the business section of the town. A special committee has compiled a list of families of country people who reside within a radius of ten miles of Acworth who are in need. For these large baskets of necessities and goodies will be placed on the tree.

The tree will also be used for the exchange of presents of the town people. A delightful program consisting of readings, singing of carols and the like will be a part of the exercises at the tree.

A special choir of children is being trained to sing Christmas carols all over town on Christmas eve night, as heretofore. These big community Christmas trees are an annual event in Acworth.

MORE RAINY WEATHER FOR ATLANTA TODAY

More rainy weather similar to that which visited Atlanta Thursday may be expected for the next few days, states C. F. Von Herrman, of the local office of the weather bureau.

Higher temperatures with cloudy weather and some rain, with no prospect for cold weather for several days was the gist of the forecast from the local office.

Scottish Rite Reunion Closed Thursday Night

95 Masons Are Advanced to the Thirty-Second Degree.

The twenty-sixth general convocation of Scottish Rite Masons in the Valley of Atlanta came to a close last night when 95 Masons were advanced to the thirty-second degree and pronounced Masters of the Royal Secret. The class was named in honor of the late Edward Morris Hafer, thirty-third degree, who some years ago was a resident of Atlanta and one of the most prominent Masons in this section.

A feature of the closing day of the convocation was the visit to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, participated in by the members of the class, visitors from other consistories, and many members of Atlanta consistory. On returning to the Masonic Temple the class organized with John Gelzer as president and J. A. Alexander, secretary and treasurer.

While the present class was not as large as some in preceding years, the enthusiasm of its members and the high personnel made up in the estimation of all for the lack of numbers. The work of the degree staff and the incidental music of the Scottish choir were warmly praised by the visitors, who were also much interested in the splendid body of hospitallers of Atlanta consistory and its splendid Scottish guard.

Hyman Wallace Witcover, thirty-third degree, sovereign grand inspector general in Georgia and South Carolina, was present during the convocation, and on the occasion of his official reception addressed the brethren.

EXPANSION PLANNED FOR MORRIS BROWN

Campaign to Raise $50,000 for University Discussed by Negro Leaders.

Plans to raise $50,000 for the expansion of Morris Brown university were discussed Thursday night at a round table conference at the home of Bishop J. S. Flipper of the A. M. E. church.

President John H. Lewis, of Morris Brown, suggested that a day in May be designated for a concentrated effort on the part of all denominations to contribute to the fund. He expressed the opinion that with proper management, $35,000 or $45,000 could be raised among the people of his denomination.

Bishop Flipper, who acted as chairman of the conference, stated that the best method of helping the negro was assisting him to help himself. He stated that the negro's usefulness depended solely on his ability to be of service to his community. The bishop stated that education was the big factor in the solution of the negro problem, and heartily indorsed the Morris Brown program.

Dr. N. D. Canady, presiding elder of the Griffin district, said that there was sufficient pride in his district to raise any reasonable amount for the support of the university.

Rev. J. A. Hadley, commenting on the plans for the expansion of Morris Brown, said he had explicit faith in the integrity of the negro, once his honesty and his pride are appealed to. He predicted unbounded success for the venture that he said would raise the standard of the university making it possible for the institution to render a greater service to his race.

Dean W. G. Alexander, of the Turner Theological seminary, spoke commendably of the work being accomplished by Morris Brown, and the effort being made on behalf of Bishop Flipper to promote the efficiency of the institution, which he said was doing more for the betterment of the race than any other one agency.

R. D. Stinson said the salvation of the colored race was in "its own hands." The greatest needs he said were honesty, self reliance and knowledge of how to do things well. The conference was concluded with short addresses by Drs. John Harmon, R. H. Ward, W. J. Williams, C. G. Gray, C. A. Wingfield and T. J. Linton.

CHRISTMAS NEAR, HE DROPS BOTTLE; ALL CHEER GONE

H. Lupion, Decatur street merchant, is good and sore and he doesn't mind admitting it.

Thursday afternoon at an "old hoss" sale at police station he purchased a lot of old bottles for $2.10. One of the bottles had been overlooked by the police and was filled with corn liquor.

In his surprise Lupion dropped his prize to the cobblestone pavement—and Christmas is just ten days off. Chief Beavers was acting as auctioneer.

Postpone Program Planned for Local Girl Scout Benefit

The committee in charge of the program planned for the benefit of Atlanta Girl Scouts to be held at the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium December 19 Thursday announced a postponement until Thursday, February 15, 1923.

This action is taken in order that Bobby North may have sufficient time to write and produce a playlet especially for this occasion. All tickets will be good on this latter date.

STORES ON MARIETTA STREET BRING $50,000

Several new stores at 401-3-5-7-9 Marietta street were sold Thursday by the Massell Realty company to a client of the Benjamin D. Watkins agency. The consideration was $50,000. A Monroe country farm valued at $7,000 was given by the purchaser in part payment.

Annual rental of the property is said to be about $5,000. The stores are near Jones avenue.

THIS IS FINAL DAY TO PAY INCOME TAX

Persons failing to pay their final income tax instalment before closing hours Friday will be required to pay an additional 25 per cent as penalty, according to Collecter J. T. Rose.

New income blanks with changes which are said to greatly simplify the making of returns will be issued in 1923, it was stated. The new blanks will be ready in January.

: PITHY PARAGRAPHS :

Pithy Paragraphs are coming strong, and we are all getting a lot of fun out of them. The editor appreciates the personal notes appended to the contribs—notes that tell us how our readers like this little fountain of joy. That's just what we want, smiles and joy and that whole-hearted humor that does us so much good.

Just try your hand at originating a joke or jingle and pass it on to the editor. If your joke turns out to be a prize-winner, you will be given two tickets to the Howard theater, where the Pity Paragraph film is being shown. If your contrib is picked for the film you will receive $5. Go to the Howard and see this side-stitching film.

Mrs. Benjamin L. Camp, of Whitesburg, and A. T. Robertson, of Atlanta, top the medium of mirth today and win the passports.

A LARGE AFFAIR.

'Tis the largeness of the vista that makes our pulses thrill
When we learn that large Atlanta is growing larger still.
A large appropriation is probable, we think—Which'll help to get the city's postal troubles out of kink—
The P. O. isn't large enough, and larger still should be—A large part of the government work is done elsewhere, you see—
'Tis large to look at, large to think, and larger still to do.
At any rate, we live in hope that "Baldy" 'll put it through.
But whether we get larger room or ever larger pay,
We've one little guy that's "Large," you bet! Ah, yes, 'tis "Edwin K."

—Mrs. Benjamin L. Camp.

Mawruss met Abe the other day and said: "Abe, you should ought to see that new play; it's great."

"Vot play?" inquired Abe.

"'When Knighthood Was in Flower'," said Mawruss.

"In flour?" says Abe. "Wholesale or retail?" —A. T. Robertson.

NO WONDER HE STAGGERED!

We were crowded in the cabin,
Not a soul had cared to sleep;
It was dark out on the waters,
As we ploughed on through the deep.

We were playing ten-cent limit,
I had opened on a pair,
When "Three miles," the captain shouted,
As he staggered down the stair.

Then we gathered up the bottles,
And the wine began to pour—
There was many and many a SIP
'Twixt the ship and the three-mile shore!

—Jessie F. Stockbridge.

Auto Salesman—"You should see this car run. It will pick-up better than any of them."

Customer—"But I wanted a car for business, not pleasure."

—Walter DeFore.

WHEN WINTER COMES.

Auto joy rides and the movies,
Neither one are anywhere
With us rustics now at meal time
When we set us up a chair,
And call, utterly regardless
Of the laws of polite usage:
"Betsy, shove me them there ribs,
And, Abner, han' me 'round the sausage,"
And the slickness of our fingers,
With a ring of greasy grime Round our mouths does show we're havin'
Of a big hog-killing time.

—V. P. Enloe.

DEAD LANGUAGE.

"Take this seat."
"What'll you have?"
"Here's your number."
"Yes. Two good seats left."
"Madge, does my petticoat show?"
"Thanks for the tip, sir."
"Police captures burglar."
"Take a souvenir home."
"Fried oyster free."
"Help yourself."
"I beg pardon."
"Have one on me."

—E. L. Stanley.

WITH APOLOGIES TO NO ONE.

Says my old man to me, says he,
"The winters get colder and colder."
Says I, with a twinkle in my eye,
"You're getting older and older."
I expected that he would come back at me
With a nice little dig at how old I be.
I wonder if what he did say to me
Will rhyme with this and make good meter?
For he came right back (but he used good tact)
He said to me, my old man, said he,
"Day by day, in every way, You're getting sweeter and sweeter."

—Mrs. L. D. Wade.

He was a professor of bacteriology and was homely—very, very homely.

His audience was a bevy of high school girls.

"Kissing," said he, "is not only wicked, it is truly dangerous. For instance, I might be a carrier of the deadly germs of typhoid, and by osculatory contact give the disease to each person here."

He still wonders why his audience giggled instead of applauding.

—C. F. Morgan.

MY HONEY IS MY BOSS.

As Harold Lloyd's at de Howard sho'
In "Doctor Jack"—so funny,
I crave two passes, free, sir, so
I can go and take my honey.
I haven't the kale with which to pay;
So, Ed, please come across,
And spread the Christmas cheer my way,
As well as please my boss.

—J. J. Bugg.

Percy (city cousin)—What has that cow got the bell strapped 'round her neck for?

Bobby—That's to call the calf when dinner's ready.

—Morris Weinstein.

SANTA VS. COUE.

Day by day, my parents say,
Christmas is drawing nearer;
But it seems an age to a boy my size,
Who is longing for turkey and big mince pies,
And though I ache for nice fruit cake,
I must bring in coal and the furnace shake,
For if I grumble and complain,
Old Santa Claus will hear;
So I grow better and better
As Christmas day draws near.

—Newt Garner, Jr.

A school teacher boxed the ears of a pupil a few days ago. The boy told his mother, and the next day the teacher received the following note: "Nature has provided a proper place for the punishment of a boy, and it is not his ear. I will thank you to use it hereafter."

—Mrs. C. H. Bernhardt.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT.

"Oh, what a tangled web we weave
When first we practice to deceive;"
But when we've lied a year or two,
How slick we are—I am, aren't you?

—Mary C. Logan.

The manager was delighted with the applicant. All was settled but the question of salary.

"Sixty-five dollars a month," she replied to the inquiry.

"Sixty-five—with pleasure," said the manager.

"Oh, with pleasure, seventy-five," replied the bright young lady. He was so tickled with her retort, he gave it to her, too. —Beth G. Wall.

THIS IS LAST DAY FOR APPLICATIONS TO THE SHRINE

Noble George E. Argard, recorder of Yaarab Temple, has given out information that he plans to close his office at midnight tonight, but this disseminator of sacred bull inclines to the belief that he will keep the lights burning another five minutes if some belated aspirant who desires to join Yaarab Temple happens along at that hour with an application for membership. But Saturday morning will bee too late as the list of candidates is due to be in the printer's hands the minute the front door is unlocked, so all who desire to become Shriners at the ceremonial session next Wednesday must file their applications, accompanied by a check for $109.50, with Recorder Argard today.

The business meeting to elect candidates will be held at Shrine headquarters Tuesday at 5 p. m., and the ceremonial session will begin at 6 p. m. on the following day. The ceremonial will be immediately followed by the annual business meeting, with only a few minutes' intermission for light refreshments, which will be served in Taft hall of the Auditorium.

The ceremonial on Wednesday will be preceded by a street parade of the uniformed organizations and candidates from Shrine headquarters on Peachtree street to the Auditorium. Thursday night the Christmas dance will be held at Druid Hills club, tickets to which are $2, admitting noble and ladies.

KYLE ELECTED HEAD COLUMBUS KIWANIS CLUB

Columbus, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Reuben Kyle, city commissioner and prominent automobile man, was today elected president of the Columbus Kiwanis club. The Kiwanians voted to provide Christmas cheer for 85 poor families of the city.

FLOYD DOCTORS WILL HOLD MEETING FRIDAY

Rome, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The annual dinner of the Floyd County Medical society, at the Armstrong hotel Friday evening, will be featured by that number of the program entitled "Reminiscences," in which the doctors present will each tell on a question from the toastmaster, Dr. George B. Smith, the most interesting experience connected with his early experience as a doctor, of those patients who paid bills and those who didn't, and anything in the nature of reminiscences.

The annual election of officers will be held, after the dinner and following this Dr. Robert M. Harbin will discuss some of the recent progress made in the treatment of cancer, and Dr. W. J. Shaw will talk of the cause and prevention of tuberculosis. Dr. Smith will deliver the president's annual address.

MUSIC CONFERENCE PROGRAM OUTLINED

Bulk of Business Will Be Transacted During Friday's Session.

The first session of the southern conference of music supervisors at the Piedmont hotel Thursday afternoon featured addresses by Karl W. Gehrkens, president of the national conference; Paul J. Weaver, president of the southern conference, and speeches of welcome by Mayor Key and School Superintendent W. A. Sutton.

Thursday night the delegates in attendance were guests of the Atlanta Woman's club at a concert given in the club auditorium by the music departments of Emory university and Agnes Scott college. The glee clubs of the two institutions delighted the visitors with an elaborate program.

Thursday morning at Lee Street school Atlanta's system of teaching music was demonstrated to the visiting delegates.

Following the addresses at Thursday afternoon's session a business meeting was held, committee reports were heard and new committees appointed.

Most of the business of the meet will be transacted at the sessions Friday. The day will be featured by a number of addresses by experts in every line of musical instruction.

Little business is scheduled for Saturday aside from the election of officers. At 10:30 o'clock in the morn the delegates will be guests of Mrs. DeLos Hill, who has arranged a concert in their honor at the Phillips & Crew music room.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN IS LAID TO REST

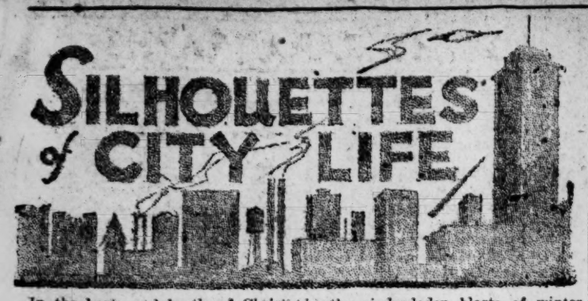

The funeral of Seaborn C. Pritchard, 84, veteran of the confederate army, was held in Adairsville Thursday. The Adairsville lodge of the Masonic fraternity had charge of the funeral services.

Mr. Pritchard is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. R. Dale; six nieces, Mrs. G. N. Woods and Mrs. S. Y. Jamison, of Atlanta; Mrs. G. T. Roberts and Mrs. Retta Nation, of Hill City, Ga.; Mrs. J. C. Moss, of Ringgold, Ga., and Mrs. Joseph Kirksey, of Pheonix, Ariz., and two nephews, Hugh Bibb, of Atlanta, and W. S. Pritchett, of Calhoun, Ga. H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

GOOGE IS ELECTED ABBEVILLE MAYOR

Abbeville, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Dr. W. R. Googe was re-elected mayor of Abbeville in a quiet election Tuesday, there being no opposition. G. A. Ewing, R. T. Ford, W. W. Blasingame, E. M. Oliver, E. H. Harp and C. M. Warren were named councilmen, Dr. M. S. Smith and M. C. Paxon, members of the present council, being defeated.

The new officials will take office January 1, after which they will elect a city clerk and town marshal.

In the haste and bustle of Christmas shopping, folks are pausing to drop coins into the excuse for a hat extended by a palsied old man who huddles on one of the city's viaducts.

Many Atlantans remember when he was one of Atlanta's stalwart policemen—unafraid of the most dangerous assignments in the days of the old restricted districts.

A bit of human driftwood tossed into discard by the whirlpool of fate, he now depends on the philanthropy of passersby for his existence.

His habiliments would make a scarecrow appear dressed for a Rotary club frolic. His feeble frame shakes when the east sends a cold wind, and one wonders if the massive viaduct itself will vibrate in response to his trembling.

He always stations himself on the east of the viaduct and basks in the smoke-stained sunlight or shivers in the cinder-laden blasts of winter and doesn't totter away to his miserable place of abode until he is driven from his port by nightfall or the elements.

It is said that he has refused to wear gloves. There is a mute appeal to one's benevolence in the sight of wrinkled old hands which have turned blue before the biting winds.

Of course the police forbid him to solicit alms. City council prohibits that. As an excuse to hold his raggedy old hat before the pedestrians, he offers for sale a few small round tins of ointment—good for something, no doubt, but there is no label enumerating the ills for which the salve is intended. His benefactors never take the stuff.

This old derelict who must gather his crumbs from the passing throng is a prey of the dope evil. Years ago he administered to a muscular arm his first soothing "shot." After that cataleptic trance, he followed the others who take their "first" one. His buoyant spirit was broken. His property went to the men who skulk in the dark places and slip the drug to its victims in exchange for their very bread money.

He is about 55 years old, maybe 60. His nerves are drug-palsied. He is dwarfed in intellect, crushed in heart, bent in body, and very, very badly broken in pocketbook.

And there was a time when he, too, believed in Santa Claus.

RUPTURE EXPERTS

COMING TO ATLANTA

Demonstrate the Famous Rice Method Free to Callers at Hotel

If you are ruptured, your big opportunity has now arrived. If you like to be free from the slavery of gouging, pinching, chafing trusses that make life a burden, then HERE and NOW is the time to act.

J. B. Weldons and Miss Pearl Harrington, experts in rupture cases, trained under the personal direction of W. S. Rice, of Adams, N. Y., the famous discoverer of the Rice Non-Surgical Rupture Method, will be at the Cecil Hotel, Atlanta, Ga., December 18, 19 and 20.

These experts are here to personally demonstrate to all ruptured people what the Rice Rupture Method can accomplish. You have, no doubt, heard and read much about this famous Method and the cures which thousands have reported from it. Now, you have the chance to find out all about it—to have it demonstrated to you and to see what it can do in YOUR OWN case. Just call at the hotel and these experts will give you their personal attention, best advice and complete demonstration absolutely without charge.

Are you tired of that binding, hampering, uncomfortable truss? Would you like to be free of it forever? Then investigate this Rice Method and find out the possibilities it holds out. Surely a Method that could cause so many thousands of former rupture sufferers to report cures must be worthy of your full and complete investigation.

The Rice Method is different from anything else. It is modern, up-to-the-minute, abreast of the latest scientific developments. It is the one Method that you are not asked to take on faith alone—the one Method that is positively demonstrated to you, right on your own person, without any charge whatever. You do not spend a penny unless, after having a full and complete demonstration, you decide that this is the Method for you. And you—you alone—are the sole judge of that.

In justice to yourself, come in and see these experts. Remember, they will be here only three days, then your opportunity will be gone. Grasp it NOW. It may prove to be the wisest thing you ever did, and anyway, it costs you nothing to find out.

Remember, come to the Cecil Hotel any day from 9 to 12 forenoons, 2 to 5 afternoons, or 7 to 9 in the evening. The dates are December 18, 19 and 20.

Don't let this opportunity get away from you.

ON EVE OF HIS 64TH BIRTHDAY, DOUGLAS IS AT DEATH'S DOOR

Hamilton Douglas, dean of the Atlanta Law School and widely known Atlanta citizen, was Thursday night on the eve of his 64th birthday critically ill at his home in the Peachtree road section, and grave fears for his recovery were expressed by members of his family.

Wednesday a week ago Mr. Douglas suffered a sudden stroke which left him dangerously ill. Last Monday he suffered a second stroke, and no improvement in his condition has been reported by physicians in attendance at his bedside.

Dean Douglas has many friends in Atlanta and throughout the state and these have been greatly interested in his condition and have tendered many evidences of sympathy to the family.

CHILDREN'S TOYS GIVEN AT JUNIOR CHAMBER MEETING

"Five thousand dollars in prizes" were given away by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the club luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday at 12:15 o'clock. The "prizes" were children's toys of various kinds, and the estimated value was placed at a figure which a child receiving them would most likely have valued them. The prize "stunt" was the unique surprise promised for this event.

Mayor Key addressed the Junior Chamber members, and pointed out to them a few principles which must be adhered to in their work of taking the place of the leaders of the city and building it into the city which it deserves to be.

He made a strong plea for united effort, concentrated patriotism, and asked that small issues be prevented from swerving the young men in their duties to the community as a whole. He warned them against "petty politics" and declared that through making the city more prosperous the dream of a larger metropolis could be realized in the only manner that would be satisfactory.

CARBONATED DRINK PLACED UNDER BAN IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Carbonated drinks are taboo in the Atlanta public schools. The board of education has placed its official ban upon them and henceforth when a pupil thirsts for carbonated liquid refreshment the craving will have to endure until the soft drink stand across the street or on the next corner can be reached.

Commissioner Julia O'Keefe Nelson is author of the resolution banning carbonated drinks. She declared their purchase entailed needless expense and they were not necessary as a food.

The board has also forbidden the sale of tickets of any description in the schools, will allow no appeals for money, and will permit no commercial advertisements displayed. The superintendent is instructed to strictly enforce this rule.

OIL INSPECTION FEES ARE FIXED

More Than $400,000 Turned Over to State as Result of Successful Handling of These Cases.

An executive order was issued on Thursday by Governor Hardwick fixing the fees of counsel for the state of Georgia in the oil inspection cases, decided in favor of the state by the United States supreme court, at $10,000.

The litigation resulted from a former decision of the supreme court of the United States in a case originating from the state of Washington, under which a law similar to the Georgia oil inspection law was declared by the supreme court to be unconstitutional and void as an undue interference with interstate commerce.

Immediately thereafter, the Alabama oil inspection law, almost identical with the Georgia statute, was likewise declared unconstitutional and void, for the same reason, by the United States court.

A bill in equity was then filed in the United States court for the northern district of Georgia by the Texas Oil company, seeking to enjoin the operation of the Georgia oil inspection law, for the same reasons contained in the federal decisions, and Judge Sibley issued an order restraining the state of Georgia from collecting the fees fixed by the Georgia statute for the inspection of oils.

Order Is Issued.

The restraining order was issued after Honorable Clifford Walker, then attorney general of Georgia, had announced his intention to resign his office to enter upon his campaign for the governorship.

In this emergency, the governor of Georgia employed Brewster, Howell & Heyman and Mark Bolding as special counsel in behalf of the state of Georgia, to contest the bill filed by the Texas Oil company, and to endeavor to sustain the statute and preserve to the state the large income derived from the operation of the statute.

Before the case came up for hearing upon the prayer for an injunction, similar bills were filed by the Standard Oil company and by the various oil companies doing business in Georgia.

Upon the hearing, the plaintiffs were represented by Rosser, Slaton, Phillips & Hopkins, and the former decisions of the supreme court of the United States were vigorously urged as conclusive upon the questions presented to the court, the case being heard in Atlanta before Justices Sibley, Evans and Walker.

After a lengthy trial, which attracted much attention on account of the importance of the issue and the large amount involved in the litigation, the contention of the state's counsel was sustained by Justices Sibley and Evans, and the injunction prayed for was denied, but Justice Walker, of the United States court of Alabama, who had previously held the Alabama statute unconstitutional, dissented.

The Texas Oil company case was thereupon appealed to the supreme court of the United States by counsel for the company, and the majority opinion of Justices Sibley and Evans was affirmed.

$400,000 Gained.

As the result of this decision, a fund in excess of $400,000 was turned over to the state of Georgia, and the right of the state to enforce the collection of oil inspection fees was conclusively and permanently confirmed.

From the amount turned over to the state, the sum of $38,000 was retained in the registry of the United States court to cover the court costs and expenses of the litigation and the contingent fees of special counsel for the state.

Governor Hardwick referred to Honorable George M. Napier, attorney general of Georgia, for his official opinion, the question of determining reasonable compensation for counsel, and the attorney general, in his opinion, held that if the employment of special counsel contemplated certain and absolute compensation, regardless of the result of the litigation, a fee of not less than $10,000 and not more than $12,500 would be reasonable, but if compensation of counsel was to be fixed upon a contingent basis, a fee of from $25,000 to $30,000 would be reasonable.

After considering the matter for several months, Governor Hardwick, on Thursday, fixed the fee of the state's counsel at $10,000, reciting, in his opinion, that the contract of employment for counsel stipulated "a just and equitable fee contingent upon the work done, the amount of which shall be determined by the governor."

NEGRO Y. W. C. A. OPENS THREE-DAY INSTITUTE

The opening session of the three day institute for the training of committee workers in the Y. W. C. A. was well attended at the Butler street branch of the Y. M. C. A. on last evening. The address of Dr. Sara W. Brown of the National Y. W. C. A. on "Health, a Fundamental of Success," was thoughtful and to the point. Several of the international workers are here in attendance on this institute. At 10 o'clock Friday's session will begin at the Phylis Wheatly branch at 196 Piedmont avenue. In the afternoon at 3 and at 8 o'clock other addresses will be delivered. The afternoon and evening session will be held at the colored branch of the Y. M. C. A.

PLAN WAR ON RATS IN DECATUR COUNTY

Bainbridge, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The first meeting to be held for discussions and plans for campaigns on the extermination of rats in this county came off with encouragement to those in charge, at the court house Saturday.

Dr. Richardson of the state college of agriculture and Mr. Carr from the Bureau of Biology of the United States department of agriculture addressed the meeting. Local boy scouts had been offered cash prizes for most rat tails delivered at this meeting.

Only one boy reported. He was a little fellow from the country. His teacher represented him and gave to the committee the three tails he had captured. A crisp one dollar bill was sent him in reward.

Although it rained a number of farmers and local men attended the meeting. County agent Sawyer states that this is one campaign that will be pushed as the rat not only destroys thousands of dollars worth of food stuff but carries and spreads disease.

Break Down Door In Liquor Raid Find Three Pints

Tenants of Dorothy Apartments Are Given Thrill Thursday.

Tenants in the Dorothy apartments, 92 East Ellis street, Thursday evening were given a thrill as Detective Hugh T. Brown and Deputy Sheriff Jim White broke in the door of apartment 1 in their search for whisky.

Anticipating trouble in getting in the apartment, Detective M. A. Hornsby procured a search warrant, with which the officers were armed as they entered.

Failing to be admitted upon their demand, they began breaking in the door. Three pints of whisky were found concealed in an umbrella which was hanging in the room, the officers state, and they placed C. C. Crooks, who was found in the apartment, under arrest.

The officers state that while they were engaged in breaking in the door Crooks was pouring out a supply of whisky that was reported to have been unloaded from a car. The odor of whisky was strong in the apartment, they state, and they could smell where the whisky had been poured out in the bathroom.

The crusade inaugurated by Police Chief James L. Beavers Wednesday against idlers and loiterers Thursday failed to show any substantial results in the way of increase in the number of arrests, only 50 cases being docketed at 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

A large percent of these were charged with being drunk, others with disorderly conduct, and several with speeding, violating the traffic ordinance and idling and loitering.

JOHN M'CLELLAND DOES NOT EXPECT TO DEFEND CHIEF

The report printed in an afternoon newspaper Wednesday that Attorney John S. McClelland, former police commissioner, would be retained by Police Chief Beavers as one of an array of counsel to defend him against ouster proceedings, was ridiculed Friday by Mr. McClelland.

"In the first place," said Mr. McClelland, "I am not a police commissioner, as reported in the article. I resigned as commissioner last March.

"And if Chief Beavers has made any effort to employ counsel I know nothing of it. He certainly hasn't sought my services. The publication of the story was called to my attention. That's the first I had ever heard of it."

CAPITAL CITY MASONS HEADED BY WILLIAMS

Edward Williams has been elected worshipful master of the Capital City Masonic lodge for the coming year, it was announced Thursday. He succeeds Harry York, city councilman-elect from the sixth ward, who was presented with a handsome gold watch by the lodge in appreciation of his services during the past year.

Others officers named were: M. F. Dowdy, senior warden; F. J. Thompkins, junior warden; John T. McDonald, treasurer; J. G. Benton, secretary; RRev. W. J. Debardelben, chaplain; Fred Boyd, senior warden; A. Rauschenberg, junior deacon; John Owens, senior steward; M. Elsberry, junior steward; J. Smith, tyler. W. W. Waites, Q. Strickland and Charles Austin were named members of the board of trustees.

BAPTIST BOARD IN SESSION HERE

$100,000 Budget for State Mission Drawn Up by Baptist Executive Commission Thursday.

The annual December meeting of the executive board of the Georgia Baptist convention was held Thursday at the Winecoff hotel. The meeting will continue through today, adjourning at noon.

This annual meeting of the board is one of the most important meetings held during the year for the reason that it is the follow-up meeting of the Georgia Baptist convention, and all appropriations are made at the December meeting. Other general lines of work for the year are always set at the December meeting.

The new board organized by electing Dr. Charles W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist chuch of Atlanta, as president, with Judge Andrew J. Cobb, of Athens, and Dr. Carl W. Minor, of Americus, as vice presidents. Judge Cobb was president of the board last year, but on account of recent illness was unable to accept the place again this year. T. H. Robertson, of Gainesville, was re-elected recording secretary of the board and Dr. Arch C. Cree was re-elected executive secretary.

Among the more important actions of the board was the making of the budget for state mission work for 1923. The sum of $100,000 was set as the budget for state missions, and the various interests, such as Sunday school work, W. M. U. work, B. Y. P. U. work, enlistment and evangelistic work, church building and pastoral aid, are included in this amount.

Members of the board attending the session are: John D. Mell, Athens; B. D. Ragsdale, Macon; E. J. Forrester, Sparta; Clifford Walker, Monroe; J. H. Carmichael, Jackson; C. D. Graves, Dublin; Claude Bond, Toccoa; E. C. Collins, Reidsville; C. W. Daniel, Atlanta; C. W. Durden, Newnan; W. H. Faust, Atlanta; H. M. Fugate, Macon; H. L. Grice, Washington; D. A. Howard, Fort Valley; F. C. McConnell, Atlanta; J. P. Nichols, Griffin; H. Alford Porter, Atlanta; R. M. Rigdon, Columbus; T. H. Robertson, Gainesville; A. C. Pyle, Valdosta; T. W. Tippett, Vienna; Andrew J. Cobb, Athens, Josiah Crudup, Dalton; B. U. Curry, Pelham; J. M. Dodd, Winder; E. L. Grace, August; W. T. Granade, Statesboro; J. M. Haymore, Decatur; Ed Jarman, Baxley; C. The annual turkey dinner of the Central Y. M. C. A. will be held in the spacious dining room of the Y. M. C. A., 75 Luckie street, at 6:30 tonight. Mayor Key will preside and the Rev. J. Sprole Lyons will make the dinner address.

It has been the custom of the physical department of the Central Y. M. C. A. to give a turkey dinner once a year. All the various teams will be represented. The swimming team, 5,000-point men, basketball and volleyball players. A large attendance is anticipated.

TWO RECORDERS WANTED BY DAVIS

Seventh Ward Alderman Declares Plan Will Put End to Present Congested Docket Conditions.

Creation of another division of the recorder's court will be sought in a resolution which Alderman W. C. Davis, of the seventh ward, will introduce in city council next Monday.

The alderman, discussing his measure Thursday, offered the following among other reasons for establishing an extra division:

"Public convenience would be better served.

"The officers on duty having cases in court against offenders would be more promptly released for service on their beats.

"Officers off duty having cases before the court would have more time for rest and recreation, to which they are justly entitled.

"A higher standard of thoroughness in the investigation of cases would be established.

27,727 Arrests Made.

Alderman Davis said the report of the police department for 1921 show 27,727 offenders arrested and their cases disposed of by the recorder's court. He said 17,428 were fined; 269 were fined and bound over to the state courts; 2,887 were bound over without fine; 3,385 cases were dismissed; 2,209 continued; the total fines collected amounted to $162,877.

The alderman claims that with another division of recorder's court operative the present wave of criticism against the police department would be banished.

"Our chief and paramount trouble with our law enforcement agencies is in the recorder's court of the city of Atlanta," he said.

"I emphasize the fact that no reflection is intended or directed at Judge Johnson, but on the other hand, let me say that he has done exceedingly well to cope with the vast number of cases that are daily brought before him. The trouble is that the number of cases in this court have exceeded the ability of any one man to handle. The calendar is in a daily congested condition, and defendants are adjudged in a scramble of haste that in many instances makes thoroughness in their trial remotely possible.

Officers Must Attend.

"It is conservatively estimated by officials high up in the police department that the average a day of about fifty members of the force is claimed in attendance upon court, chiefly in the recorder's court, and it matters not whether the officer is off duty or on duty he is required to remain in court until his case is disposed of.

"It is a daily occurrence that members of the force who are off duty are required to wait in court until their cases are disposed of, and to the exclusion of the rest and recreation that they should be getting in preparation for their next watch. Again it is pointed out that great inconvenience accrues to the public by reason of the long delay in the disposition of their cases in this court.

"The city of Atlanta, in my opinion, could well afford, and profitably so, to create another division of the recorder's court."

Allspice is the berry of the pimento tree, and is a native of Jamaica.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Exercises including a varied program of speeches and music will feature the formal opening of the Academy of Medicine and its dedication Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The building at 32 Howard street has been altered to provide an auditorium, library and other rooms for use in the new purpose it is to serve, and Bishop Warren A. Candler will dedicate the John F. Westmoreland library, named for the late Dr. John Westmoreland, who founded the Atlanta Medical college.

Dr. Lucian Lamar Knight, state historian, and a number of others will make speeches on the occasion.

FORD SHOALS BID BOBS UP IN HOUSE

Rankin Denounces Reported Desertion of Ford by Farm Bloc--Says Bloc Votes Independent.

Washington, December 14.—Denouncing reports he said had been circulated that the "farm bloc" had "deserted Henry Ford in the Muscle Shoals fight," Representative Rankin, democrat, Mississippi, declared in the house today that no man was able to deliver the vote of the farm bloc. He was answered by Representative Kearns, republican, Ohio, a member of the military committee, who said the Ford offer was misleading to the American people."

Mr. Rankin referring to a bill introduced by Representative Dickinson, republican, Ohio, advocating operation of Muscle Shoals by a government-controlled corporation, said the word had gone out that Mr. Dickinson's action meant that the "farm bloc" was behind the plan.

Has No Leader.

"Every man knows there is no concrete organization of the 'farm bloc,'" said Mr. Rankin. "No man can arrogate himself as its leader. Every man from an agricultural section is a member of the 'bloc,' but no man can deliver its vote. No member of the farm bloc has deserted Muscle Shoals and I challenge any one to say he has deserted. This is all a part of the propaganda that has been going on to defeat the Ford offe rsince the question came up. Leave it to the farm bloc to vote on this question and you will see how they stand."

Mr. Rankin said he had been unable to find any one who had been consulted by Mr. Dickinson before the introduction of his bill. He charged the Alabama Power company and the "fertilizer trust" had opposed the Ford offer throughout.

Representative Kearns, replying to Mr. Rankin, said misleading information had been going out as to the Ford offer since its inception. Advocates of the Ford plan, he said, had sought to "gain the sympathy of the farmer by telling him Ford would use the gigantic organization for the manufacture of cheaper fertilizer."

"False Message."

"Ford has not agreed to make one pound of fertilizer unless he can do it at a profit," said Mr. Kearns. "Even then he only agrees to use one-tenth of the great power in manufacturing it."

Mr. Kearns also charged that a "false message to the American people was put out when it was asserted that Ford intended to repay the government for all its expenditures at Muscle Shoals.

"He intends to use the power the government gives him practically free for the purpose of carrying on a manufacturing plant for profit," said he.

Agitated Manager: Say, don't you know that you shouldn't whistle in the lobby like that?

'Present to Mom' Has Now Become Tragedy's Symbol

BY RODNEY DUTCHER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Chicago, December 14.—Way in the very back of a bureau drawer at 4219 South Union avenue, shidden under a little girl's flannel nighties and petticoats, is a little package tied in gay red ribbon.

If anyone ever opens this little package, they will find a fancy pillow-top, with pretty red flowers worked on it in silken threads, and a happy message wishing "a merry Christmas to Mom from Ella."

Until Thursday this was 11-year-old Eleanor Trostell's glorious secret.

Now it is a said symbol of tragedy and Eleanor is going to have the most impossible kind of a Christmas that any little girl would have.

Dragging Canal.

The police are dragging a drainage canal for the body of Eleanor's widowed mother, Mrs. Katherine Trostell, and declare that after they had failed completely with their third degree system, Eleanor was the one who made a man they charge with the mother's murder acknowledge the fact of her death.

Arthur Foster, who loved Mrs. Trostell and was rejected by her many times, was the man who finally confessed her death and made a holiday of horror of what was to have been Eleanor's merry Christmas. He denied, however, that he had killed Mrs. Trostell, even though the police hold against him such ugly evidence as an automobile stained with blood.

Eleanor had confronted Foster at the detective bureau.

"Give Her Back."

"I want my mother—it's Christmas time," she told him, "you know where she is! Oh, please give my Mom back to me."

For more than an hour she mingled her appeals with tears and accusations. Sometimes she sobbed and twined her arms about Foster's neck, imploring him to tell her of her mother. At other times she was tearless and stern, seeming old beyond her years, and finally with outstretched arm and blazing eyes, dramatically hurled at him the accusation:

"You know where she is. You killed her!"

Then Eleanor broke down and had to be led away. She was soothed on a couch in the office of Chief of Detective Hughes and covered with the overcoats of policemen. Soon she fell asleep.

But soon after this, while the little girl slept fitfully, Foster broke down too.

Claims Suicide.

"Kate is dead—you'll find her body in the drainage canal at Ashland avenue," he finally told the detectives. "We had a violent quarrel. We were there at the river bank at night. Suddenly Kate turned from me and jumped into the water. She went right down. I couldn't save her. That was the last I saw of her."

The police claim they don't believe the man's story of the suicide, but think that the little girl's pleas and accusations made him tell them where the body may be found. A great squad of police is dragging the canal, and divers will go down into the murky waters Friday.

Eleanor is with relatives who are trying to console her, but she is hysterical and occasionally cries out—with pitiful references to the little hand-emproidered pillow-cover in her bureau drawer.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX COURSE INSTALLED AT DRAUGHON'S

Experts in Charge of Department—Centrally Located in Peachtree Arcade — Great Demand for Federal Income Tax Auditors — Night Class for Bookkeepers and Business Men.

There is a great and pressing demand for information and expert knowledge in making out Federal Income Tax reports, and it is a fact that the laws and regulations governing these reports are more or less difficult for the average person to handle.

Not only is there a great demand for Federal Income Tax Auditors locally, but the government is frequently holding examinations, seeking to secure men and women who are capable of auditing Federal Income Tax reports.

Draughon's College is an institution founded upon the policy of rendering a distinct service to the community. And in order to help meet the needs of the government and of the business world as well it has installed a department of Federal Income Tax, which will be under the supervision of experts who are thoroughly familiar with the income tax laws, regulations, etc.

Any one having a good knowledge of bookkeeping may enroll. The greater knowledge, however, one has of bookkeeping and accounting, the simpler will be the Federal Income Tax auditing. The class will begin January 10, and information about this course will be gladly given, either by letter, telephone or personal interview.

It must be remembered that Draughon's, during its existence the last thirty-five years, has sought to have its courses of training embrace all the new ideas in accounting and business procedure and has never spared money nor time in securing the best talent of the kind and the best courses to be had, as well as the most commanding location in the city.

Draughon's has secured the exclusive commercial school right to teach the Prentice-Hall Federal Income Tax course in Atlanta, a course that has been adopted by many leading colleges and universities where the Federal Income Tax is taught.

Business men and others interested are requested to make a careful investigation of the merits of this department or any other department of Draughon's College. The reputation of Draughon's and its attitude towards commercial training will certainly justify full and complete confidence in the management of this department. "If you find it at Draughon's it must be all right," is an expression frequently heard nowadays.

Address all communications about income tax auditing, Federal Income Tax Department, Draughon's Business College, Peachtree Arcade, Atlanta, Georgia.

FARMERS MUST HELP U. S. TO HELP THEM

declared that no single movement promised more help toward the present relief and the permanent betterment of agricultural conditions than the co-operative marketing movement. He said the meeting was of unusual importance, and expressed the hope that the farmers would co-operate to make the efforts of the government fruitful.

Read By Ernst.

To Senator Ernst, of Kentucky, who read the message to the meeting, President Harding said:

"Several weeks ago, when you called my attention to the fact that the National Council of Farmers' Co-operative Marketing association was to meet in Washington this month, I was unwilling to deny myself the privilege of meeting with the organization, hoping it might be possible to do so. I find that now, owing to pressure of many duties, that is impossible. Hence I am asking you to express to the gathering my deep interest in its work and my hope that most useful results may flow from the present session.

"I know no single movement that promises more help toward the present relief and the permanent betterment of agricultural conditions than this one. Whoever has cared to read my recent message to the congress will understand the depth of my conviction about the necessity to do everything possible to help the farmer through his present era of depression. I am anxious that the government do everything within reason and sound procedure; and I am still more anxious that the farmers shall themselves co-operate to make the government's effort doubly efficacious. In the long run, government aid can not be made effective unless the farmers shall be organized and alive to their own responsibility to establish and use practical instruments for the distribution of credits and the assurance of the most economical marketing methods. This association stands precisely for the best, most inteligent effort to establish such methods, and to teach the farmer and his friends to utilize them. Because I am convinced of this, I feel that this meeting is of unusual importance and significance, and wish you would convey this expression in the most emphatic terms."

The council, which is composed of representatives of co-operative associations from all sections of the country, also heard Secretary Hoover, of the department of commerce, and Secretary Wallace, of the agricultural department, both of whom emphasized the importance of the movement and urged farmers of the nation to unite along the lines suggested by the president. Other speakers during the evenin included Manning Dougherty, minister of agriculture of Canada, who accepted a special invitation to the conference.

The council is composed of representatives of co-operative associations from all sections of the country. Secretaries Hoover and Wallace were scheduled to address the afternoon session today and addresses were to be made at a banquet tonight by men connected with the co-operative marketing movement. Manning Dougherty, minister of agriculture of Canada, was among the speakers listed for tonight.

Chairman Bingham characterized the message of the president as "most wise, stimulating and impressive."

Must Organize.

The one aim of the American farmer, Aaron Sapiro, of California, declared in the keynote address opening the conference, must be to merchandise his crops instead of dumping them on the market. To accomplish this, farmers must be organized, not with the aim of fixing prices, but to protect the farm industry from dumping of crops on a market made by middlemen.

Political efforts to better the condition of the farming industry, Mr. Sapiro said, have failed and is now time for the farmer to remedy his industry from within itself through co-operative merchandising. The farmer, the speaker added, is the only man in any great industry in the United States marketing individually, and he suffers accordingly.

More than 870,000 farmers in the United States are now organized in merchandising associations, Mr. Sapiro said, representing a billion dollars worth of crops merchandised—not dumped on the market. The farmer does not ask charity, nor does he contemplate a raid on the treasury, Mr. Sapiro added. He does demand, however, that the government shall not discriminate against him.

The program of the council meeting includes a complete review by prominent speakers of the co-operative marketing movement in the United States. Other general topics of discussion will be co-operative financing and rural credits legislation; common problems of co-operative marketing associations and how to handle them; problems of each commodity group and co-operative education of the farmer and the public.

GRIFFIN OFFICIAL FAMILY UNCHANGED

Griffin, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The personnel of city commissioners of Griffin remains unchanged, S. B. Fry, J. W. Gresham and J. S. Tyrus having been re-elected for the ensuing term. The only change made was that of chairman, J. W. Gresham succeeding S. B. Fry in that position. The oath of office was administered by Judge Robert Cumming, and the new commission began to dispose of several matters of importance.

The new board's second term begins with the city's financial affairs in good shape, the cash balance on hand being over $32,000.

THREE MEN HELD FOR BENNING KILLING

Columbus, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Sergeant William S. Hart, whose funeral was held this afternoon, is the first soldier to be buried in the new Fort Benning cemetery.

Three members of the fifteenth tank battalion are still being held on blanket charges of suspicion in connection with the supposed murder of Sergeant Hart.

TWO ALLEGED BANDITS HELD AFTER ATTACK

the shadow of a deserted building near the scene of the robbery and cautiously approaching from the rear covered them with their guns. Both men showed signs of a recent encounter. Both had blood on their clothing the officers stated. At East Point headquarters they gave their names as Philip Godfrey, 22, formerly of East Point, and William White, 23, of Willburden, Pa.

The police say both men admit they slugged McMillan, and robbed him of a watch, $7 in cash, and other items of jewelry. They even had their victim's overcoat in their possession when they were taken into costody, the police say.

McMillan upon reaching the hospital, stated he had left the home of a girl friend about 11 o'clock. He said as he started toward the car line he noticed two men following him, but paid no attention to them. He said the pair stepped to the edge of the sidewalk as if to pass him, but instead suddenly pounced upon him, slugging him before he had a chance to defend himself.

Hospital authorities described McMillan's condition as serious. They say he has an ugly wound on the head, but have been unable to determine whether or not the man's skull is fractured.

BALEY'S REFUSAL SAVED BEAVERS' JOB

reau of investigation, United States department of justice, according to a member of the board who joined in the movement seeking a new chief, and who requested that his name be withheld from publication.

Five members on the police board, it was said, were known to be in favor of replacing Beavers, the step they believed necessary before an efficient reorganization of the department could be effected.

The information which came to light Thursday was to the effect that three Beavers supporters announced they were ready to quit him for some man thoroughly capable of putting the department on a basis of strict efficiency. When Mr. Baley's name was offered for their consideration they thought a suitable head had been found and were entirely willing to make him their choice. This placed eight members, a majority of the board, opposed to Beavers.

Declines Offer.

It was understood at a conference with Mr. Baley that he had tentatively agreed to accept the post, the member stated, and the understanding had progressed to such an extent that administrative plans were discussed. When the committee returned two or three days later for a definite answer Mr. Baley thanked the members for their confidence but said that he would have to decline the position.

A number of members of the incoming council are favorable to Mr. Baley as chief of the department. For some time his name has been rumored as the probable choice of the Sims administration. A few days ago, however, Mr. Baley issued a statement in which he said that if the place were tendered him he would be prevented by circumstances from accepting.

ARMED MOBS DROVE PRISONERS TO DEATH of the road tied together with ropes about their necks. Three of them were still breathing, I think."

"Did you see anything else of wounded or dead men?"

"Yes, we drove down the road in an automobile and saw four more dead—one of them was hanging to a tree."

Cannot Identify.

Mr. Lentz said that he could not identify any of those he had seen with guns except Herbert Walker, who is not one of the defendants in the present case, an indictment against him having been set aside at the request of the prosecution.

T. N. Lentz corroborated his brother's testimony regarding the finding of the bodies. He also told of meeting Herbert Walker and of having had a conversation with him. An objection by the defense to a question regarding the nature of the conversation was sustained by the court. He was permited to say, however, that they met Walker an hour before he found the bodies.

George Harrison, who has a farm at Herrin, near the scene of the slayings, told of seeing a group of about 25 men with a single prisoner near his farm.

"They started south with the prisoner and shot him down when he ran," he said.

Points Out Defendant.

Later the witness testified he saw a smaller group of armed men enter the woods with two prisoners. Then he heard shots, he added.

Mr. Harrison pointed out Bert Grace, one of the defendants, as one of the men he had seen with a gun. He also said he had seen Otis Maynard and Dallas McCree, neither of whom is a defendant. Maynard, he said, had no gun.

McCree, according to the witness, with three other men whom he was unable to identify, came up to his barn and told him they wanted to go through the lot "to head off some men who had gotten loose."

"What else did he say?" Harrison was asked, and replied:

"He said: 'We shot two of them before we got here.'"

Another witness, Lawrence Beare, a Herrin truck driver, pointed out from the stand Joe Carnaghi, a defendant, as a member of the mob whom he had seen carrying a pistol.

Driven Toward Cemetery.

R. L. Poole, a resident of Herrin, testified that he had seen Leva Mann, another defendant, and Percy Hall, a resident of Herrin, who is not among the defendants, among the armed marchers.

Mr. Poole said that the crowd of marchers was made up of between 200 and 500 persons and declared that the prisoners "tired, dirty and clad only in shirt and trousers," were driven ahead of the marchers in the direction of the cemetery.

The witness said that he had seen among the spectators who had watched the procession, Robert Herron, the chief of police of Herrin.

After the marchers had passed, testified he had walked several blocks from his house and on his return had heard the distant sound of gun-firing.

OTTO MILLER IS SIGNED TO MANAGE ATLANTA CLUB

Jno. McIntyre Elected Tech's 1923 Grid Captain

Arkansas Star Selected To Lead Yellow Jackets; Played Guard Two Years

Annual Dinner Given Team and Alumni By Athletic Association at Capital City Club Great Success.

REAGAN PILOTS TIGERS.

Auburn, Ala., December 14.—(Special.)—Frank "Rip" Reagan, of Lineville, Ala., daughty guard, was elected captain of the 1923 Tiger football team at the annual football banquet held at Smith's hall here tonight. Reagan entered the Alabama Polytechnic institute in the fall of 1918, after having finished a most successful gridiron career at N. E. A. A. school, of Lineville, Ala., Reagan after having finished his course in veterinary medicine, is pursuing a course for degree in the school of agriculture. The captain-elect though small of stature, weighing 165 pounds, has been a stellar performer at the guard position for the past three years. Star End Russell "Slick" Moulton, of Mobile, was chosen as alternate captain for the coming season.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Pine Bluff won't merely be a town in Arkansas any longer.

For the next year, at least, it will be known as the place of residence of Georgia Tech's 1923 football captain.

Yellow Jacket letter men saw to that last night at the annual banquet at the Capital City club, when they elected John McIntyre, of Pine Bluff, Ark., as their chief for the next campaign Claire Frye is alternate.

In making the selection the players themselves furnished an echo to a season of football upsets. McIntyre was hardly the odds-on favorite of the boys who are supposed to know a thing or two, but the race he ran is proof enough of this lad's popularity.

John plays guard and he is a mighty good one should anyone happen to ask you. He isn't the type of player continually getting his name in the headlines for stunts that are seen from the press box. But the boys on the team realized the value of the consistent work turned out by McIntyre. That's why they picked him to lead them next season.

Has Two Letters.

He made his letter first in 1921 and repeated in the late campaign. He contributed much to the general worth of the Tech line that proved so hard for the opposition to handle in the season just closed.

The election is a fine tribute to a fine fighter. Before coming to Tech John was engaged in some rather serious fighting abroad, when he was in France as a member of the American Expeditionary Forces. It was while playing on his division football team that he first came in contact with Georgia Tech and its traditions.

John happened to be on the same team with some Tech players. He listened to their yarns and was won to the school. Soon after getting his discharge he hurried to Tech and was received with open arms.

The banquet was its usual success. Colonel Lowry Arnold, as toastmaster, saw to that. He was given the able assistance of as fine a layout of raconteurs as ever uncorked oratory at one of those gatherings.

Alex Given "Flivver."

Gifts from the grateful to the principal figures in one of the most successful gridiron campaigns in Tech's history flew right and left, Coach William A. Alexnader going home in his, a brand-new Ford, given by players and students. The presentation was made by Captain "Red" Barron, who was addressing his mates and well wishers for the last time at a Georgia Tech banquet.

Captain Barron was presented with a beautiful ring and other stars who had completed their careers were remembered. Among these were Jimmy Brewster, Oscar Davis, Al Staton, Charlie Johnson, Paul Lyman and Jack McDonough. The tokens were cuff links.

Colonel Lowry Arnold presided. This statement means that every speaker received an introduction he can write home about and not a moment dragged from the time the festivities started until the banquet was brought to a close.

"Red" Barron, unanimous choice for all-southern halfback for the last two seasons, and generally regarded as being entitled to a place on the mythical all-time all-southern team, made the first speech.

Captain Barron's talk made a profound impression. He showed his love for the boys he piloted in the recent season, and for his coaches who have made Barron one of the greatest halfbacks the south has produced. The down-trodden press also came in for some kind words from the retiring captain. Then came the presentation of the flivver to Coach Alexander.

Urges Training.

After thanking the boys for their gift, Coach Alexander stated that he could not have moulded the team without the assistance of various other members of the coaching staff. He urged his players to keep up their training, as they couldn't get themselves in shape in the short time available for that work.

John MyIntyre, new captain, and Al Staton, a veteran of a thousand battles, were other players called upon. John was too overcome by mates to respond, but Al gave his the honor thrust upon him by his usual splendid talk.

Mayor Key, in his address, offered a strong defense for inter-collegiate athletics and was generous in praise given the Tech team. He styled the players as the best sportsmen, win or lose, he had come in contact with in years of observation.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, next gave a very entertaining talk. Sporting writers, telling the world about what they always thought was the "Tech shift," had it all wrong. Dr. Brittain described it as "that captivating little dance."

Dr. Coon, John W. Grant, Morgan Blake, Fuzzy Woodruff, Major Cohen, Bob Jones, Sr. Dr. Emerson and Dr. J. B. Crenshaw were among other speakers.

BOYS' HI MEETS GRIFFIN SAT.

Boys' High will hold their final workout for the initial basketball game of the season with Griffin High Saturday afternoon in Spalding county. Boys' High has been practicing much longer than any of the other prep teams of the city and was anxious to have a game for last week, but no team could be found. Coach Johnson immediately got busy and found a game for this week-end, which accounts for the Griffin High-Boys' High fracas.

Griffin High was in the co-educational prep league last season and made a very good record, but due to the abandonment of the league at the beginning of this season Griffin will rely on playing independent schedules over the state. They have practically the same tam as last season and are in good shape at present.

Boys' High will find some stiff opposition in the Spalding county five and a good game is sure to result.

As yet no other prep game has been scheduled with the prep teams of Atlanta, although University and Fulton High tried hard to find a team to play early in the week.

Coach Bean stated a day or so ago that the Marist team started practice Tuesday afternoon with a good bunch of basketball material on hand. Coach Bean is an old head at basketball and, therefore, he gave his boys a little rest after the football season closed. He has started, and once started, Coarch Bean works prep athletes as fast as they can learn the game.

The prospects of G. M. A. are not the brightest in the history of the school, but Coach Wright is hopeful of building a team around his two veterans left from last season. G. M. A., like Marist, did not start practice until Tuesday afternoon.

TECH OFF FOR BIRMINGHAM

BY JOHN STATON

This morning some time about the hour of 12, Pinkney Daves, captain of the track team, will embark with his five supporters for the wooly lands of Birmingham, Ala. There they will enter into keen competition for the A. A. U. trophy. This is an annual event held each year in Birmingham, which draws the best marathon runners from all colleges in the southeastern division.

A handsome loving cup is the temporary reward for victory. The cup must be won three times in succession to become the permanent possession of the winning team.

So far, it has never come into the danger zone. Three years ago it was won by the B. A. C., who produced that year one of the fastest and most consistent road teams ever seen in these districts.

Last year Mississippi A. and M., coming all the way from Starkeville, captured the trophy. With Spenser Cochran and Morrow on the team, they could do little else than win. Augmented by Ellis, the captain of the track team there this season, they walked away with things in general.

Tech has managed to stay in fast company all the preceding years. They have never fallen below third, and have won a second place a couple of times, but Tech wants to win first place this time. In Pinkney Daves, Tech has one of the best runners ever on our track. He has trained all his life, and is in perfect shape. Moore and Roberts, who created such excitement when they broke the local cross country record last season, will be there to help out Pinkney.

S.I.A.A. in Annual Meeting Today at Greenville, S. C.; Dissolution Is Possible

One-Year Rule is Rock That Might Wreck Craft That Pioneered for Clean Athletics in Dixie Colleges.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Greenville, S. C., December 14.—Facing what some members believe is a critical moment in its existence, the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association will meet here tomorrow for its twenty-eighth annual convention with Furman university in the role of host. The meeting will last two days.

The so-called one-year rule for college athletes is the rock upon which the S. I. A. A. may be wrecked, at least in its present organization, it is indicated by athletic representatives of a number of the smaller colleges who have been quoted as saying their institutions would withdraw from the association rather than continue to play under this regulation.

The morning session will be devoted largely to preliminaries. Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, president of Furman university, will welcome the delegates. Following an automobile ride in the afternoon, and a banquet at 6:30 tomorrow night, the first business session will be held. Dr. McGlothlin is scheduled to deliver an address on "some problems of college athletics."

The first season under which members of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association have played football without the use of freshmen on their teams has resulted in building up strong reserves for next year, but has weakened the 1922 elevens, in the opinion of a number of representatives of universities and colleges compiled tonight on the eve of the association's meeting.

Liveliest Convention.

Prospects that the question of freshman players will make the convention one of the liveliest ever held and predictions that it might even cause the dissolution of the association were forecast in statements from several institutions, particularly from among those with the smaller student bodies.

"As far as this institution is concerned the continuance of the one-year rule means that we withdraw from the S. I. A. A.," was the expression from J. W. Edwards of the University of Chattanooga. "We can not live up to it and play anything like college football."

"The question has about resolved itself into this situation: Either we must give up the S. I. A. A. or abolish athletics," said B. M. Brigman, chairman of the athletic board of the University of Louisville, who added there was no intention of discontinuing athletics.

"As for next year, we will certainly play freshmen," came from Frank Anderson, athletic director at Oglethorpe university, who pointed out the student body of this institution was only 205 this year, including twenty-five girls.

On the other hand the University of the South (Sewanee), which has one of the smallest student bodies of any institution in the association, voiced the opinion through W. H. MacKellar, faculty chairman of athletics, that it was doubtful if Sewanee would play freshmen on its varsity teams in future even if the association abolished the one-year rule. There have been fewer failures in class work among freshmen, too, he said, as a result of men of this class trying to make the team.

Mr. MacKellar was joined in the statement that the rule had resulted in better training of reserves for the varsity team by M. J. White, of Tulane university, and R. L. Sullivan, director of athletics, University of Mississippi. Southern varsity football teams have long labored at a disadvantage as compared to northern elevens by the lack of trained material, according to gridiron observers, who have pointed out that only in comparatively recent years have Dixie high school teams been well coached. The practice of playing high school football on a basis similar to the college game, which has been customary for years in the north, has poured quantities of well-drilled football material into the teams above the Mason and Dixon line every season.

Approves One-Year Rule.

The University of Alabama, which also approves the one-year rule, according to Charles A. Bernier, athletic director, expects to have no less than a score of men from the freshman team to add to the nucleus left from this year's eleven, Sewanee expects many substitutions, long a need at that institution as a result of the rule, and Mr. MacKellar expressed confidence that five men, Barker, Haynes, Mahoney and McQuiddy, backs, and Cooch, end, and Barclay, center, would make the regular team.

The University of Florida, whose freshman eleven claims the freshman championship of the south, is counting on a wealth of well-trained material to make the 1923 'Gator team the best in its history, especially as the Florida regulars expect to lose only four men at most, Gunn, Doty and Duncan, linemen, and possibly Fullback Dickson.

Presbyterian College of South Carolina expects two fast backs, Clinton and Copeland, and five linemen, Campbell, Edwards, Ferguson, Fountain and Rucker, to make the first squad next year as a result of training on the 1922 freshman team. Washington and Lee university and the University of Mississippi both believe the rule has injured their team this year, but that it bids fair to build up the teams next season, and the University of Tennessee also favors the rule.

COLLINS DEAL IS GIVEN UP

New York, December 14.—Major league club owners closed their 1923 conferences today after establishing new records for a maximum discussion of player deals and trades and a minimum of actual propositions consummated. Three deals involving acquisition of highly touted minor league stars were the net results of practically continuous bartering efforts. No inter-league deal figured in the limelight.

Oustanding today was the intimation by officials of both New York and Chicago American league clubs that the deal by which the Yankees sought to acquire Eddie Collins, star second baseman of the White Sox, had practically fallen through.

It was learned, however, that Dick Kerr, White Sox southpaw, who is under suspension for failure to report last year and playing with ineligibles, has been eliminated from any deal, because he must remain another year outside of eligible company on the diamond before obtaining reinstatement. Efforts to secure leniency in his case, because of his previous record, failed, it was said.

Meanwhile reports circulated that the Yankees, as an alternative or possibly an adjunct to a Chicago deal, had offered the unprecedented sum of $175,000 for Shortstop Joe Boley, of the Baltimore International league club, who is declared to be the most sought after performer in the minors. Manager Huggins, of the Yankees, denied any deal for Boley and reports that he would be disposed of at all for at least a year were put at rest by announcement in Baltimore that the infielder had signed a 1923 contract with the Orioles.

"This has been one of the most unproductive meetings, as far as deals are concerned, that I ever attended," declared Frank Chance, former "Peerless leader" of the Chicago Cubs and new pilot of the Boston Red Sox.

Ty Cobb, when not smiling at inquiries about his 1922 batting average, asserted he had failed to put through any proposition, although admitting he was looking for some material for the Detroit Tigers.

Augusta Gets Lane.

Augusta, Ga., December 14.—Officials of the local club of the South Atlantic association announced today that Herman Lane, outfielder, one of the Lane twins purchased by Detroit from the Bristol club of the Appalachian league, will play with Augusta next season, arrangements having been made with the management of the Detroit club, which will train here next spring.

Brooklyn Catcher Signs After Long Conference With President Corbett

Corbett, in Telegram to The Constitution, Says Nothing About Length of Miller's Contract—Is a Real Star.

In a telegram to the sporting editor of The Constitution late yesterday afternoon, Jack Corbett, president of the Atlanta Baseball association, stated that he had signed Otto Miller, catcher for the Brooklyn club of the National league, to manage the Crackers in their summer drive for the Southern league championship.

It was a fact well known in exclusive baseball circles that Corbett was dealing with Fred Merkle and Miller. Some days ago when it was announced that Merkle would remain as captain of George Stallings' Rochester club, the dope began to work in Miller's favor.

Corbett's telegram was sent from New York, where he attended the meeting of the American and National leagues in the hope of closing up the deal for the man to wear the managerial toga.

New York, December 14.—(Special.)—Otto Miller, for 12 years catcher of the Brooklyn Robins, will sign a contract tomorrow morning to manage the Atlanta team of the Southern association for next season. Miller, at his home in Flatbush, tonight declared he had agreed to the terms offered him and would affix his signature to a contract tomorrow.

Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn team, had only kind words of praise for the veteran catcher when he learned that he was going to manage the Crackers.

"Miller is a smart catcher and should make a good leader," said Robbie at the Hotel Commodore this afternoon. "He was the best catcher I ever saw handling a spit-ball. It was due to his valuable aid that Grimes became a great pitcher. Sherrod Smith was always at his best when Miller was behind the plate.

Joined Brooklyn in 1910.

Miller came to the Brooklyn team in 1910. At that time Billy Bergen was the first-string catcher, and it was from Bergen that Miller learned all the tricks about backstopping. When Bergen left the club Miller became the first-string catcher of the Robins and in 1916 and 1920 he helped the Brooklyn Robins to win the National league penant by his clever handling of Robbie's pitchers.

Miller is, perhaps, one of the greatest spit-ball catchers that the game ever saw. Several years ago Chief Myers was catching Larry Cheney. Cheney's spit-ball was breaking badly and the Chief missed quite a few of them. He finally told Robbie that he couldn't catch Cheney. Miller put on his shin guards and chest protector and caught Cheney without any trouble. Miller was never a great hitter, but he made a timely blow in the pinch and caught many a runner stealing second. Like Bergen, he could throw to second from a squatting position behind the plate.

Quiet Fellow.

Miller is a quiet, unassuming fellow, and because of his long and faithful service as a member of the Robins, the Brooklyn fans will wish him well in his new position. He was offered the job as assistant manager of the Brooklyn team, but he refused to accept this position and was given his unconditional release.

The Pittsburg club attempted to sign him to a contract today but failed. The Kansas City club of the American association also sought his services.

Miller, Otto Lowell Miller, was born at Hendon, Neb., June 1, 1889. He is married to a Brooklyn girl and lives in Flatbush. He started playing professional baseball with the Sharon team of the O. & U. league in 1908. The next year he was signed by the Louisville club. That same year he was farmed out to the Duluth club. He was drafted by the Brooklyn club in 1910. He bats and throws right-handed. He stands about 6 feet and weighs about 188 pounds.

Everything Ready for Races At Birmingham Saturday

Teams From A. A. C. and Georgia Tech Expected to Make Great Showing in Annual Race.

Birmingham, Ala., December 14.—(Special.)—With practically all of the entries in for the Birmingham Athletic club's twelfth annual road race, everything is in readiness for the starter's pistol Saturday. Entries have been received from the following clubs and colleges: Georgia Tech, University of Alabama, Auburn, Clemson, Birmingham-Southern, Atlanta Athletic club and the Birmingham Athletic club. The individual aspirants for honors will push the number of runners in Saturday's meet well over the half-hundred mark.

The race will get under way at 3 p. m. Saturday. It will be started from Sixth avenue and Twelfth street and will follow the same course of the last few years. The entire course will be patrolled by Boy Scouts who will keep the way clear for the fifty or more speeders.

C. W. ("Bill") Streit has been appointed referee. Bill is too well known to Dixie track followers to attempt to tell anything new about him. Ten judges, a chief scorer and five timers have also been named by the race authorities.

Judges Named.

The ten judges are C. P. Orr, Karl Landgrebe, Octavus Roy Cohen, Jim Foreman, Herbert Warren, Ed Chaisell, Hill Ferguson, Homer L. Thomas, A. A. Doonan and William A. Leighton.

H. M. Starnes has been appointed chief scorer and his assistants will be made public later. The timers are McLin Carter, Ray Davis, Clarence McEachin, Mac Scholder and Herbert Cobbs.

All entrants are requested to report at the Birmingham Athletic club gymnasium at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon for the assigning of numbers and to be given instructions about the course.

Clemson, who is entering the big event for the first time, is being touted high for the team prize. The outfit has been traveling at a merry clip all season, one of its achievements being the copping of the South Carolina State cross-country meet on Thanksgiving day. With Captain Young leading the attack the Carolinians appear very formidable.

The Crimson squad from Alabama is another likely bunch. Irons, captain, is sure to make a strong bid for first place. This lad has copped two 3-mile events this season, the Armistice day meet at the university and the Southeastern A. A. race at Atlanta Thanksgiving day.

LEWIS KEEPS MAT CROWN

St. Louis, December 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Ed (Strangler) Lewis retained his title by defeating Stanislaus Zybszko two out of three falls here tonight. By the victory, Lewis won permanent possession of the Rickard belt, as he has been victorius in three contests in which the trophy was at stake.

Zbyszko won the first fall. The challenger pinned the champion's shoulders to the canvas with a flying mare after 41 minutes and 15 seconds.

Lewis gained in the second fall with a head-lock after 24 minutes and 20 seconds of wrestling. Just before the fall, Lewis wore down Zbyszko with two toe-holds of several minutes each. Lewis effected the fall after his opponent ineffectually used several wrist, body and arm locks.

Zbyszko suffered a dislocation of the right shoulder in the tussle, but his handlers and physicians snapped it back into place and he went back for the next fall.

PRADE BASKET LEAGUE IS FORMED

Eight fast basketball teams were organized into a league at a meeting of the Civic Recreation union held at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

The league will be known as the Prade league. Trammell Scott, of the Julian Prade Sporting Goods company, 184 Peachtree street, was made president of the league, and Jesse Fincher, of the Western Electric company, was made secretary.

The Julian Prade company offers engraved basketball watch fobs to each member of the winning team. Courts have been arranged for and a schedule is being drawn up.

The following teams compose the league.

Georgia National Guards.
Western Electric Company.
Droit Athletic Club.
Crescent Athletic Club.
Leaders' Club.
National Carbon Co.
De Molay.
Cavalry Methodist Church.

There will be a meeting of this league at 6 p. m. Friday afternoon at the Julian Prade company.

Toledo Buys Barbare.

Toledo, December 14.—Walter Barbare, Boston National league shortstop, has been purchased by the Toledo club of the American association. Secretary William Wicks, of the local club, announced today. The consideration is reported to have been $7,500.

Major League Makes Rule Against Late Season Sales

Clubs Will Be Permitted to Carry 40 Players to June 15, in the Place of May 15.

New York, December 14.—Major league baseball magnates in joint session today jammed the brakes on late season sales and deals and thus checked, for a time at least, the outcry against the "buying of pennants." This was accomplished by the passing of a rule which prevents the transferring of players within the major league without waiver process after June 15. Heretofore such deals were possible up to August 1. Under the new regulation the manager of a team after June 15, can not strengthen his club except by purchase of players from the minor leagues.

To offset this rule the clubs will be permitted to carry forty players up to June 15, in place of May 15, and the additional month will enable them to experiment and ascertain the value of younger players.

Major league clubs hereafter will be permitted to have 15 players out under option in place of eight.

These were the outstanding changes in the code governing the National and American leagues from the standpoint of the fan, in that they affect the distribution of playing strength once the pennant races are straightened out and the real battle for the flags begun.

There was no discussion of the suggested return to nine games in place of the present seven in the world series and no agreement was reached to open on the same day next season. At present the National is down to open April 17, and the American league one day later. It appeared to be the general opinion, however, that the schedule committee would rectify this confusion.

Lively Ball Forgotten.

The so-called lively ball and the superabundance of home runs did not figure in the magnates' conference, according to official announcement.

It was decided that the drafting rules should be amended to permit the drafting season to commence the first day of the world's series each year, and that the draft meeting shall be held in the city where the first world series game is played.

It also was resolved that the major and minor league meetings for next year should be held in Chicago the second week of December.

The so-called barnstorming situation which resulted in the suspension of Babe Ruth and other players early last season was remedied by the adoption of a rule that no player shall participate in exhibition games after October 31, and that all future contracts between players and clubs shall contain this provision.

A proposal advanced through the minor league association by the Southern, Eastern and Texas leagues that the draft price be increased from $4,000 to $5,000 was defeated, but it was decided that hereafter a club securing a player by draft should pay immediately and in full the draft price in place of the 50 per cent now stipulated.

Players returned to minor leagues by the majors, regardless whether such leagues are within the draft or non-draft class, shall be subject to draft.

The gambling evil in baseball came in for discussion and betting and pools were denounced. The co-operation of all clubs, public officials and spectators was urged in order to stamp out the evil.

POPE TO INVESTIGATE SITUATION IN WINDER

Adjutant-General Will Act on Instructions From Governor Hardwick.

Governor Thomas W. Hardwick announced Thursday that he will send Adjutant-General L. C. Pope to Winder, Ga., to investigate reports of disorder in that city growing out of the activity of night riders in that section recently. A mass meeting in Winder is scheduled for this morning at the courthouse and it is expected that Adjutant General Pope will arrive there in time to be present at this meeting.

Because of activities of night riders in Barrow county recently the grand jury returned indictments against about twenty men, alleged to have been involved in the trouble. After the indictments were returned threats were made against the life of R. L. Woodruff, prominent merchant of Winder, who was foreman of the grand jury.

In a report made to the governor Mr. Woodruff declared that members of the Ku Klux Klan recently had appeared in front of his house at night and had made threats against his life. Threats also are said to have been made against other citizens of Winder.

The feeling over the situation in Winder has grown intense and trouble is expected to develop in case personal attacks are made on certain citizens of Winder who served on the grand jury. Mr. Woodruff wrote the governor he had called a mass meeting for Friday, but expected no protection from the mayor of Winder or the sheriff of Barrow county.

HOLD MASS MEETING IN WINDER TODAY.

Athens, Ga., December 14.—(By Associated Press.)—Another attempt to put an end to terrorism said to be the work of members of the Ku Klux Klan will be made by Barrow county citizens at a mass meeting to be held in Winder, Ga., tomorrow, according to an announcement received here today.

Citizens who are at the head of the mass meeting movement said today that an effort will also be made to adopt a resolution, which met with a defeat at a mass meeting held in Winder several days ago.

This resolution "condemns the practice of night riding by bodies of masked men or women and the crimes that attend or are cloaked under such practice."

"That we call," the resolution continues, "upon all officers of the law who have taken any obligation in a secret order or otherwise, by which they are bound to protect or connive at infractions of the law by anyone in violation of the constitution and laws of the state and the United States, to either withdraw from such order or to resign from office."

An appeal for protection from the state of Georgia was made by R. I. Woodruff, Winder merchant, a few days ago. Mr. Woodruff was foreman of the Barrow county grand jury which recently indicted some alleged klansmen. He declared in an appeal to Governor Thomas W. Hardwick that demonstrations have been made in front of his home and that he expects no protection from local authorities.

KLANSMEN PARADED STREETS OF WINDER.

Winder, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—On Wednesday night, December 6, a band of 13 men with the fiery cross and dressed in the regalia of the Ku Klux Klan passed through Winder, stopping at the home of R. L. Woodruff, a prominent merchan and manufacturer. No words were said and nothing was done. Mr. Woodruff, nor any member of his family saw them. A number of people coming from prayer meeting at the Presbyterian church next door saw them, and informed Mr. Woodruff of what had happened. This same party of men, after leaving the home of Mr. Woodruff, stopped at the home of Colonel G. D. Ross.

At a men's meeting at the new Winder hotel on the following Thursday night, this matter was mentioned by Mr. Woodruff, and given a general discussion, and a resolution was also introduced by him condemning practices of night riding by masked men, calling for upholding law and order, and asking every man favoring the resolution and who would pledge himself to do all in his power to bring all parties guilty of night riding and violations of law under any kind of masks to vote for and sign same.

With a general discussion, the resolution was tabled, and a meeting called for Friday at 10 o'clock.

At this meeting the same resolution was offered with slight amendments and failed of passage by a vote of 50 to 31. Another meeting was set for Friday, December 15, at 11 o'clock.

Woman Was Slain By Pollard, Says Coroner's Verdict

Richmond P olice Announce Probe of Atlanta Woman's Death Near End.

Richmond, Va., December 14.—Following the verdict of the coroner's jury which today found that Mrs. Thelma Richardson, pretty stenographer, who was killed at the home of Thomas Pollard, her former employer, Monday night, came to her death by a pistol wound inflicted by Thomas Pollard, detectives working on the case tonight announced that they expect to complete their investigation probably tomorrow.

"When we have completed our investigation we will then be ready to lay the case before a grand jury, but not before," said Captain Alex S. Wright, who is conducting the investigation under the direction of chief of police Sherry. "We have several clues that are worth inquiring into," said Captain Wright, "and these will be investigated thoroughly before we will go to the grand jury."

"Another Woman."

One of the clues referred to by the detective is the appearance of "another woman" in the case. Captain Wright admitted tonight that there is "another woman," but he declined to reveal her identity, further than to say that she is a choir singer in a local church. The detective said his men had learned that Pollard was seen in company with "the other woman" several times recently, and this, he said, establishes a motive for Mrs. Richardson's visit to the Pollard home "for an understanding."

The police today practically abandoned the theory that Mrs. Richardson was shot accidentally and put forward the theory that she was shot by Pollard in a scuffle which followed a quarrel at the Pollard home. This latter theory was accepted by the coroner's jury, although one member of that body dissented from the verdict.

"Facts we have collected," said Captain Wright tonight "tend to show that Pollard's relations with the woman for the past three or four years had been intimate. Mrs. Richardson was discharged by Pollard, but was later taken back. She remained in his office but one day. She grew despondent and then desperate, when her savings ran low, and at this point she went to see Pollard at his home. There was a struggle and Mrs. Richardson was killed."

Pistols Significant.

The detectives turned their attention today to the two pistols in the case in an effort to establish the ownership of the gun with which Mrs. Richardson is believed to have been killed. The officers regard as significant the fact that one of the pistols—that claimed by Pollard—is new and has never been fired. It is a .32-calibre Colt revolver and carries a "long" cartridge. The gun with which the woman is said to have been killed was also of .32-calibre and of similar design, but an older weapon. The detectives say they have been unable to establish the manner in which Mrs. Richardson might have carried the pistol, since her purse was filled with toilet articles and the wrap which she wore had no pockets large enough to conceal the weapon.

Efforts of the police and Commonwealth's Attorney Dave Satterfield to delay the inquest and the preliminary hearing of Pollard and J. Mosby West, held as an accessory, met with partial failure today, when Coroner J. M. Whitfield ordered a jury of inquest be impaneled. The hearing, however, was continued until December 23.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD THURSDAY.

Funeral services for Mrs. Thelma Richardson, 23, who was slain in Richmond, Va., Tuesday, were held Thursday afternoon at the Mount Vernon Methodist church. Interment was in North View cemetery.

N. J. Standard Oil Executive Appears Before Oil Probe

President of Big Concern Presents Vast Array of Facts and Figures.

Washington, December 14.—Facts and figures in endless array concerning the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, its control, its operation and to a certain degree its policies, were presented by Walter C. Teagle, its president, to a senate manufacturers' sub-committee today at the resumption of the senate-directed inquiry into prices and conditions in the oil industry.

Appearing as the first of the leaders in the American oil world, which the sib-committee has summoned, Mr. Teagle, over a period of four hours, was questioned by Gilbert E. Roe, of New York, counsel for the subcommittee. The questions concerned the minutest details as to the operations of the company and were directed toward bringing out the exact cost of the major oil products and the extent of competition in the oil industry, brought about by the supreme court dissolution decree of 1911.

Mr. Teagle, when asked some questions with which he was unfamiliar, called on assistants who had accompanied him to Washington, bringing voluminous files. The Standard of New Jersey president, at the start, offered a prepared statement, but was cut short by Chairman La Follette, who announced that the sub-committee had decided he should be questioned. Questions asked by Mr. Roe, however, resulted in the placing of most of the statement into the committee record and just before adjournment Mr. Teagle obtained from Acting Chairman Jones tentative permission to file the statement at the conclusion of his testimony.

The statement, in addition to giving details of the corporation's organization and business operations, declared the directors of the Standard of New Jersey had, in accord with the supreme court dissolution decree, "conducted the business of the company under the conditions of free and active competition, which they recognized the public demand." It added that the company "is not a party to any combination, agreement or arrangement to fix or maintain the selling prices of its products."

The statement also discussed the recent declaration by the corporation of a stock dividend, justifying this action on the ground that the company had, from its inception, been under-capitalized with steadily increasing disparity between issued capital stock and net assets, that it was desired to effect a wider distribution of common stocks considered impractical under the existing issue, because of the high market value of the company stock and that an increase in the outstanding stock was financially necessary.

HARVEY TO RETURN TO U. S. FOR VISIT

Health of Wife Reason Ascribed for Ambassador's Decision to Leave England at Once.

London, December 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The American ambassador, Colonel George Harvey, is returning to the United States almost immediately for a short visit. The reason ascribed for his visit is his anxiety about his wife's health, which has been unsatisfactory of late, and the ambassador desires to give her a much needed rest.

SURPRISE IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, December 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Word of the return of Ambassador Harvey to this country for a short visit was received unexpectedly in Washington and officials would not comment on it in the light of any bearing it might have on foreign questions. Although apparently the visit is to be made because of Mrs. Harvey's health, it is believed the ambassador will confer with President Harding, Secretary Hughes, Secretary Mellon and perhaps other government officials on different subjects, especially those affecting the relations of the United States with Great Britain and Europe.

The Washington government has made no secret of its interest in European problems and its concern at the widening breach among the allies with regard to German reparations.

Government spokesmen have said that the United States is anxious to help in ajustment of Europe's vexing questions if any way can be found to do so without entangling this country politically with disputes not its own. Whether a way to offer such aid has been glimpsed here cannot be said definitely lacking any authorized purpose of the forthcoming visit of Mr. Harvey. It cannot be doubted, however, that administration leaders will obtain from him a closer view of the incidents and background of the London meeting of the council of premiers which so nearly split definitely on the rock of German reparations.

Presumably the ambassador will be back in London before the premiers resume their discussion after the year ends. If so he probably will be able to communicate the views of the American government on all the matters with which the premiers must deal.

Brother of Atlanta Lawyer Meets Death In Train Accident

Macon, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Mrs. Mamie S. McCowen, of Cherokee Heights, Macon, was notified today of the killing of her son, Clifford Bernard McCowen, in a railroad accident at Boyce, La.

McCowen was working as a car inspector for the Texas and Pacific railroad and was killed while coupling cars in the switch yards.

In Macon McCowen was widely known as "Buddy." He was 34 years of age and a prominent Elk. Besides his mother he leaves three brothers, Julian and George McCowen, of Macon, and Harry McCowen, of Atlanta; two sisters, Mrs. Lucile Phillips, of Atlanta, and Miss Kathleen McCowen, of Macon.

The body will be brought to Macon for funeral and interment.

Clifford Bernard McCowen is a brother of Harry McCowen, widely known Atlanta attorney who has offices in the Atlanta Trust building. Attorney McCowen and Mrs. Lucile Phillips, the sister of the victim, reside at 107 Cresthill avenue.

Miss Cooledge Makes Debut In Snow Storm Setting

One of the most brilliant social affairs ever given in Atlanta was the ball at which Edwin Martin Cooledge entertained in honor of his lovely debutante sister, Miss Mary Frances Cooledge, Thursday evening at the Piedmont Driving club.

The receiving party stood at the right of the ballroom and included Mr. Cooledge, Miss Cooledge, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cooledge, Mrs. Mary Peeples Cooledge and Mrs. Henry W. Grady.

Elaborate Decorations.

The decorations were elaborately and handsomely arranged to represent a snow scene in all the reality of the picturesque settin. Baskets holding red roses and poinsettias were used on the tables in the entrance hall. Stately palms formed a background in the palm room and also made an aisle for the guests to pass through before entering the ballroom. Punch was served from a table decorated in smilax, while the bowl was ornamented with hothouse grapes and other richly colored fruits. All of the lights were covered in red silk shades.

In the ballroom the decorations bore every suggestion of the Christmas season. Each white column had at the base a pine tree covered with sparkling snow, while the upper part of the pillar was entwined with smilax. Festoons of smilax adorned the walls between the arches. Snow-covered pine trees guarded the French doors and the entrance of the ballroom and were banked in the recess at the end of the room where a fire burned in the fireplace. Glistening iridescent icicles hung from the ceiling and further accentuated the realistic and artistic effect.

Cabaret Program.

Supper was served at 11:30 o'clock at tables which were placed around the edge of the ballroom. These had for the central decorations baskets holding red roses and poinsettias. Crystal candles held unshaded red candles and the mints and bonbons carried out the color motif of red and white. During supper there was a cabaret program which featured two interesting numbers. A large snowball was rolled upon the scene and when it opened Miss Friedo Sullivan stepped out, wearing a costume of white satin trimmed with maribou and gave a graceful exhibition of a snow dance.

Ernest Rogers followed in several song and piano selections.

Snow Storm.

The last dance was one of great interest and beauty, in that from the icicled ceiling a confetti snow storm pelted the dancers and added particular enjoyment to the occasion. Warner's Seven Aces furnished the music.

Assisting in entertaining were Misses Katharine Haverty, Lucy Candler, Elizabeth Owens, Sarah Orme, Arabelle Dudley, Virginia Pegram, Martha Boynton, Erskine Jarnagin and Marie Smtih, of Barnesville, Ga.

Beautiful Debutante.

Miss Cooledge was beautiful in a Parisian gown of white satin, richly embroidered in pearl and crystal beads, and she wore a coronet of pearls. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Harold Cooledge was gowned in a Lucile model of apricot georgette crepe, crystal beaded, and she wore a corsage of orchids.

Mrs. Mary Peeples Cooledge wore a gown of black satin embroidered in jet and her flowers were Parma violets.

Mrs. Grady's gown was of biege colored lace veiling chiffon and satin, trimmed with French flowers and bands of sable. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

Miss Orme's gown was of peacock blue velvet with bodice of silver cloth.

Miss Owens wore an imported gown of silver brocade, and her corsage was of pink roses.

Miss Dudley's gown was of Alice blue chiffon combined with sequin trimmings and she wore a corsage of Ophelia roses and valley lilies.

Miss Jarnagin's Gown.

Miss Erskine Jarnagin was gowned in silver lace over metal cloth, and her corsage was of pink roses.

Miss Virginia Pegram wore green metal cloth with trimmings of rhinestones and a corsage of Ophelia roses.

Miss Martha Boynton's gown was of white chiffon and she wore a corsage of red roses.

Miss Lucy Candler wore a gown of blue chiffon velvet and her flowers were pink roses.

Miss Katharine Haverty's gown was of silver brocade metal cloth combined with silver lace and her corsage was of orchids.

Miss Smith was gowned in yellow chiffon over satin, and wore a corsage of white roses.

The Lowry Bank Officers Give Dance at Club

The officers and employees of the Lowry National bank entertained the officers and employees of the Trust Compay of Georgia Wednesday evening at a dinner-dance at the Piedmont Driving club.

The dance was one of the largest affairs of the season and was one of the most enjoyable events on the calendar.

The reception room, where the guests assembled, was adorned with bowls of white narcissus and ferns. The spacious ballroom was beautifully festooned with sprays of southern smilax and rich green pine boughs. The tables were arranged on the outer edge of the ballroom, the places for the guests being marked by attractive place cards. Appropriate souvenirs were given the guests.

A large number of the officers and employees of the bank and of the Trust Company of Georgia assembled for the dinner-dance.

Rubin-Massell Wedding Solemnized at Standard Club

A wedding centering wide social interest was that of Miss Florence Rubin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Rubin, to Samuel A. Massell, at the Standard club on Washington street, last evening at 6:30 o'clock.

The club was artistically decorated with plants, smilax and pink roses.

The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of stately palms, baskets of white roses tied with tulle placed on either side. Lighted cathedral candelabra cast a soft glow over the entire scene. Dr. David Marx performed the ceremony.

The bride, who entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, wore a three-piece gown of dark blue velour, trimmed in gray fur. A dark blue silk hat, embroidered in silver completed her attractive costume. Her corsage was white roses and valley lilies.

Benjamin Massell, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

An elaborate dinner followed the ceremony, at which the families and intimate friends were guests. The bride's table, placed in the ball room was overlaid with a lace cover, having for a central decoration a plateau of pink roses and valley lilies. At each end pink silk shaded candelabra held pink lighted tapers were placed. Silver bud vases holding a pink rose and a spray of valley lilies were placed at each plate.

Mrs. Rubin, mother of the bride wore a handsome gown of black brocaded chiffon with a corsage bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Shier Leokoss, of Augusta, Ga., cousing of the bride, was gowned in white crepe, heavily beaded. A corsage of valley lilies completed her pretty costume.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Rubin, of this city, formerly of St. Louis, Mo. Through her charming personality and splendid traits of character she has endeared herself to a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Massell is a prominent business man of Atlanta, and has many friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Massell left for a month's trip to Florida and Cuba. After their return, they will be home in the Park Court apartments on Piedmont avenue.

Small Gifts For The Home

First Aid to Inspiration

—Are you writing your memoirs? So many people are these days. In fact so many people are writing so many things—from checks to love letters—that the writing corner has become an essential part of every room.

—Convenience, beauty, and charm are first aids to inspiration.

—There must be a lamp to drop a pool of soft light—and jars for seasonable flowers — and small furnishings of pottery and crystal. By all means there must be book ends for cherished volumes.

—A desk, in and of itself, is merely a piece of furniture. A writing corner, conveniently and beautifully equipped, becomes the most vital center of interest in every room.

—Can you think of a more satisfactory group of Christmas gifts for your home and for those who make it home?

—Mahogany Spinet Desks.....$40 to $105
—Mahogany Secretaries.....$85 to $110
—Lamps.....$15 to $50
—Desk Sets.....$4.95 to $15
—Book Ends.....$1.29 to $4

If Narcissus Was an Ancestor of Yours

you have inherited a penchant for pools—and the sight of yourself. Lest you inherit his fate, also, let me urge you to avoid pools. They have their place—in the garden—but it's much more convenient to have mirrors on your walls; and more fashionable, too.

—The foremost decorators are hanging mirrors everywhere and the varied styles and reasonable prices found at Rich's make it possible for you to have a mirror for every room hung on the Christmas tree. From $12.50 to $275.

Friendly Informality

—Have you tried the use of small pieces of furniture—pieces that denote use and life—to relieve your rooms of their unrelenting formality?

—Small pieces of furniture create a sense of intimacy and do much to make a room inviting looking. What gifts are more appropriate than those that make a home more home-like?

—Smoking stands that will make any room inviting to men, $6 to $35.

—Book Racks to keep your favorite books near your favorite chair, $7 to $24.50.

Christmas Growing

"Christmas shall ne'er be Christmas, till the hour
When every breathing thing may humbly learn
The clasp of comrades, pluck the fadeless flower
Of Sacrifice, and toward some brother yearn."

Perhaps the best compensation for growing older comes with learning that the joy of giving is greater than that of receiving. If playmates grow into comrades, if giving develops to the point of sacrifice, if selfishness gives place to sympathy, we are truly growing up.

Marjorie Madison

Miss Roxie Reid Weds Andrew Gill In Woodbury, Ga.

The marriage of Miss Roxie Louise Reid and Andrew Franklin Gill, which took place in Woodbury, Ga., Thursday at noon, is of wide social interest. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Warren G. Cutts at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reid, in Woodbury in the presence of a brilliant social gathering. The home was decorated with handsome palms, chrysanthemums and autumn foliage. An improvised altar was placed in the living room before the deep recessed window which was filled with stately palms and potted plants and adorned with tall baskets filled with large white chrysanthemums.

The bride's sister, Miss Elizabeth Reid, who was the maid of honor, wore a golden brown satin dress brocaded in black and topped with a wide hat of gold, brown and black to match.

Mrs. Fair Dodd, of Atlanta, was the matron of honor, and wore a gown of sand-colored charmeuse with panels of rare lace. Her hat was of sand-colored straw and crepe de chine, and was trimmed with small French flowers.

The only bridesmaid was Miss Elizabeth Reid, who wore a dress of brown canton crepe trimmed with gold lace and her hat of brown bore a trimming of flowers. All wore corsage bouquets of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride was given in marriage by her aunt, Miss Roxie Elizabeth Reid, with whom she entered the living room. She was gowned in a handsome traveling suit of seal brown duvetyn with trimming of beaver fur. Her hat was of a lighter shade of brown and was draped with a soft fall of brown lace. In the place of the conventional bride's bouquet she carried an exquisite white prayer-book showered with streamers of white satin ribbons and lilies of the valley.

A reception and wedding breakfast followed, after which Mr. and Mrs. Gill left for a wedding journey in Florida. On their return they will make their home in Woodbury.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Tarrant, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Reid, Miss Annie Reid, of Batesburg, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Strother, of Ridge Spring, S. C.; D. C. Strother, of Fort Valley, Ga.; Mrs. F. C. Strother, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Meakin, Miss Sophie Lou Meakin, Mr. and Mrs. Fair Dodd, Dick Dodd, all of Atlanta; W. A. Strother, Miss Martha Strother, of Perry, Ga.; J. M. Strother, of Louisville, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. Grover Gill, of Atlanta, Georgia.

Mrs. Gill is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reid, of Woodbury. During her school days in Atlanta and at Agnes Scott in Decatur she made her home with her grandmother, Mrs. F. C. Strother, 6 East Thirteenth street. She is a member of the Bulldog club of Agnes Scott.

Mr. Gill is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gill, of Woodbury, and fills an important position with the Woodbury Banking company.

Miss Grant to Be Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. John William Grant have issued invitations to the debut party of their daughter, Miss Anne Grant, who is one of the most popular debutantes of the season.

This will be a very brilliant social event of the Christmas holidays and will take place on the evening of the 27th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant, on Pace's Ferry road.

A large number of the unmarried society contingent have been invited.

Brilliant Concert To Building Fund.

The Atlanta chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will sponsor a concert in the Lucile King Thomas auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club on the evening of December 20. The proceeds of the concert will be devoted to the building fund of the U. D. C. chapter house. The concert will be at 8:15 o'clock. Mrs. F. E. Clark is in charge of the program, which will include ballads, some of the songs of long ago, as well as the more classical selections. Those who will give the concert are Solon Drukenmiller, tenor; Mrs. James Whitten, soprano; Eurico Leide, 'cellist, and Mrs. Charles Dowman, pianist and accompanist.

Tickets are $3 each and can be bought at the door on the evening of the concert.

Sterilize Baby's Nose

Nose and throat specialists have perfected a very mild and agreeable sterilizing salve called Eucapine, especially designed for the mother's use with her croupy children. It seems that Eucapine is the only non-poisonous germicide that will effectively destroy the catarrh germ which causes colds, croup, sore throat, etc.

Physicians explain that young children are unable to blow the nose and that the secretions accumulate, become irritating, insanitary and literally swarm with catarrh germs, which have a tendency to spread to the throat, internal ear tubes and lungs, causing earache, deafness, adenoids, enlarged tonsils and even favoring pneumonia. Physicians are urging mothers to keep the children's noses and throats sterilized with Eucapine, both as a preventive and as a cure. It is said to be very pleasant and the older children soon learn to call for it by name and doctor themselves when they feel a cold coming on.

NOTE: The product referred to above is put up in family jars, with full directions, and may be had at any drug store for a half dollar.—(adv.)

Xmas Party to Be Given Old Veterans.

The regular monthly meeting of Fulton chapter, U. D. C., was held Monday afternoon, December 11, at Edison hall.

There was a good attendance and plans for entertaining the Confederate veterans during the Christmas holidays were made. Mrs. Charles L. Anderson was elected chairman of the committee for the Christmas party to be given to all the confederate veterans of the city Wednesday, December 27, at the Soldiers' home.

Several letters of thanks and appreciation were read by the president, Mrs. E. B. Williams, from the families of confederate veterans.

The members of the chapter voted to defer the endorsement of any candidates for higher U. D. C. offices until nearer convention dates.

The constitution and by-laws committee reported, but the chapter voted to postpone action on their report until the first meeting in January.

Mrs. W. S. Coleman, first vice president of the Georgia division, U. D. C., was present and made a very interesting report of the national U. D. C. convention held in Birmingham, Ala., in November.

Mrs. Coleman congratulated the members of Fulton chapter on the splendid work that they are doing for the confederate veterans and the confederate women.

A called meeting will be held next week to complete plans for Christmas party.

Tech Woman's Club Holds Meeting.

The Georgia Tech Woman's club met at the home of Mrs. A. H. Armstrong, 177 West North avenue, on Tuesday at 3:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Armstrong was assisted in entertaining by the following hostesses: Mrs. W. H. Emerson, Mrs. W. V. Skiles and Mrs. R. I. White.

The president of the club presided at the business meeting. After this a social hour was enjoyed.

Red rosebuds and white narcissus adorned the room and table, where the Christmas touch was further carried out by bonbon dishes filled with red and white mints.

Mrs. Emerson and Mrs. White poured tea.

Forty members of the club were present.

The various ladies who will preside over the booth will be glad to see their friends, Bible students, teachers, ministers, O. E. S. officers and any others who are interested in or contemplating the purchase of a Bible.

Mrs. Harper Is President Of Sheltering Arms

Mrs. Marion S. Harper was elected president of the Sheltering Arms association at the annual meeting held Thursday morning at the Osgood Sanders nursery on Walton street. She succeeds Mrs. H. F. West, who has served as president for the past year.

The other officers include Mrs. Ben Lee Crew, vice president; Mrs. John McDougald, recording secretary; Mrs. Brooks Morgan, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Eugene Black, treasurer. Mrs. W. S. Elkin was chairman of the nominating committee.

Mrs. Harper has been identified with this important and worthwhile charity for many years, as she became a member of the organization when she came to Atlanta to reside. She is deeply interested in the work, which embraces four nurseries, Osgood Sanders, John Barclay, Cornelia Moore and Gate City. The support of these branches depends entirely upon the tag day which is launched each spring in Atlanta, and is a day on which citizens are called upon to give once a year to the Sheltering Arms in order that mothers who are compelled to work may place their children at a nearby nursery to be taught, fed and cared for during the day. During the world war Mrs. Harper gave invaluable aid through the National League for Woman's Service. Through her efforts and her unselfish devotion to the purpose over 3,000 garments were cut, finished and shipped to needy French children through the French consul at New Orleans. The minister of war in Paris sent a letter of acknowledgment to Mrs. Harper for her splendid work and help at such a critical time. There were 1,000 cakes of soap and 1,000 pairs of stockings also included in the shipment. The National League for Woman's Service was finally absorbed before the war ended by the American Red Cross, and other shipments were sent to France through the latter organization. Mrs. Harper is a member of St. Mark's Methodist church and belongs to Circle No. 3. She is prominent in the social world and is a woman of charming personality, to which is added unusual beauty.

Mrs. West, the retiring president, has rounded out a year of splendid and faithful service to the Sheltering Arms. She has always been a leading figure in the work, and has been appointed to serve at various times on committees at the Osgood Sanders, John Barclay and Gate City nurseries, which gave her a clear understanding of the demands and the requirements which would fit her to hold the highest office and honor to be conferred upon her when she was elected as president of the association a year ago. Her faithfulness to duty and the realization of her high ideals in this work have been reflected in each of the day nurseries, for there has been a spirit of harmony and perfect understanding existing between Mrs. West and the hundreds of women who have worked with her in the betterment of conditions existing among these children, and she has reached that goal during her administration. One of her marked characteristics is her ability as an organizer and leader of women.

Lovely Mississippi Visitor

Miss Mailand Weems, of Meridian, Miss., who is visiting Mrs. Robert Crumley at her home on Inman circle in Ansley Park, and will share honors with Miss Douglas Paine, Miss Elizabeth Kontz and Miss Martha Boynton, four charming debutantes of the season. Miss Weems is the lovely debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Weems, and is a popular belle in Mississippi society. Her grandfather, the late Columbus Williams, was prominent in all civic enterprises and was identified in the upbuilding of Meridian.

The Invisible Husband

BY MARGUERITE HURTER

INSTALLMENT NO. 70.

Phyliss' Tragic Letter.

When Deb and Larry landed in Europe, there was only the spectre of death to greet them. Phyliss had followed her threat!

Cables were received from the Star Film-company confirming her death—details had been hushed out of the press—but a long, rambling letter from Phyliss herself was waiting in care the office of the American Express company at Paris.

"Larry dear—" it began sprawlingly—"This is what had to happen. Without you I can't go on in pictures—you know it! I'm getting olders. I'm passe! I knew it long before Finkenberg was gone. I can't go on in pictures, unless I want to live to see myself shrivel back into the mob. Money can't put back into my face that which I have lost. It's the finale—that's all! I'm good for nothing. Not even good enough to get my baby and try to settle down. It's a terrible thing to admit one is happier asleep than awake.

"This is my last tragedy! I'll just go off to the mountains—possibly Sunset lodge. You remember that dear old inn? It was at Eagle Nest that Finkenberg was called! I somehow want to go back to that spot. I'm going to do exactly what your little girl nearly did—lose myself in the woods!

"I'll pretend to be hunting deer! I'll wear my cleverest outing clothes—rouge my cheeks, and paint my eyelids as I always do to look more interesting—I look less like what I am—an old, haggard, ugly woman! Then I shall walk right through the forest and when I spy my game, or whether I do or not, I shall shoot myself!

"That's all. Nobody will suspect!

"But the papers ought to give me a last generous notice . . . 'A popular movie star shot hunting in the Adirondacks!' . . . Rather a sporting way to ring down the curtain, don't you think? You're the only reason I regret to leave—but I can't have you, so I'm motoring to Sunset lodge this afternoon.

"Don't bother about the studio, nor my family. I've sent papers conveying everything to the baby. What I leave otherwise I've a notion no one would want. Such giddy things I had in my apartment—just like my life—cheap, gaudy, and worthless! There was that one lovely jade floor cushion that you used to sit on when you came to my studio. Remember? I'd love to know you'd accept that. It seems ironic, but it might be sort of a wedding present. I'm having it wrapped and sent to your Park avenue apartment. With my last kiss, PHYLISS."

Deborah interrupted the letter here in indignation. "You'd never accept the cushion!" she declared. "You wouldn't, would you Larry?"

Larry reflected sadly—

"I don't know what to do. She says she has had it wrapped and sent to my apartment—"

"Our apartment," Deb corrected. "We are going to live there, aren't we? We planned that as our home until the Westbury house is ready, didn't we?"

"Of course we did, dear," Larry agreed. "But what has that to do with the pillow? If it was Phyliss' wish to give that cushion to me, I daresay we can find a place for it."

"I forbid it! I refuse to have it in the house!" Deb cried, stamping her foot rather violently in her delicate bronze pumps. Such dainty feet! Larry observed them quietly.

Quite a handsome picture Deb made as she sat in a gold chair in their Louis IV sitting room of the fashionable Crillon hotel in Paris. Despite the calamity of Phyliss' suicide, Deborah had chosen to wear her most becoming frock of henna velour trimmed with rich sables. The first morning she had spent revelling in each petite maison recommended by the most fashionable shopping bureau in Paris. This was her honeymoon! Her first visit to Paris!

It seemed dreadful that the jealousy of a woman who could not gain her point in life should aim to strike against Deb's happiness in the robe of death! Phyliss had blighted her honeymoon days. The days that should be the happiest pages in Deb's life!

Larry had been a changed man since the receipt of the first wireless, notwithstanding all his protestations to the contrary. Deborah could not overlook that Phyliss Gay's affections might not have been a matter of such utter indifference to him after all!

"So we have to go back?" She questioned miserably. "On account of this—we'll have to spoil our honeymoon!"

Larry hesitated to read over again a postscript on the letter:

"Don't bother about anything! There's really nothing you can do dear Larry, except perhaps to keep an eye on my baby girl. She's only 6! What a coward I am to leave her!"

A manly tear fell on the scented sheet as Larry tucked it away, almost tenderly, in his best pocket. . . .

"No—No I guess there's nothing I can do for Phyliss now—poor girl. Sometime I may—that is, you and I, could look up the baby. I'd like to see the little tot—Poor kid! No lack of money, of course, but it must be rough without a mother or father."

"I was without a mother or father," Deb reminded rather unhappily and then with a surge of her old resentment against Phyliss she demanded:

"Why should we bother about her baby? I'm sure there are many little boys and girls in the world worse off. At least, this child will have lots of money. Other little children are starving—much more to be pitied!"

Larry walked over and embraced Deborah seriously, reasoning—

"Poor little girl! You can't forget your grudge against Phyliss! You can't understand! But why denounce the baby? Of course, there are other little babies in need of help and interest, but I doubt whether any child born of poor parents is more to be pitied than a child fathered by a mercenery monster like Finkenberg, and a weak, spineless woman like Phyliss. Think of the handicap."

"But heredity isn't everything!" Deb objected.

Larry reached over and stroked Deb's hand—fondly, fervently—

"Don't you suppose if you and I—that is, if we were blessed with a child—don't you suppose that our baby would be a reflection of us? There's great responsibility in being a parent, and I guess poor Phyliss is one who had to admit she couldn't meet it, that's all.

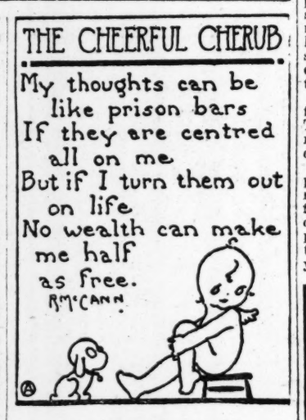

Larry paused and considered his next remark carefully, then gently he continued—

"And Deborah, if you insist upon going back into pictures—to continue your career—you'll not be meeting your responsibilities either! You're a woman—my wife! Are you happy to live—just for that? You'll be the spirit of our home. Only what you can bring to it will make it worth while.

CHAPTER XXIX.

At the Game.

The sun had gone under a cloud, and the wind grew more and more biting as they drove on. Bruce, cold and hungry, began to show the strain of Margaret's constant nagging. It was rather hard on even so experienced a driver to keep going in the jam of cars that made the Post Road rival Fifth avenue at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, and Bruce gave a sigh of relief when at last he parked the car in New Haven and helped Cynthia to the ground.

"I do hope we're in time for the kick-off," she told him as they started for the bowl. "I think that's almost the most exciting moment of the game."

"You really like football, don't you," he commented. "Marge just came along because everyone else was coming. Cyn, I'll let you five dollars that she'll want me to take her somewhere to tea before the game is over."

When they reached their seats Cynthia turned to Roger, a worried look in her blue eyes. "Dear, do you suppose anything has happened to the girls?" she asked. "They were ahead of us on the road, and surely they ought to be here by this time."

"Now, Cynthia, if you'd just stop worrying everything would be all right," he told her rather loftily. "It isn't going to do any good to keep wondering where they are, you known. They'll turn up!"

Rebuffed, she turned away. She felt wretched to the bottom of her soul. She was a little cold, and rather hungry, and a strand of hair had come loose and kept blowing across her eyes no matter what she did to try to tuck it under her hat again. She couldn't find her handkerchief, and it was an exquisite little monogrammed one that a friend had sent her from Paris a few days before. She had forgotten her spats, and was wearing gauzy stocking that were no protection at all. And she was much worried about the girls. She could not help picturing horrible accidents that might have happened. What if their car had been hit by a train at a railway crossing, or another car had run into them?

She forgot her worries and discomforts for one glorious moment when two teams lined up, tense, expectant, waiting for the whistle. Its shrill pipe was clearly heard in the moment of stillness that fell on the huge crowd—then the ball went sailing down the field, just high enough, a clean, beautiful kick, and the game had begun.

It was not until the end of the first quarter that the others came. The girls were radiant when they arrived, and prettily contrite over the delay.

"We just couldn't seem to find that place where you said to turn off the mail road," Lucile declared. "And finally we stopped looking and decided that you'd certainly find some place where you could get something to eat. But oh, it is too bad that you missed that gorgeous food that Phil brought along. Really, it was wonderful."

"You must have frozen in that open car," commented Monica, sweetly. "I was so glad to be in a nice heated one. We had such a delightful drive—passed everything on the road."

Margaret cast her a murderous glare. Cynthia would have found it amusing if she hadn't felt inclined to choke Monica, herself. It was bad enough for them to come, looking as if they had just stepped out of their dressing rooms, and then for them to gloat over everyone else was really too much. Only Bruce's cheerful grin saved her.

The girls were radiant when they arrived.

"Cheer up," he whispered. "Give a thief rope enough, and he'll hang himself."

But Roger was less philosophic.

"Wish you'd been with us part of the time at least," he declared. "We starved and froze, and for ten cents I'd wring your neck for bragging this way about how comfortable you are."

"Oh Roger dear!" Monica promptly exclaimed. "Aren't you happy? Now, that's perfectly shameful. Here Phil, move over and let me sit next to Roger; somebody's just got to console him, and I'm the very girl to do it. Roger, I'd have saved a sandwich for you if I'd only known! But truly I thought—"

Cynthia lost the rest of the sentence, as Monica lowered her voice. She shut her eyes tight to keep back the tears. Why must Monica always spoil everything?

Atlanta Women Write Book Of U. D. C. Chapter Work

The Atlanta chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy held an interesting meeting Thursday afternoon in the chapter house at which Mrs. Charles T. Phillips, the president, presided, and three new members, Mrs. Joseph Denim and the Misses Williams, were received.

Letters from Mrs. Joseph Morgan thanking the chapter for the flowers sent on her recent birthday and from Mrs. Livingston Rowe Schuyler, the president general of the U. D. C., thanking the chapter for their hospitality during her recent visit and from Professor Deery thanking the chapter for their shower of postcards sent of his recent birthday, were read.

Mrs. Eula Griffin and Mrs. George McMichael, who leave January for Paris, where they will spend the remainder of the winter, were introduced and greetings were sent by them from the Atlanta chapter to the Daughters of the Confederacy chapter in Paris.

A letter of appreciation was also sent to John Sharp Williams, at the suggestion of Mrs. John Perdue, thanking him for his recent efforts in behalf of the monument to black "mammies," which southern women are erecting in Washington, D. C.

The feature of the meeting was the giving of reports from the delegates who attended the recent convention in Birmingham, Ala. Mrs. George Clayton gave a report on the Jefferson Davis monument to be unveiled in Fairview, Ky., his birthplace, on June 3. Mrs. Will C. King talked interestingly of the historical evenings and the awarding of prizes—an important part of the Birmingham convention. Mrs. T. T. Stevens told of the Stone Mountain memorial and Miss Elizabeth Hanna talked of the historical work and made a plea for more historical papers from members of the Atlanta chapter.

Announcement was also made of the first history of the Atlanta chapter ever published and just issued in book form and which is a remarkable record of a remarkable chapter and covers the work of 27 years of organization. The booklet is edited by Miss Alice Baxter, the second president of the chapter, and opens with a brief sketch by her of the forming of the chapter. Miss Baxter says in part:

"The Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was organized July 18, 1895, at the home of Mrs. Edward Peters, by Mrs. C. Helen Plane, who was elected president. The immediate demand for organization was to set forth at the pending southern cotton states exposition all that memories of the southern confederacy mean to the south. The Atlanta chapter having taken the initiative, veterans and citizens co-operated in securing space on the exposition grounds for building a confederate relic hall, and in having November 7, 1895, assigned as confederate day. Relics came from over the south. Distinguished guests were drawn to Atlanta confederate day, and the whole was a great achievement.

"Following confederate day, a convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was held in Atlanta November 8, and on November 9 the Georgia division was organized, with Mrs. C. Helen Plane as president."

Interesting Articles.

There are other interesting articles contributed by well-known Atlanta women, among whom are Mrs. A. O. Woodward, who writes of the Confederate Soldiers' home, of Georgia; Mrs. Passie Fenton Ottley, who writes of the confederate relic hall and confederate day at the cotton states' exposition; Mrs. John Perdue, who writes of the chapter house; Mrs. Charles Rice, who writes of the Children of the Confederacy; Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, who writes on confederate memorial day; Mrs. Stafford Seydel, who writes on "Gift Scholarships"; Miss Elizabeth Hanna, who tells of "Preservation of Confederate History"; Mrs. Mary J. Blackburn, who contributes a sketch of the chapter's presidents from 1895 to 1922. Mrs. Edward Warner writes of conventions; Mrs. Charles Phillips of world war soldiers of confederate lineage; Miss Agnes Neville Davis contributes a poem; Mrs. Howard McCall tells of the historical essay contest; Mrs. Hal Hentz of the southern cross of honor; Mrs. Joseph Morgan of the confederate reunions in Atlanta, and Mrs. T. T. Stevens of the Atlanta chapter's war work.

Valuable Incidents.

All through the book there are interesting paragraphs telling of some valuable incidents in the chapter's life. One of these is that telling of the generous check sent to the chapter by Mrs. Frances Gordon Smith, the daughter of General John B. Gordon, which defrayed the expenses of sixteen veterans to the reunion at Richmond—an example of her appreciation to the man who wore the gray, and who idolized her father.

Mrs. William C. King contributes interesting information in paragraph form, which is placed on almost every page, such items as these:

"Perhaps very few of the members of the Atlanta chapter today know that in 1895, the year of its organization, the chapter was known as chapter B, of the Daughters of the Confederacy. On Augusta 1, 1895, at a meeting of chapter B at the home of Mrs. E. G. McCabe, a ripple of interest was caused by the application for membership of "Belle Boyd" the famous confederate spy, for herself and her two young daughters.

"There were three thousand essays written by the school children of the city and county schools in 1913 on the subject, "General John B. Gordon." On the death of Amos Rucker, a highly respected negro in the city, Mrs. Plane suggested to the chapter that to send flowers on the occasion of his funeral would be a testimonial of appreciation for his fidelity to the cause for which his former master fought. The flowers were sent through the chapter.

"It was brought to the attention of the chapter that in 1899 Mrs. W. G. Raoul, while in Washington, D. C., on attendance on the D. A. R. congress, introduced the resolution "that the term, 'War Between the States,' be the correct one in alluding to the struggle of the sixties."

The history is a distinct credit to its editor, Miss Alice Baxter, and to the general chairman, Mrs. T. T. Stevens, and the committee composed of Mrs. A. O. Woodward, Mrs. Will King and Mrs. C. M. Davis, who collaborated in the publishing with her, and it is a valuable addition to the story of work carried on by southern women.

Christmas Party For Veterans.

Miss Powell To Be Honored

Miss Ella Powell, who will be the guest of honor at a reception to be given Saturday, December 16, by Mrs. Frank Tupper Mason at "Stonehenge," her home in Druid Hills. Miss Powell will be introduced to the delegates who are attending the Southern Music Supervisors conference now in session in Atlanta. She will make a short talk on the "Psychology of Song." She has lived in Europe and in New York for many years and is receiving a cordial welcome from her countless friends in this city, her former home. Miss Powell will also be among the guests who will visit Stone Mountain Saturday just before the reception when there will be open air songs with the mountain as a sounding board.

Reception Introduces Mrs. Harlers, A Recent Bride

Mrs. Floy Lewis Holt was hostess Thursday afternoon at a charming afternoon tea given in honor of Mrs. Bert Harless, a recent bride, who is now making her home in Atlanta.

Mrs. Holt received at the home of her parents, Mrs. T. H. McCree, 2610 Peachtree road. The living room where the receiving party stood was decorated with pink roses and many beautiful potted plants.

The Christmas note was evidenced in the tea-table decorations. The centerpiece was a large silver basket filled with scarlet blossoms tied with red tulle and illuminated with tiny electric lights. A wider circle of small silver baskets filled with red blossoms was placed around the center. A handsome Venetian lace cloth covered the table.

Mrs. Holt received her guests in a gown of green sequins. She wore a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Harless was gowned in white and silver and her corsage bouquet was of orchids and lilies of the valley. This charming young matron, who was before her marriage, Miss Martha Waller Robertson, of Emporia, Va., is one of the recent acquisitions to Atlanta's social world who will be warmly welcomed at a series of social events.

Mrs. Holt was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. McCree, who wore a blue chiffon velvet dress, and Mrs. Walter Welborn, Mrs. Orme Campbell and the Misses Mary Hill [illegible] Martha Boynton and Emily Davis. Sixty guests were received during the afternoon.

Entertainment at Moreland School.

Mrs. C. J. Maddox, principal of Moreland school, and her faculty have arranged a most interesting program for the midwinter entertainment to be given in the school auditorium on Austin and Euclid avenues Friday night, December 15, at 7:45 o'clock.

All patrons of the school and their friends are invited. Admission 25c.

The following program will be rendered this evening:

Grade 1-2 "Christmas Day at the Home of Mother Goose."

Grade 3-2, school dances; "Santa and the Christmas Trees."

Grade 3-1, "Jim Santo's Workshop."

Grade 5-1, "The Milk Maids" (three scenes).

Grades 6-1 and 2-2, "The Awakening of Christmas."

Grade 7-2, the meeting of a literary society.

Miss Rogers Will Give Xmas Dance

One of the delightful social events of the Christmas gaities will be the dance which Miss Eleanor Rogers will give on the night of December 23, honoring her brother, Gladstone Rogers, who returns from Sewanee, Tenn., where he is a student at the University of the South, December 20.

Mr. Rogers is a popular member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Miss Rogers will be assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. G. G. Rogers, Miss Ruth Rogers and Mrs. Charles W. Stone.

The guests will include about 40 friends of the hostess.

Insanitary Habits.

There would be fewer cases of enlarged tonsils and adenoids among small children if mothers would refrain from encouraging the use of pacifiers and thumb-sucking while they are infants.

Tarnished ...broideries.

If the gold and silver embroidery has tarnished on the evening gown that has been laid away all summer, place a cloth over the trimming and iron gently with a warm iron up and down for a few minutes. The brightness will soon return.

Mrs. Elsas Speaks At Y. W. C. A. Home.

The one hundred girls of the Y. W. C. A. home, 56-62 West Baker street, are scheduled for a rare treat this evening when they assemble to hear Mrs. Benjamin Elsas speak on customs and courtesies and how to extend a gracious hospitality in one's home. The "Be Square" club of the home has arranged the evening's program for Mrs. Elsas.

During the world war many happy evenings were spent by the Y. W. C. A. girls when Mrs. Elsas used to speak to them on the customs and courtesies of daily life. Upon one occasion this cultured woman entertained a club of "Y" girls at her home in Druid Hills, where they carried out in their social evening the points of courtesy that their hostess had stressed in her talks to them.

An event of Thursday evening at the Y. W. C. A., Peachtree arcade, was when Mrs. Murray Hubbard spoke to the A. R. G. club girls (all round girls) on citizenship. The speaker emphasized to the girls their duty to their city, state and country, and urged them to study the big problems of the day and as thinking young women to make their influence felt in this community.

Peachtree P.-T. A. Gives Fair.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Christmas fair and festival to be given by the Parent-Teacher association at the Peachtree Heights school building on Friday afternoon and evening, December 15.

Entertainment will include music by Miss Monk's orchestra, for dancing; songs by Harry Smith, selected numbers by Paul Donehoo, and auction sale by Mr. Douglas. Numerous other features will be offered in the way of general entertainment, under the management of capable committees of ladies.

Children will be admitted free from 2 to 4 o'clock; admission in the evening will be 25 cents.

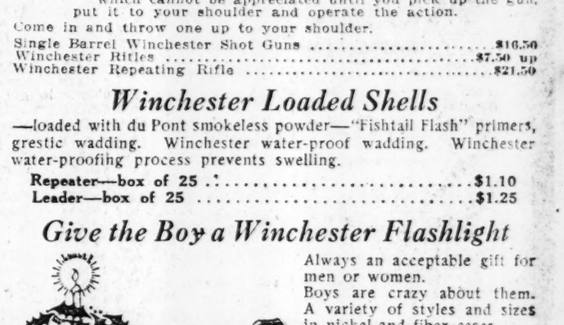

The fair will be for the betterment of school work, especially the kinder garten.

Sunflower Center To Meet Today.

The Sunflower Center of Atlanta will meet on Friday at 8 o'clock in Carnegie library hall. All interested in practical psychology are invited. No charges made.

Mrs. Jennie B. Lee will give demonstrations in thought transmission and psychometry and will also answer questions placed in sealed envelopes.

Fresh and Springlike are the New Taffeta Dresses

Christmas is fairly tripping up our Spring. There's a Spring-like whisper in the new taffeta dresses. Certainly here are some fascinating advance agents—maids in waiting as it were.

Three are shown here, sketched from the dresses, at these three prices:

Black taffeta, cord shirrings, velvet applique bands and medallions. A large surplice collar of embroidered batiste and filet lace effects, a finish of elegance. The short, puffed sleeves have the same miniature decoration— $29.75

This girlish frock of brown taffeta is made even more youthful with a multitude of tiny frills, a flower girdle and a bertha of heavy lace— $39.75

Again, rich, dark brown taffeta with conventional decoration of gold and wine red beads, gold thread embroidery, gold embroidered streamers center in motif of gold and red. The skirt is faced with wine red taffeta— $55.00

Getting On at the Office

BY HELEN ORMSBEE

MURIEL FEELS ABUSED.

Muriel Miller sat at her desk munching a sandwich and washing it down with sips of water from a paper cup. She was feeling low in her mind.

"Mercy, Muriel, is that all the lunch you take?" inquired Elsie Warren, coming into the room. "It's awfully bad for you to eat in the office, anyway."

Muriel sighed. "I know it, but I can't spare any more time. So I sent out for a sandwich. I've done it every day this week. You see, Mr. Jenkins is forever handing me a piece of rush work around noon time."

"But does he know you go without lunch? Why don't you tell him?"

"I wouldn't say a word if it killed me," muttered Muriel, her voice quivering.

"Why not?"

Muriel's sense of injury welled up. "Because he ought to think of it himself! He dictated six letters at 12 o'clock and said he'd have to have them at 2. That doesn't leave me time to go out for lunch. He ought to know it!"

"He doesn't, I imagine.

"Then why doesn't he?" demanded Muriel, bitterly.

"Because men don't think of things that aren't right under their noses" answered Elsie. "Especially when they want to get work done. Take my advice, Muriel and just tell him."

"Thanks," replied Muriel stubbornly, "but I've made up my mind not to!"

"Some day," she mused after Elsie had gone, "Mr. Jenkins'll tumble to how he's been treating me. And then he'll be sorry." As she nibbled away at the dry sandwich she conjured up a lively picture of his remorse. The vision gave her satisfaction.

The door opened and Mr. Jenkins hurried in.

"Oh, Miss Miller, about that letter to Graham," he began. Then he broke off. "What's this? Don't you go out for lunch?"

Muriel's moment had come. "No," she replied with dignity. "I haven't any time." Her heart was beating with repressed indignation.

He looked at her indifferently. "You women are the darndest. Swallow a bite whole and hump yourself over your desk. Well, you must like it or you wouldn't do it."

"Like it?" choked Muriel.

"Yes," he returned. "To tell the truth, I've been wondering what makes you so slow with your work in the afternoons. It's this, of course."

Poor Muriel could not get her breath to speak.

"And—and I was doing it on account of his letters," she thought. "That's gratitude for you!"

Tomorrow—"When it Comes to Paying back."

OUR CHILDREN

THE INNER ATTITUDE

BY ANGELO PATRI

Author of "A Schoolmaster in the Great City;" Principal Public School 45, The Bronx.

"I'm dumfounded. I taught my child obedience from the cradle. I forbade her doing any of the things that might lead to this. I never knew her to be disobedient. Never. Now you tell me she has done this. I cannot understand this. She always obeyed me. Now—"

The same wail comes from the hurt parents of boys and girls everywhere—from the teachers of youth—from the heads of institutions of knowledge and culture.

"We taught them obedience and they have turned from it and have fallen upon evil ways."

We who have to do with the training of young things must remember that they rarely wear their true sleeves on the outside. They turn toward us the neutral calm exterior that will save them our "harpings." A disciplined exterior it is, shorn of all youthful enthusiasm, stripped of the fastness of the child's being, unchanged by our commands, strengthened in its self-appreciation, fed upon itself and what stolen sweets it might acquire.

That inner attitude was born of such a command as this: "Write a note to say that you are not allowed to go to parties. You have no time for such nonsense."

Or when a good mother said: "Go for a hike on Sunday afternoon? Certainly not. Have you forgotten that this is the Lord's day? You go to Sunday school and morning service. In the afternoon you go to mission; in the evening to young people's prayer meeting and evening service. I'm ashamed of your asking such a thing."

Or when a conscientious teacher said: "There's to be no whispering in my classroom. Every pupil who whispers will have to report himself to me and lose five points. Keep eyes front and attend to your work."

The child took the attitude of obedience. There was nothing else for him to do. He kept silent, outwardly acquiescent, obedient, while all the while his inner attitude remained unchanged. He was still willing and hoping and working toward the accomplishment of his original idea.

Unless we succeed in changing that inner attitude we accomplish little good with our commands. We may warp a fine character, but we certainly will do little toward producing a fine one.

When children are very, very wee, just beginning to feel their way toward the light of this world, one controls their actions, one wills and does for them. But when children acquire wills and attitudes of their own, wise teachers and parents study these and direct them. They aim towards changing them, but they know better than to attempt to force them. It simply cannot be done. The inner man won't allow it.

Child training is not easy. It is an all absorbing task, beginning with the first month of the child's life and continuing to the end. But we have this comfort or pain—we have a great deal to do with that end.

Yet, all the while we gaze with satisfaction on this "disciplined" attitude, the inner attitude—the real child—remains hidden to us, closed in all joyous and extravagant decorations.

HOW TO SAVE WHEN SHOPPING

By Ruth Leigh

Author of "The Human Side of Retail Selling," "The A B C of Retailing," Etc.

Because cotton, which is the cheapest fiber, is sold at such a low price, many housewives do not think that it can be adulterated. There are, however, many ways in which it is prepared to deceive the inexperienced buyer unless she is on the lookout for adulterations.

It may be heavily weighted, starched or sized. If you rub it vigorously between the hands, the white chalky specks of sizing may be seen on the hands. If the material is held up and torn quickly, a small cloud of starch or sizing may be seen. If very heavily starched material is touched by the tongue, the starch may be tasted or a sticky spot left on the material. In very thin fabrics the sizing may often be detected by holding the cloth up to the light, when the starch shows between the threads. Washing or boiling a sample in soda water will show the amount of sizing present.

Another method of adulterating cotton is shown in certain kinds of dotted swiss. A good swiss has thread dots woven or embroidered in the cloth. These dots are generally woven with continuous threads on the back of the cloth. In a later process of finishing, the threads between the dots on the wrong side of the material are sheared off, leaving only the threads which catch through to make the dots on the right side. Sometimes the dots on dotted swiss are simply pasted on, and wash off when the material is laundered. Or, if they do not disappear they are made brown by the heat of the iron.

We will talk tomorrow about buying that most useful article these days, the coal shovel.

Hording to Wait Congress Action On Naval Parley

Not to Call World Conference on Auxiliary Vessels Without Congress Action.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.
Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, December 14.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Before calling an international conference with the governments of Great Britain, France and Japan for the purpose of reaching an agreement relative to limiting the construction of auxiliary naval vessels, as requested in a provision of the naval appropriation bill reported to the house yesterday, President Harding will wait for formal action by congress, it was said in administration circles tonight.

Although it was admitted in white house circles that the president was inclined to call the conference in accordance with the request, it was stated that he could scarcely take cognizance of the committee report. However, if the provision is approved by both houses of congress, Mr. Harding will take immediate steps to bring about a second parley on the limitation of naval armament.

Capital observers look upon today's developments as a substantiation of statements made just after the president's recent message to congress relative to the naval treaty that the chief executive was prepared to enter into negotiations with foreign powers for a second treaty, whose application would bear particularly to the Atlantic.

While the provision of the naval bill does not propose a second disarmament conference, it does leave the matter entirely up to the president, who might give the principle a broad application, it is said. At the same time, it is pointed out that the purpose might be served through diplomatic channels, or, if the other powers preferred, it might be handled through a conference of plenipotentiaries. The latter method was employed in the Washington disarmament conference last year.

In this connection it is recalled that the American delegation at the Washington conference advocated the limitation of all types of naval vessels, and the French delegation refused to assent to any limitation in the reduction of submarines, taking the position that such craft offered the only protection to a small naval power. When the French declined to relinquish this position the British refused to include destroyers, which are the natural enemies of the undersea vessels. Accordingly, all naval craft under 10,000 tons was omitted from the treaty.

It is this class of vessels that a conference is proposed to discuss; but it is admitted that the parley may extend to other problems of a foreign nature, particularly questions arising on the Atlantic.

The latter suggestion may result in a thorough consideration of the subject before the provision is accepted by the senate, where the group of "irreconcilables" are ever eager to attack any extension of the foreign policy of the United States with respect to treaties.

PRESIDENT ALREADY WORKING ON MATTER.

Washington, December 14.—President Harding, according to a statement made in the house today, "has been engaged for several months" with the question of negotiating with the big powers abroad, relative to limiting the construction of warships under 10,000 tons, which he is requested to do under a provision of the naval supply bill.

This information as to the reported attitude of the president was given by Representative Lineberger, republican, California, during a brief flurry of debate, while Chairman Kelley of the sub-committee, in charge of the measure was seeking to explain the reasons for the request. It was admittedly, a surprise to the committee, which had not consulted the president prior to presentation of the bill.

Mr. Kelley had just declared that while the arms conference had afforded a net saving of $128,000,000, the general staff of the navy had recommended a projected program, under the 10,000-ton limitation, entailing the expenditure of $331,000,000, when Mr. Lineberger interrupted.

Already at Work.

"The gentleman is requesting the president of the United States to do something which we and every one knows that he has been engaged in doing for several months past," said Mr. Lineberger. "Would it not be much better verbiage to approve that which the president is now doing rather than to request him to do something that he had been doing for months?"

Mr. Kelley said he was not interested in the language of the request as set forth in the bill, at the same time expressing the hope that the Californian agreed with the idea.

"I do agree with you in principle," he replied.

The only other reference to the president was made by Representative Byrnes, South Carolina, ranking democrat of the subcommitte, who said he did not know what Mr. Lineberger had told the house, that "the president is now at work upon some plan for the calling of another conference for the limitation of armament."

Sees No Results.

"I assume that the gentleman has the information from the president," Mr. Byrnes added, "and I am delighted to know that this is true. I must say that I should value the information more and that I would feel more confident about it if only I could have the gentleman state that he did receive it from the president, but I do not see him on the floor. So far as I am concerned, it is my earnest hope that it is correct."

Many questions were directed at Mr. Kelley as to what the other nations had done in the matter of naval reduction.

"I do not think any nation has undertaken to destroy any of its ships, although Great Britain possibly had scrapped some of its old ships, which she had already began to scrap before the conference," he said.

"In other words, there have been no results thus far?" asked Representative London, socialist, New York, and Mr. Kelley answered "No."

Lost Opportunity.

Chairman Butler, of the naval committee, broke into the discussion.

"We have accomplished just this by this," he said. "We have traded the 16 inch gun for two 8-inch guns," and Representative Britten, Illinois, ranking republican, of the naval committee, declared "we have lost the opportunity to become the first naval power and we shall probably be the second or third."

Generally, the bill had easy sailing. Mr. Byrnes and Representatitive Oliver, democrat, Alabama, another member of the subcommittee, discussed the measure in detail and explained how the arms conference had affected building programs. Mr. Oliver said that out of ten battleships and six battle cruisers authorized by the 1916 program, only thre would be retained by the navy under the arms treaty.

Taking up the bill item by item, the house had covered one-fourth of the distance when it quit tonight, and it will be held in port tomorrow while an election contest is given right of way.

MAYOR DECLARES WAR ON ALBANY PLUMBERS' TRUST

Albany, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Mayor H. A. Peacock declared in an open meeting of the city council that Albany is in the grasp of a combination of plumbers that holds property owners and builders in an octopus-like grip and mulcts them of large sums of money. And the mayor declares he speaks out of the abundance of experience.

It all happneed after F. P. Wortman, who has been building several dwellings, appeared before council and declared he felt he owed it to the public to tell some of his recent experiences. After telling how he had been able to do for $80 a plumbing job which local plumbers demanded $275, and how they had wanted $900 for doing the plumbing in two cottages in which he himself had done the work for about $300, after allowing full pay for his own time, he told of threats he had received, including one of injunction proceedings. Wortman is a welder and machinist, and his plumbing work is required to meet requirements of the city ordinance.

Then the mayor told the council of his experience. He received four local bids around $1,400 for the plumbing in a dwelling he was remodeling. Going to a neighboring town, he found a plumber who offered to do the work for $990, despite the fact that he would have to make daily trips between towns while doing the work.

"And the local plumber who had made the lowest bid bluffed the plumber in the neighboring town out of the job by threatening him," the mayor declared, going into details to prove the charge he made that there was a local combination which it is the duty of the city to smash.

He pledged his best efforts to that end, and declared the matter was one of great importance in view of the building now in progress and planned in Albany.

U. S. Must Help Europe, Tregoe Tells Credit Men

Declares This Country Holds Means of Saving Civilization From Oblivion.

Not since the days when Christ was on earth has the world faced such serious problems as are now before it, in the opinion of J. H. Tregoe, secretary of the National Association of Credit Men. Mr. Tregoe addressed the Atlanta Association of Credit Men at the dinner meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night.

European civilization is tottering on the brink of ruin, and world civilization is endangered, Mr. Tregoe declared. The only solution of the problems now facing the world is for the United States to co-operate with Europe—and this country holds in the palm of her hand the means of saving civilization from oblivion, he stated.

Mr. Tregoe was in Atlanta arranging for the convention of the national association which will be held here next June. He declared that Atlanta was to be complimented on having secured the convention, that it was secured only after a hard, clean fight—and now the harder fight is before Atlanta in her work of making the next convention the best in the history of the organization.

Pleads for Constitution.

Mr. Tregoe reviewed the history of America, and pointed out that the enormous national wealth now existing had been made possible through the influence of government. He made a strong plea for the preservation of the constitution of the United States, as the principles of that instrument are what will make possible continued progress.

He strongly attacked the Sherman anti-trust act, declaring it was an obsolete measure and should be repealed and a measure to fit the needs of present business be substituted for it.

Private property, for which the constitution stands, he stated was one of the chief contributing factors in building this nation to its present heighth of commercial wealth and standing among nations of the world. Without private property, without the rights guaranteed in the constitution, he declared that retrogression would set up, and the country would go backward.

He sounded a warning on the tendency to take lightly the "talk" of radicalism which was so prevalent in the country, and declared that radicals were threatening the country and urged that the people make themselves so strongly heard through the medium of public sentiment that it would block any attempt to scrap the constitution and destroy the rights and privileges on which the wealth and strength of the nation had been built.

Calls for World League.

World salvation, he stated, demanded a new league of nations—with the United States in the lead. Failure of foreign statesmen to reach a solution of their problems meant that the United States must come to the aid of civilization—else it was doomed.

In a brief review of the credit business in the United States, Mr. Tregoe pointed out that out of every 100 units of business done, 95 were done with the aid of credit. The credit men of the country, he stated, were the harnessing power which had been put to work through co-operation secured through the national association and had built the wealth of this country from the $50,000,000,000 mark in 1876 to the $250,000,000,000 mark at this time.

He declared that the United States was sound, suound to the core, and that anyone losing confidence in the country for a moment only had to remember the record made in the late war—and this memory should be sufficient to restore full confidence in the soundness of the country and its possibilities for further progress.

He urged the encouragement of free hold farmers, pointing out that $78,000,000,000 of the national wealth was the land; and that this method of holding the land would mean increased prosperity throughout the country.

Would Ban Strikes.

Strikes must be made impossible, he declared, and a method of settling industrial disputes should be devised and put into operation which would attain this end.

Commenting upon the convention to be held here next year, he declared that the credit men from all over the nation would be brought here; that they would have a wonderful time, but that they would come for educational purposes and not merely for entertainment.

He stated that after looking over the ground in Atlanta, talking with the committees in charge, he was convinced that Atlanta would entertain the credit men of the nation in a manner creditable to herself, and that the convention would go down in history as one of the greatest ever held by the organization.

Mrs. B. M. Boykin, chairman of the woman's committee which will have charge of entertaining the wives of the delegates, and her assistant, Mrs. William Percey, were present and were introduced to the gathering.

H. E. Moody, president of the Atlanta association, presided and introduced the speakers. H. E. Choate, of the finance committee, made a short speech. Bolling H. Jones, chairman of this committee, was expected to be on hand to make a report concerning work of raising funds to entertain the convention, but was unable to be present.

A novel feature of the evening was a demonstration by the credit club in the form of a play.

Benjamin H. Tregoe, son of J. H. Tregoe and head of the foreign credits department of the national organization, was present and spoke for a few minutes. His business in the city was to look over the hotel situation.

Mr. Tregoe and his son left Thursday night for Augusta.

Woman Is Kidnaped When Story Convicts Slayer of Husband

New Brunswick, N. J., December 14.—State constabulary and police of many cities and towns today were searching for Mrs. Georgianna Maure, 16, who was kidnaped from her home here last night after her testimony has resulted in the conviction of George Girando as the slayer of her husband.

After Mrs. Mauro testified yesterday afternoon Girando was found guilty of manslaughter. Mrs. Mauro's home last night was visited by two men, who rode up in a taxicab, and appeared a few minutes later carrying her.

SHERLOCK OF THE SEA

BY MAURICE DRAKE

Next Week, "The Broken Gate"
By Emerson Hough

I stooped to pick it up, but it fell to pieces as I lifted it. The portion in my hand was a drenched sop of cardboard, a blur of colors on one side of it that might once have been a picture.

Dangling from it was half an inch of rotten stuff, a threadlike scrap of some tough elastic material, fastened with a twist of rusty wire—and before I could make out what it was my match went out.

Groping on the floor till I found the vesta and the rest of the cardboard, I slipped them into a waistcoat pocket for future examination.

Lighting yet another match—there were now but two or three at most left in the box—I hurried down this wider portion of the cavern at top speed, my eyes on the guarded flame between my hands; and before I knew where I was had splashed into cold water up to my knees.

The match dropped as I twisted back to keep my tracks, flinging wide my arms to keep my balance. With the sudden jerk I either stubbed my toe or slid on the slippery mud, and in a moment was floundering full length in the shallow water, face downward.

It was salt—sea water.

A good mouthful was enough to assure me of that, even if my hands, scrabbling for a hold under water, had not torn up seaweeds from the rocks.

As my plate layer had said, the cavern reached the sea, but it came out under water. Only a diver or an otter could get through it to open air.

Only then did I realize that I was dead beat. Utter weariness came over me; it was groaning labor even to stand upright, and I stumbled back through the sloping cavern like a somnambulist.

I have a notion that I felt a stupid sensation—something like gratitude—when my hands touched the iron bars of the grating, but I groaned aloud at the labor of pushing it open.

After that half a dozen snapshot memories came to mind; the first sight of stars and of the lights of Dawlish low across the sea; of myself hesitating before dropping off the sea wall onto the beach in the cove nearest to the town; myself again in the hall of the hotel, reeling with fatigue and explaining to two scared looking women—probably the manageress and bookkeeper—that I had "had an accident and fallen over the cliffs"—and then I remembered no more.

CHAPTER IX.

I was awakened late next morning by the gentle beat and trickle of winter rain against my window.

The sight of the pillow and of my hands sent me to the looking glass, and I didn't know my own face.

No wonder the manageress had looked so frightened the night before, and after another glance at my pillow and the bedding I thought it likely that she'd got another shock coming.

As for myself, even now, after a night's sleep had transferred most of the filth to the bed linen, I was unrecognizable.

Slowly, little by little, the events of the previous evening came to mind, at first accompanied by a dull feeling of disappointment at achieving nothing.

But as I gradually awoke—came to life would be a better way of putting it—some interest revived in me. After all, I had learned something that no one else knew.

The plate layer, who probably knew more about the tunnels than anyone, had said nobody had ever been in the cavern, and he was wrong. Someone had been there—and recently, too. The footprints I had seen proved that.

With my mind upon these footprints, I remembered the wet scrap of cardboard I had found among them, and, searching in my damp waistcoat pocket, brought it to light, together with the burned wax vesta I had found beside it.

From it dangled the threadlike thing I had noticed when I picked it up, the daylight at once revealing it as a thin strip of rotten rubber. The least pluck between finger and thumb was enough to tear it away from the tiny twist of wire which had attached it to the card.

There still remained traces of some color in a fissure of the crumpled mass, and I picked at it gently with a fingernail and the point of my penknife.

Under persuasion the card unfolded and displayed to my astonished eyes the upper half of a portrait printed in crude colors—a portrait of a mild, chubby gentleman in spectacles.

Across it had been gummed a slip of gray paper, still in place and still with some traces of lettering on it. "res de l'Et" was as much as I could make out, and with that came revelation, and I could fill in the blanks.

"Manufactures de l'Etat." There was the inscription completed. The portrait was of President Thiers; the cardboard had been a matchbox—the sliding pattern that flips shut after use—and vesta and box were from a French factory, made under the state monopoly and bearing the official government stamp.

The barefooted man who had been before me in the cavern had lighted his path with French made matches; a French sailor had stopped the train in the tunnel; and the notes were now in France.

At last, after months of searching, I had three facts that fitted loosely together.

But how had he got out of the cavern, with its seaward exit under water? Pondering, I looked out of the window onto the beach, and that question was answered, too. For the tide was nearly at quarter ebb and even as I watched it I heard a church clock strike 11.

That meant high tide at about 9, and it would be twenty minutes earlier the night before. When I had been in the cavern it had been close on high water. No wonder the entrance to the cavern was closed.

After a bath and breakfast I apologized to the manageress for the state of my room and sought the beach. Low water was at 2:30 o'clock or thereabouts, and, the rain having cleared off, I hired a boat and put to sea.

The breeze was offshore; it was child's play to land upon the rocks at the foot of the Parson; and by 1:30 o'clock I had entered the cavern, climbed to the spot where the tide had baffled me, and discovered not only my own footmarks and the useless match box I had thrown away the night before, but more and more prints of the bare feet plainly to be seen pointing both up and down the cavern.

What more could any reasonable man ask? Assuming that the parcel of genuine notes was dropped in the tunnel when Bossard stopped the train, a steam launch—or a yacht, for the expense couldn't have mattered much with 80,000 pounds in question—a yacht cruising outside Dawlish could easily send a boat ashore under the Parson and Clerk, and there was the whole story told.

My path lay clear ahead of me now. All I had to do was to get across to Finistere, find Schofield—not a difficult matter in that thinly populated district surely—pick up 10,000 pounds reward; and then for Marguerite.

It was a roughish crossing to Brest. The strong southwester that had blown steadily for the past week, sweeping the rain veils landward from off the face of the Atlantic, had marshaled behind them 50-mile ranks of good, honest seas, swinging up channel like well drilled, mighty battalions.

I had wired Marguerite from Plymouth. And there she was waiting for me beneath the galvanized roof of a dock shed; and once my eyes fell on her slender figure the noise and grime and squalor around her might have been a peaceful garden for all I saw or heard of it.

And when her gray eyes were looking straight into mine, I saw glad welcome in them. In that moment I knew her trouble, whatever it had been, had lifted of its own accord.

Gone was the last faint shadow of apprehension; her smile was more than a mere greeting. There was laughter behind it; she was merry, as a healthy girl should be.

"This is good. This is good of you to come and meet me, Marguerite. You're a sight for sore eyes. Mine are sore, too—salt. We've had a deuce of a crossing."

"Was it very bad?"

"I wish it had been fifty times worse. Then I could feel I deserved that you should come and meet me."

"What nonsense. Of course I should come, Mr. Voogdt. One doesn't meet old friends every day."

"Are you glad to see me?"

"Very glad."

"Very glad indeed?"

"Very glad indeed." She laughed outright, a little rising gurgle of fun that was a new delight to me, who thought I knew her through and through. "How much longer are you going to hold my hands?"

"Always."

Talking we walked up the ramps together, and I forgot it was raining till she told me to fasten the neck of my waterproof, with a little proprietorial tone delightful to hear.

"You'll be drenched," she said. "Anyone would think it were a fine day to see the way you're going about."

"So it is a fine day. The finest day for years."

"It's raining in torrents."

"'My lord, it is the blessed sun,'" I quoted.

She knew the words. "From 'the Taming of the Shrew.'" she said, with a little grimance. "That's ominous."

My heart jumped in me at what her words implied. Did she—could she mean that she had changed her mind already?

"Don't be scared," I said. "I'm the shrew, and the taming is in your hands, if you'll take it on. Will you"

"We'll see. Here's a request to begin with. Try and walk with your eyes in front of you instead of staring at me with your head twisted over your left shoulder. You'll find it easier."

"I shall find it the hardest task of my life," I said. "Oh, Marguerite, it is good to see you again.

We lunched together at a little cafe of her choice; dined together at the Continental—M. and Mme. Auffret playing propriety and practicing English, and when we parted had arranged an excursion together two days later, much to the dismay of the Auffrets, who protested loudly.

When she was at the door—"Shall I see you tomorrw?" she asked.

"Not before the evening. I hope to call then, if Mme. Auffret will allow me."

Madame would be delighted, and said so over and over again in both Frensh and English so as to remove any possible doubt about it. So, the next evening I called to talk over the plans for our excursion.

Marguerite was alone, and the first question she asked was, where had I been all day?

"Morlaix," I told her.

"Yes?" Her tone invited further confidences, but I had none to give.

For the moment I thought of saying I had friends there, or some business to do; but found I couldn't lie to her, and so said nothing.

My silence built a little barrier between us or put us out of accord with one another, and from that moment the evening was a flat failure.

"Is anything wrong?" she asked at last.

"N-no. Liver's out of order, I expect. I'm not an amusing companion, I'm afraid. What about tomorrow?"

"Mme. Auffret says she can't come," she replied.

"I'm sorry," I said—the usual perfunctory polite lie. "However, that needn't interfere with us."

"It stops my going," said she, rather stiffly, I thought.

"What nonsense! Of course you'll come."

I must have spoken too assertively, for she got cool at once. "I think not."

"What am I to do with myself all day, if you don't?" I demanded; making matters far worse, of course.

"Go to Morlaix again," said she promptly.

In the end we almost quarreled—which I should have called a most encouraging symptom had anyone else been in my place. But not being in the position of looker-on, I found it less exhilarating than I could have wished.

Worst of all, some malicious little devil in the back of my brain kept on whispering: "She won't go, because she's afraid to give you the chance of sounding her. She's afraid of you when no one lese is by. She's afraid of betraying some knowledge of the Schofield business."

When I rose to go I asked her outright: "Why won't you come tomorrow?"

"Because Mme. Auffret can't come, and I must have a chaperon," she answered stubbornly.

From that first unlucky evening everything went wrong.

Not that our near approach to a quarrel had any lasting results; indeed, I can safely say it had none, for we met on the best of terms again at once; but after that reconcilliation the more we saw of each other the farther we seemed to recede from mutual understanding.

So things drifted on, getting worse and worse, for about a fortnight. Loving her as I did, desiring the sight of her and the sound of her voice, I could not keep away, but every time I saw her was a step nearer to despair.

By the end of the fortnight I hardly knew I entertained a hope of her innocense—but I was only to learn how strong unconsciously had been that hope when she herself struck it to the ground and left me convineed of her guilt.

CHAPTER X.

Marguerite and I had spent the afternoon together, and she had been even kinder and gentler to me than usual.

Our conversation got slower and slower, and our voices drooped, until at last we both were silent, so that the light fall of ashes in the grate seemed a loud and disturbing noise in the stillness.

Suddenly she sat upright, with the air of one who had taken upon herself a resolution, though when she spoke it was in the same low voice. Judging from her slow, faltering speech, her mind might have been far away.

"Do you—do you think it can possibly be right to do evil that good may come?"

"That calls for Jesuitical reasoning. One can't generalize. Every case must be taken on its merits. I'd do it, if I thought fit."

"Do you think that affection for—for any person can justify dishonesty?"

"I can understand a man or woman in love breaking any law you please."

"Understand and forgive?"

"I could forgive almost anything done by a poor soul tortured with love or jealousy," I said fervently.

"In love?" she said thoughtfully, her voice lower than ever. "I wonder if that applies—in this case?"

"What is the case you have in mind?" I asked. I didn't mean—I swear I hadn't any idea of extorting the truth from her.

Nor did she read into my question any impertinent inquiry, for she answered me at once as quietly as before.

"Put it that a man—for a long time—has been engaged in a certain pursuit. And just when he feels the reward within his grasp it all turns to—something quite different to what he expected it woud be. Put it that, instead of a reward, he finds only a very great disappointment. Put it that this—disappointment—must have serious consequences to—to people who are—dear to him."

"Well?" I said, and now it was all I could do to keep my voice steady. She took no notice, but went on, slowly, hesitating, with every now and then a little pause.

"You're for the law—aren't you?—not merely because it is the law—not obeying it as sheep stay within low hurdles because they never think of jumping them. You obey the law because you've seen enough—to show you the law is wise and good in the main. Would you break the law if you saw fit?"

"I would," I said. My voice shook now, I knew, and I felt as though something were sticking in my throat.

"You would. I'm glad of that."

"Yes?" I said. "Go on."

Because—if you can break the law you can forgive. Can't you?"

"Anything."

"You can understand, I think. You can conceive of the temptation to a man immersed in an affair—in affairs which he sees are bound to terminate unhappily for him—and others. You can understand and—and feel for him if he, for one very dear to him, throws ovgr all thoughts of duty.

"Could you, a law-abiding, honorable man, do that—break the law and be dishonorable in the eyes of all men—to end life in such peace as that with the one you loved?"

I groaned loud. "Yes," I said. "I can understand. Only too well. And I'll do it, Marguerite. God help us both."

She was on her feet. "Do what?" she said, her face white as paper.

"This," I was beside her, and caught her, kissing her savagely. "This, and this. I'll do it. Oh, my dear—my own sweet, slender darling, of course I'll do it! But oh, the pity of it! I'd hoped to clear you, Marguerite; and, instead of that, you drag me in."

"Into what? Into what?" For one moment she had been still in my arms, but now her voice rose almost to a cry, and she struggled like one possessed. "What, in heaven's name, do you mean? Are you mad?"

"Yes. Hopelessly mad. I meant to help you—but it's no good. I give up. Can we get back the money from Schofield, Marguerite? We must, you know. We can't touch that—I haven't fallen as low as all that. We must send back what we can to the creditors, dear.

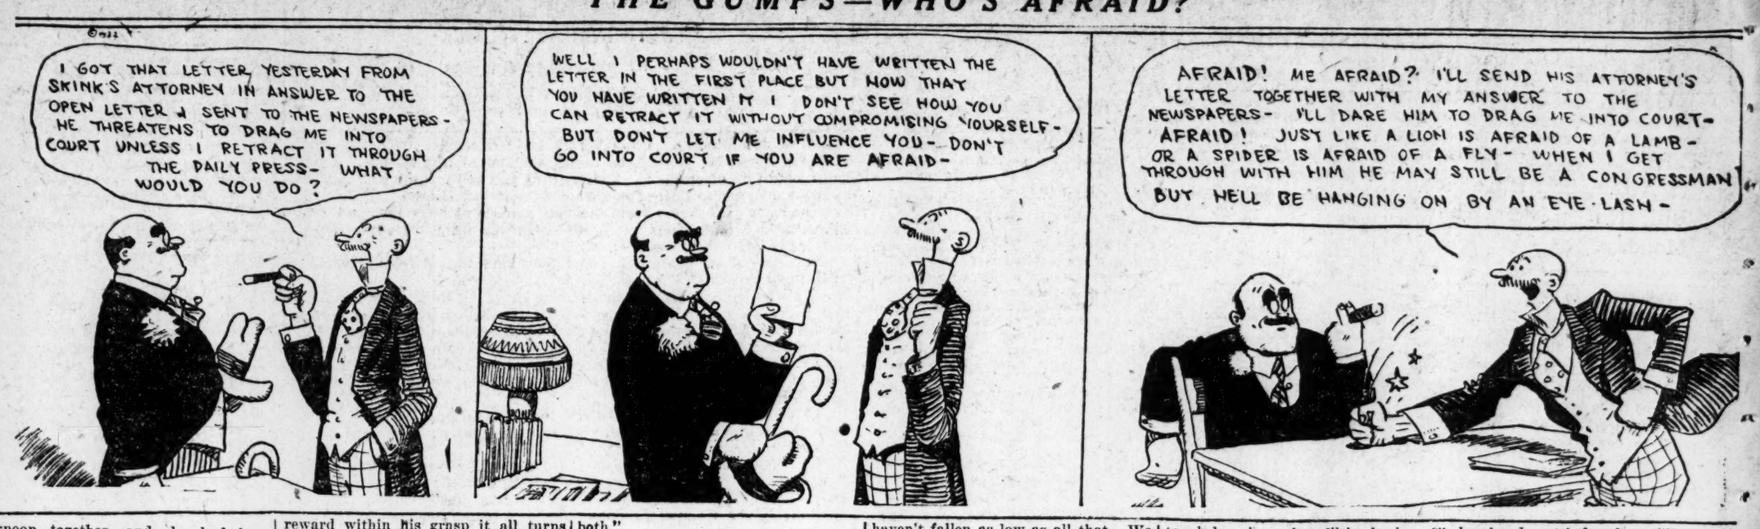

"If the little farm overlooking the sea is enough for you, I've enough of my own for that. Oh, my dear, my dear, how could you—white and sweet and lovely—how could you get tangled up in such a filthy business?"

She stood off from me, and her face was the face of Medusa the Gorgan, cold horror. Her lips drew back and showed her teeth, and lines lay upon her face as upon one grown suddenly old.

"Go back from me!" she said, with her hands out before her. "Stand off, Austin Voogdt! Listen—there's some terrible, awful mistake! I've been talking carelessly, and you've read some wrong meaning into my words. Stand there and tell me exactly what you think I've been saying."

TO TRY TO SHELVE SHIP BILL SOON

Farm Credits Supporters to Attempt to Introduce Bill Not Later Than Monday.

Washington, December 14.—Plans were made today by senate champions of farm credits legislation to bring to a head their effort to set aside the administration shipping bill in the senate. The test, it was said, might be made tomorrow or Saturday and not later than Monday, with the result in doubt in view of the new program of the agrarian group.

Instead of waiting for the senate banking committee to report a general farm credits bill, members of the farm bloc who also are opponents of the shipping measure laid plans today to urge the Norris agricultural export corporation bill for immediate consideration to the temporary displacement of the shipping bill.

The senate agriculture committee was called to meet tomorrow to act on the Norris bill. Committee members said they expected the bill to be reported favorably tomorrow or Saturday and declared they would urge its being given immediate right-of-way in the senate. Administration leaders promised to resist such a movement. Chairman Jones of the commerce committee, in charge of the shipping bill, and other administration leaders have announced their readiness to lay aside the shipping bill when the general farm credits bill is ready for consideration, but they are against giving way to the Norris export bill.

They declared the Norris bill would not muster the support either from the democratic opponents of the shipping measure or the progressive-republican bloc that is assured for the general farm credits program.

Attacked by Fletcher.

Chairman Jones today made an unsuccessful effort to lengthen the senate sessions to expedite the shipping bill. A compromise was reached, however, by which routine business tomorrow is to be dispensed with but without requiring the senate to meet earlier.

The shipping measure was under another day's fire today from Senator Fletcher of Florida, ranking democrat of the commerce committee, and tomorrow Senator LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, is to open his attack on the measure. While the shipping bill was being debated in the senate, the banking and agricultural committees continued work on the farm credits measures.

The banking committee heard Eugene Meyer, Jr., chairman of the war finance corporation, in support of the Capper farm credits measure. He opposed export credit plans such as that of the Norris bill and also the Simmons' bill program for developing an independent rural credits agency.

Against Subsidy.

The shipping bill was attacked by Senator Fletcher as unsound and unwise. Declaring he favored building up an American merchant marine as much as any administration spokesman, Senator Fletcher said that "subsidy is not the remedy."

"We need an American merchant marine," he declared, "but that's not saying we must pay a subsidy of $30,000,000 annually for fifteen years to a few private operators. A subsidy will not give it to us. Subsidy never established a merchant marine for any country."

Replying to demands for a shipping remedy, Senator Fletcher said that the government might well operate only the ships showing a profit and tie up the remainder, by distribution among the principal ports, until shipping conditions improve. This, he said, would save millions now being wasted in overhead. He predicted that in a few years ships now being offering for $30 a ton could be sold for $70 a ton.

AFRICAN BISHOP IS PRESIDING AT GRIFFIN

Griffin, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Bishop Mathew W. Clair, of Monrovia, Africa, is conducting a conference here of the Atlanta district of the Methodist Episcopal church. The bishop is addressing large audiences composed of both whites and blacks. Examinations of undergraduates in conference courses will be held at the conference and other matters of importance will be brought up for discussion.

Lawyers Discuss Ways to Proceed In Election Fight

Executive Committee in Savannah Declares Stewart Nominee for Mayor.

Savannah, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—A conference of the lawyers in the case, it was announced Thursday evening, will be held tomorrow to determine how, if legal action is to be taken further to probe the recent primary mayoralty election here, that action will proceed.

The case, it is said, presents complications as to the manner of getting the city primary, a purely local party matter, into the state courts. The old executive committee of the city declined to take seriously the strenuous effort of Rogers' friends to show cause for a rigid investigation and declared the primary had named M. M. Stewart by eight votes.

The regular election will be on the second Tuesday in January. It is positively announced by anti-administration men that there will be no independent candidate to oppose the nominee of the primary nor has such course been contemplated.

In the affidavits presented to the executive committee many sensational statements were made of "ringers," of voting persons out of the city, of repeating, of vote-buying by city employees, of non-resident voters paid to vote at so much a head, and offered more pay as "sluggers" to "get" those acting as spotters of "ringers."

Judge S. B. Adams, one attorney appearing for the Rogers side, declared he did not appear as counsel but as an "outraged citizen."

A new committee was elected in the primary which named the mayor and 12 councilmen.

CHILD WELFARE BUREAU REPORTS

Branch of Department of Labor Tells of Progress in the Public Care of Children.

Washington, December 14.—Progress in public provision for the care of children since establishment in 1912 of the children's bureau of the department of labor was summarized in the annual report of Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the bureau, which was made public today. The bureau's current appropriation, she said, will enable it to meet only a small percentage of the opportunities offered for substantial contribution to the welfare of children.

The report recited that in the ten years, the numbers of states having special agencies to deal with child health had increased from one to 46, and the number providing mothers' pensions from two to 40. More than half the states, it said, have established commissions to make comprehensive inquiries to bring about child welfare legislation and a similar number have established bureaus to deal with dependent and delinquent children.

Adequate birth registration has been extended during the decade to include 66 per cent of the population, and 42 states are co-operating with the federal government in efforts to reduce loss of life among mothers and babies.

Physicians are giving more consideration to social and economic aspects of child health, Miss Abbott added. Citing that the funds appropriated under the maternity and infancy act to be apportioned to the states for the year which ended June 30 did not become available until April, the report said payments had been made to 41 of the 42 states, which have accepted the terms of the legislation.

STILL AND BEER CAUGHT IN FLOYD BY PROHI AGENTS

Rome, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—A fifty-gallon still, about a thousand gallons of beer and other materials for making whisky were captured and Sam McCullough was arrested in a raid made yesterday by County Policeman Grover Williams, Bailiff James Payne, Paul Freeman and Captain Jack Spence, the latter being here on a visit from Savannah, where he is connected with the prohibition enforcement department.

The still was located about two miles from Cunningham station, twelve miles from Rome, and the officers state that operation was just begun when they arrived, and interrupted the proceedings.

FIREMAN IS BURNED BY BOILING GREASE

Rome, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Fireman McAfee was painfully burned about the feet and hands late this afternoon, when firemen, attempting to put out a fire in the second story of a residence of First avenue, threw a ten-gallon can of boiling grease out of a window after calling to the firemen and others below to keep out of the way.

McAfee had been one of the firemen who put up a ladder for his comrades to enter a window of the room where the grease was on fire and reached the ground in time to avoid the pot as it was thrown from the window but slipped and fell and the boiling grease covered his ankles and left hand.

The big pot of grease was being used to boil potato chips by Mrs. F. C. Baumgartner, who sells them to local grocers. She had received a telephone call and forgot the grease was boiling.

The room was filled with thick gas and the firemen had to use gas masks in entering the room.

CAVE SPRING IN MIDST OF HOT MAYOR'S RACE

Rome, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The little town of Cave Spring, 14 miles from Rome, is in the throes of a hot campaign for town officers with the voting strength almost equally divided between male and female voters and with the most of the women on one side and nearly all the men on the other. This alignment, it is said, makes the result of the election on the second Tuesday in January extremely doubtful. The candidates for mayor are R. B. Tilley and N. G. Spencer, both men of the highest standing in the community.

Decline Operators Fail To Break General Prices

Belief Is Prevalent That Sterling Exchange Will Go to Par—Total Sales, 881,000 Shares.

Day's total sales 881,000 shares.
Twenty industrials averaged 98.18; net loss, .03.
High, 1922, 103.43; low, 78.59.
Twenty railroads averaged 84.88; net gain, .05.
High, 1922, 93.99; low, 73.43.

New York, December 14.—Professional operators for the decline, acting on the belief that the recent advance had been overdone, attempted to unsettle prices in today's stock market, but were only partially successful. They succeeded in depressing a few speculative favorites, such as Baldwin and Studebaker, but fresh buying powers in other quarters made closing prices irregular with the gains outnumbering the losses.

Sterling exchange, which has been one of the features of recent markets because of its remarkable rise, held steady today around $4.63 5-8. Opinion of financial experts is divided as to whether British government manipulation was responsible for the recent jump but there is a general belief that the rate is headed back to par as a result of the constant improvement in the British trade balance and the stabilization of Britain's domestic financial affairs.

Last-hour Rise.

Still shares were bid up in rapid fashion during the last hour, buying being influenced by the encouraging prospects for business during the first quarter of 1923, contained in the weekly trade reviews. Crucible was pushed up four points to 72, the rapid rise of this issue being accompanied by reports of renewed activity of the old pool in that stock. United States steel common touched 106 and then slipped back 1-8 for a net gain of 1 1-2 on the day. Bethlehem B closed 1 3-8 higher. Reports of increased production by farm implement manufacturers caused a flurry of buying in International Harvester, which jumped 4 points to 91 1-2, but cancelled half of this gain before the close.

Mixed changes took place in the railroad group, which was featured by the broadening demand for Reading and Chesapeake and Ohio. Publication of the eight months' income statement of the latter, which showed a net profit after payment of the dividend on the new preferred stock, equal to 8.80 per cent on the common, or at the rate of 13 per cent annually, stimulated buying of that stock, which closed at a net gain of 2 3-8 points. Reading registered a net gain of 1 3-8 and Jersey Central, which indulged in wide fluctuations, was up 3. New York Central got down as low as 92 3-4, but rallied to 93 at the close, recent selling being based on the failure of the directors to increase the regular dividend rate. Northern Pacific dropped 1 3-8.

Some Stocks Drop.

A bear raid against Piggly Wiggly caused a slump of 10 points, half of which was recovered later. National Lead, which had been bid up in speculative anticipation of a stock dividend, dropped as low as 121 5-8, or 8 3-8 below yesterday's high, when the directors adjourned today without taking any stock dividend action. It rallied to 124 3-4 at the close, where it was off 2 7-8 on the day. Marine preferred registered a net loss of 2 1-2 points on reports that the ship subsidy bill would be sidetracked in congress in favor of the farm credits measure. General Asphalt recovered 2 5-8 and the preferred 3 3-4 from yesterday's heaviness. Baldwin closed 7-8 lower and Studebaker half.

Call money held at 4 per cent throughout the session. Time money was slightly easier, a few 60 and 90 day maturities being arranged at 4 7-8 per cent, with 5 per cent the ruling rate for the longer maturities and 4 3-4 for the thirty-day period. Commercial paper trading was quiet with no change in rates.

French exchange was quite active with most of the business being done around 7.18 or 8 points above yesterday's price. Other rates were irregular. German exchange improved slightly despite the unprecedented weekly increase of 92,000,000,000 marks in note circulation.

News, Views And Reviews

Stock Letter.

There are several questions one could ask himself now.

How much less are my commitments than they were before November 28?

Would I have sold all or part of my holdings on November 28 if I could have done so at today's prices.

What price have I in mind for my securities?

Have I made speculative commitments or investments?

The market has had a steady rise from November 28 low with a tone of strength to incourage holdings, and the belief they ultimately will go higher. No one ever suffered from taking profits.

I am a bull on the situation, but think at or near present level we may have a reaction, because of the indefinite policy of our government toward European affairs which until definitely outlined will cause a feeling of uneasiness in the mind of investors. Undoubtedly a change of policy is contemplated. Mr. Morgan's visit to Washington just at this time is significant and may be productive of an early policy. If commitments can be lessened profitably or without loss it seems it would be good judgment to shorten holdings by half.

Sir Edward Mackey Edgar, British financier and industrialist, who has returned to London from the United States, declares that an economic crisis is approaching in the United States. The American demand for metals, cotton and oil is so insatiable that a world-wide shortage in these commodities is inevitable.

He predicts that America will be forced to import cotton the present fiscal year.

The terrible consuming power of America, he says, is the biggest economic factor in the world today.

Cotton Opinions.

Thomson McK.—Believe that those who buy cotton conservatively on declines will eventually see good profits.

Logan Bryan—Are inclined to the view that the buying side of market should be followed at this particular time.

Munds Winslow—We take a favorable view of outlook for cotton although we favor confining purchases to recessions.

Weld—While reactions are natural after rapid advances, we believe present prices are reasonable and that the market should be bought when these reactions occur.

Grain Opinions.

Thomson McK.—It is still advisable to anticipate higher wheat prices, particular so if the buying power of importing countries be directed towards North American markets by the granting of assistance.

Jackson—The concentrated long interest and the much talked of legislation are largely responsible for the wheat strength and have brought in a good outside demand.

Stein Alstrin—Situation favorable in all grains.

Cotton Letter.

Liverpool, 12:30 p. m.: January and March 20 American points above parity, spot sales 5,000; mid 14.55 against 14.44 yesterday. Worth street prices decidedly firmer, estimated 10,000 pieces sold in past two days.

Spots in south 24.65 to 25.50.

Subject of J. P. Morgan's conference with Secretary Hughes not given out but it is likely to lead to rumors of financial help being extended to Europe.

New York Times says: Reason for recent strength in sterling is still a mystery. Think long side of cotton safest on reactions.

DOREMUS, DANIEL & CO.

New York, December 14.—Liverpool was better than due this morning with a good spot demand reported for the first time in six weeks. As a result our market has advanced under heavy buying for Liverpool account, some of which was brought against the straddle which had been put out against purchases in that market.

At the 26 cent level, sufficient realising appeared to check the market but there was a scarcity of offerings so that in the early afternoon the market again turned strong with the May position passing the 26 cent level.

CABBAGE REACHES SEASON HIGH PRICE

Chicago, December 14.—Cabbage advanced to its highest price of the season, $25 to $30 a ton, during the past week, with onions reaching $3 a sack and sweet potatoes following in the advance, according to the weekly market report of the United States bureau of markets. Although the cabbage price marked this season's highest, it was not considered exceptional compared to the price of $55 a ton in December, 1921.

An increase of 40 per cent in sweet potato shipments, mostly from producing states north of Virginia, failed to check a price advance. Barreled apples remained firm with common storage stock selling from $4.25 to $5.00. Boxed apples weakened slightly in the principal markets. Other fruits and vegetables were reported steady to firm for the week.

Stock Broker Asks Rehearing After Bond Had Been Forfeited

New York, December 14.—Edward M. Fuller, bankrupt stockbroker, whose bond for $25,000 was forfeited when he did not appear yesterday for re-trial on a charge of stock bucketing, today walked into the court of Judge Johnstone in general sessions and declared that when his bond was forfeited and a bench warrant issued for his arrest he was speeding to this city from Chicago. He said he had been delayed by bad train connections from western Canada where he had been staying.

Judge Johnstone refused to adjourn the case and ordered the selection of a jury. Fuller's trial three weeks ago on the charge of bucketing a stock order given him in June by F. E. Link, of Westmoreland, Tenn., ended in a disagreement.

STOCK EXCHANGE TO BE CLOSED ON 23D

New York, December 14.—Announcement was made today that the New York stock exchange would be closed on December 23.

United Fruit Co. To Consolidate All Subsidiaries

Boston, Mass., December 14.—The United Fruit company announced today that in order to consolidate its steamship interests it was dissolving its 22 subsidiary companies and organizing all as the United Fruit Steamship company. As at present, the vessels will fly the American flag. Company officials said that the practice had been fairly general among concerns similarly situated to organize separate organizations for each vessel. There was no significance in the reorganization, it was added, beyond the effect of bringing all under one head.

Rice.

New Orleans, La., December 14.—Rough rice quiet; no sales reported; receipts, 2,588; millers' receipts, 2,588.

Clean rice steady; receipts, 14,208; sales reported, 336 pockets Honduras at 6¼; 2,923 pockets Blue Rose at 3 15-16@4⅛; 100 pockets second heads, 2½; 200 pockets screenings, 1½.

Bran and polish unchanged.

Sugar.

New York, December 14.—Raw sugar was easier today, although prices were nominally unchanged at 4 cents for Cubas' cost and freight, equal to 5.78 for centrifugal. It was reported that a very small lot of Cubas in port was sold to a local refiner at slightly below quoted prices and old-crop Cubas afloat were said to be available on the basis of 3⅞c cost and freight, equal to 6.65 for centrifugal, but found no buyers.

Raw sugar futures were lower again. Prices at one time showed declines of 2 to 5 points but there was a slight rally on covering near the close and final prices were 1 to 6 points lower. December, 3.90; March, 3.33; May, 3.45; July, 3.57.

Refined unchanged at 7.10 for fine granulated.

There were no transactions in refined futures.

New York, December 14.—The cotton market showed continued firmness today. Bullish views of the statistical position based on the government's crop estimate of Tuesday afternoon appeared to be strengthened by unexpectedly heavy census bureau figures on domestic mill consumption for November, while there was continued optimism over prospects for export business. January contracts sold up to 25.69 or 33 points net higher, while May touched 26.04 or 47 points net higher and within 5 points of the season's high record established November 9. January closed at 25.57 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 17 to 36 points.

The market opened firm 4 to 7 points higher in response to relatively firm cables and reports of an improving business in Manchester. There was a good deal of realizing at the initial figures but buying was stimulated by the census report showing domestic mill consumption of 577,561 bales for November compared with 526,610 last year. This was considerably above the recent forecast and was regarded by local traders as tending to confirm expectations that the total consumption of this country for the season, including linters, will be slightly in excess of seven million bales. Early advances in continental exchange, bullish southern spots advices, and reports that the recent government crop estimate had stimulated the cotton goods trade contributed to the bullish average of sentiment. Before there was any halt in the advance, active months were 28 to 48 points net higher with December selling at 25.60 and March at 26.95. These prices represented advances of 150 to 180 points from the recent low levels on the active positions, which seemed sufficient to attract considerable realizing. There also was some southern selling as prices approached the 26-cent level and last prices showed reductions of 9 to 17 points. Port receipts today 17,640. United States port stocks 1,107,579. Exports today 27,131, making 2,524,298 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON HIGHER FROM OPENING

New Orleans, December 14.—Prices were higher from the opening call in the cotton maket today, and during the last hour of the session the gains amounted to 34 to 40 points, January standing at 25.50. Some little realizing from the long side pared the advances down in a moderate way toward the close and last prices showed net gains of 22 to 26 points, January closing at 25.42.

The main reason for the day's advance was the large consumption figures in the monthly statement on American mills by the census bureau. Consumption during November was placed at 577,561 bales against 533,950 in October and 527,940 in November of last year. This far exceeded even the expectations held on the long side of the market. A better Liverpool than due helped to open the market higher and considerable support was obtained during the day from a more favorable opinion of European conditions.

Better spot accounts from the markets of the interior of the belt were a sustaining influence in the afternoon, when the supply of contracts became very limited and the market felt a steady, though moderate demand. Mississippi points wired local houses that foreign buyers were trying to place purchases of spot there, and Texas points wired that a revival of the spot demand was being met, for the most part, by refusal of holders to trade.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, December 14.—Cotton seed oil sold off 5 to 12 points in sympathy with easier crude and soft appearance of lard but the late firmness in grain and cotton had a steadying effect near the close. Final prices were 5 to 8 points net lower. Sales, 10,300 barrels. Tenders, 300 barrels. Prime crude, $8.50 asked; prime summer yellow spot, $9.50 bid; December, $9.50; March, $9.99; May, $10.15, all bid.

Dry Goods.

New York, December 14.—Cotton goods markets were firmer today with prices nearly back to top levels in the gray goods division. Yarns were steadier. Burlaps and linens, as well as other imported merchandise, had an upward tendency, due to the rise in exchange being sustained. Silk was not so firm. Wool blanket lines had a fair advance sale.

Provisions.

New York, December 14.—Lard, weak; middle west, $10.90@11.00. Other articles unchanged.

Chicago, December 14.—Pork, nominal; Lard, $10.35. Ribs, $10.50@11.50.

Minneapolis, December 14.—Flour, 10c higher; in carload lots, family patents, quoted at $6.85@8.10 a barrel in 98-pound cotton sacks.

The first Pullman sleeping care was built in 1863.

WHEAT, CORN, OATS GO TO NEW HIGHS

Profit-Takers Keep Average Lower Until Last Hour of Trading Brings Increase.

Chicago, December 14.—Renewed general buying carried wheat, corn and oats today to a fresh top record for the season. Sleet in Kansas and predictions of a cold wave had more or less to do with stimulating demand in the wheat market. Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 7-8 cents higher, May 123 7-8 to 124 and July 114 5-8 to 114 3-4. Corn gained half to 5-8 cents to 2 cents, and oats 3-8 to 7-8 cents. In provisions the outcome ranged to 2 cents decline to 10 cents advance.

It was only in the last hour of trading that the upward swing of the wheat market became pronounced. Before that time, prices have averaged lower, with profit taking sales a feature and the buying restrained in view of unresponsiveness apparent in Liverpool toward yesterday's advance on this side of the Atlantic. On the decline here, however, offerings diminished and commission house demands increased, bulls putting stress on talk of prospective damage to the domestic winter crop.

Reports that Minneapolis mills had disposed of 50,000 barrels of flour today and were buying wheat here on the setbacks in price had considerable influence as an aid to the bull side of the wheat market at the last. Besides the Argentine harrest was reported as being delayed and no heavy movement of new wheat from Argentina looked for until the end of January.

Shorts in the corn market were flurried as a result of heavy buying on the part of a big elevator interest. Relative smallness of stocks of corn here attracted notice and so too did falling off in primary receipts as compared with a year ago.

Oats followed corn.

For the most part the provision market was easy owing to weakness of hog values.

"The Sign on the Door."
(At the Forsyth.)

Miss Belle Bennett, popular Forsyth Players' star, has added further laurels to her reputation this week as Anne Hunniwell Regan in "The Sign on the Door" at the Forsyth. In practically every one of the many dramatic scenes Miss Bennett offers a demonstration of her skill in impersonation.

John Litel as "Lafe" Regan and Gus Forbes as "Frank Devereaux," dissolute son of fortune, contribute their full share to the enjoyment of the performance in several hectic scenes.

All of the Forsyth Players are cast in roles which give them an opportunity to make a very favorable impression.

Keith Vaudeville.
(At the Lyric.)

Wide variety of entertainment is offered in the bill at the Lyric for the last half of the week. All five acts are snappy, interesting, highly amusing, and captivated Thursday night audiences from the rise of the curtain.

"Little Jim" billed as "The Bear With the Human Brain," and Hibbitt and Malle shared headline honors. "Little Jim" is really a big bear and is one of the most wonderfully educated animals in vaudeville today. He dances, drills, wrestles, and some comedy was introduced which proved very effective.

Billy Hibbitt and Eddie Malle, billed as "Sons of the South," are two clever lads and proved the most amusing number on the program. They kept the audience convulsed with laughter practically the entire time they were on the stage.

The opening number was an unusual bicycle act presented by Valentine and Bell. O'Brien and Josephine, in "The Song Salesman" offered some catchy musical numbers and a mirthful comedy line.

"Mr. Chaperone," a farce comedy with music, presented by Al Johnson and company, kept the audience laughing a considerable portion of the time.

Pathe Weekly, Topics of the Day and "Aesop's Fables" make up the screen program for the last half.

Loew's Vaudeville.
(At the Grand.)

Felix Hermann, the successor to Hermann the Great, famous magician and illusionist of the past, holds the spotlight as chief entertainer on the new bill presented for the first time Thursday at Loew's Grand theater. His baffling illusions compare favorably with any ever offered in this city, completely mystifying audiences at all performances on Thursday afternoon and night. Hermann is also a veritable wizard in feats of magic, introducing many new and novel tricks as well as several of the most puzzling ones of the past. "Phroso," the mystery, is also introduced during his performance.

Dan Maley and Delph Singer in "Hokum De Luxe" furnish a large portion of the many laughs afforded by the bill. As an Italian and a Swiss, they succeed in juggling the American language almost beyond understanding adding a few song numbers and parodies for good measure. A touch of pathos by Dan Maley is a clever "bit."

Gardner and Revere's versatile sketch affords Dick Gardner ample opportunity for the display of his eccentricities, Fid Gardner almost stops the show with his stories and violin selections and the Le Roy Brothers complete the program with spectacular physical exploits.

The feature of the screen program is Buck Jones in "West of Chicago."

Harold Lloyd.
(At the Howard)

Harold Lloyd realized his ambition when he made his first five reel comedy, "Grandma's Boy," now playing at the Howard theatre. It was human. It was hailed by critics universally as the greatest comedy ever made.

But Lloyd has gone one better with his latest, "Dr. Jack."

"Dr. Jack" tells a story as human and joyful as "Grandma's Boy." But it is funnier. It gives more laughs to its footage—it bubbles with joy—it distributes mirth until mirth becomes a roar of laughter.

"Pride of Palomar."
(At the Rialto)

Here's a thrilling motion picture story! A young American returns from the war expecting to be welcomed to the family ranch in California only to find that is has fallen into unscrupulous hands. What would you have done in his place? What did he do? Well, he had Irish blood in him, so you can undoubtedly imagine that he made things mighty interesting for those who opposed him. Perhaps you've read of it. You have if you've read "The Pride of Palomar," Peter B. Kyne's great story, which appeared serially in the Cosmopolitan magazine. Now it has been adapted to the screen by the Cosmopolitan Productions for Paramount. Forrest Stanley and Marjorie Daw are the featured players in this big production, which is being shown at the Rialto this week.

In connection with this famous photo-play the Rialto presents this week, Mildred Ross, interpreting "Espana Rhapsody," direction of Whitney Hubner.

'CANADIAN NIGHT' FEATURE AT WGM

Brilliant Artists Entertain Listeners of Nation With Special Program for Canadian Fans.

Edouard Clerk's second "Canadian night" program at WGM was the tremendous success it was intended. A brilliant array of artists passed before the microphone at this station in a combined effort to offer a pleasing program to Canadian listeners. Due to the fact that many of those listeners for whom this special offering was arranged are French-Canadians, the entire program was rendered in French. The announcements, however, were made in both English and French by Mr. Clerk.

It is not often that a station can offer such splendid artists on a single program as Mr. Clerk, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Parent, Miss Eppie Clark and Misses Frances and Grace Stephens. These exceptionally talented and accomplished artists combined their efforts in giving a full hour of special music last night from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock to hundreds of friends in Canada who constitute a part of WGM's big daily audience.

Last night's program was the second special broadcast for Canadian listeners, the first having been given by Mr. Clerk and friends on the night of November 14. The success of the initial effort brought hundreds of congratulatory letters to this station and it was decided to have a second special Canadian program on December 14. Now, it is planned to have a similar program once each month and the 14th has been designated as "Canadian night" at WGM.

Mrs. Lucien Parent and Miss Eppie Clark divided honors in playing accompaniments for the various numbers last night. Both are artists of exceptional talent and their excellent contributions added much to the success of the program. Mr. Clerk, tenor, and Mr. Parent, baritone, each sang solos and gave two duets. Miss Grace Stephens, soprano, gave several beautiful numbers in French, among them, "Ouvres Tex Yeux" and "Berceuse," from Joselyn. She has a magnificent voice and it was heard to its best advantage last night. Miss Frances Stephens, accomplished violinist, an artiste of recognized ability and talent, gave the beautiful "Madrigal" in a masterly manner.

Mr. Parent and Mr. Clerk, in addition to their solo numbers, gave two beautiful duets, "Canadian Songs," and the concluding number, "O Canada." Mr. Clerk's rendition of "La Marseillaise" was one of the outstanding features of the program.

As a whole the special program was one of the strongest musical offerings this station has ever given to listeners, and the fact that it will be a special affair once each month from WGM will no doubt be welcome news to music lovers throughout the continent.

Picked Out Of The Storm

THIS thing of picking out the best reports from a day's mail is getting to be a man-sized job. When this little column started it was with the idea of making it a half column, but things have been popping so fast around here lately that it has rather exceeded the proportions which were originally intended for it.

So many good reports are coming to Station WGM nowadays that it's really hard to decide which ones to print. For instance, here's this card from Joseph Thornell, 81 Stuart avenue, Flushing, N. Y., that sort of makes one's eyes open:

"Listening in this evening and heard your concert. Selections, 'Memories' and 'Homesick' by Helton brothers, were especially good."

Mr. Thornell must have been away from home for those two particular pieces to strike him the way they did. Maybe, though, it was just their excellence which impressed him.

I've received some mighty nice reports on what the Helton brothers have been doing lately from Station WGM. There's this card from Rev. J. J. Goergen, St. Mary's manor, South Langhorne, Pa., which reads as follows:

"Last night I was agreeably surprised to hear WGM loud and distinct. The announcer's voice was very clear in spite of a certain amount of atmospherics due to a nearby storm. The concert by the Helton orchestra was fine. I used only a one-tube outfit at first, and then I put you on a two-step amplifier and you could be heard all over the room.

"As I was at Marist college, at 289 Ivy street, I naturally was pleased to hear directly from the great metropolis of the south."

I know just exactly how good I'd feel if I were to hear a concert from a place that had been my home for a time.

The next letter I have here is from another direction. The writer is Abner J. Swanson, of 2841 North Maplewood avenue, Chicago, Ill. This is what he writes:

"I heard your broadcasting station last evening about 10 o'clock. It came in so loud on two steps of audio frequency that it filled the entire room. Your station was also very clear.

"I might add that WGM is the first station I have heard in that section of the country."

I can't help laughing a little to myself when I think how a fellow's ingenuity will keep him in clothes and something to eat. I guess it's a new idea. At any rate, the fellow who had it probably is realizing on it.

I don't know how many cards I've had in the last couple of days from listeners in Indianapolis, Ind., all done up in pretty green ink with their address on it. Here's exactly the way it reads before it is filled in with pen and ink:

"_____ de - Xmas - 1922

"3017 N. Arsenal St., Indianapolis, Ind."

I just put the address of 3017 N. Arsenal street in there because it's printed on the last card of this kind I received. Written on the blank line near the bottom of this particular one is "H. W. Beckner," and up at the top in the blank space is "WGM."

It's not a bad idea, and we like these Christmas greetings from our friends, but some fellow is making money out of radio bugs in a way outside of selling radio supplies.

There's a word for Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra, in the next letter I see here in this veritable mountain of reports.

This report comes from E. S. Hatcher, Tenth and Adams streets, Springfield, Ill. Mr. Hatcher writes as follows:

"We feel that we owe you a letter of appreciation for the wonderful entertainment furnished by your station. We enjoy listening to your station very much. We think The Constitution orchestra, or Warner's Seven Aces, is especially good."

They surely are good.

And now to close, just this card from C. R. Shuttleworth, Waynesboro, Miss.:

"Want to thank you for your splendid programs. Can't be beaten."

UNUSUAL FEATURES OFFERED WGM FANS

Signor E. Volpi's Arrangements for 9:30 to 10:30 Program Include Popular Favorites.

Tonight's 9:30 to 10:30 program at WGM will include four of Atlanta's best-known artists who enjoy wide popularity with fans of this station. Signor E. Volpi is in charge of arrangements and will present Mrs. W. H. Wrigley, Jr., one of his advanced voice pupils. In addition, W. H. Wrigley, Jr., saxophonist, and Clarence Wrigley banjoist, will be heard on the same program.

Mrs. Wrigley has a wonderful coloratura soprano voice, and an artist whose singing for WGM fans has elicted much favorable criticism. Her numbers tonight will include classical and semi-classical songs.

Mr. Wrigley is a saxophonist of the first water and has been heard many times before from this station. His pleasing rendition of popular song hits is a distinct feature of any program and he will be heard at his best tonight.

Clarence Wrigley is one of Atlanta's best-known banjoists whose ability is recognized by listeners throughout the nation. His contributions to tonight's offering will no doubt be thoroughly enjoyed by fans.

Signor Volpi, the noted Atlanta teacher of voice and coach of opera, whose pupils have featured so many programs at this station, will play the piano accompaniments for Mrs. Wrigley tonight on a Conover grand piano from the Cable Piano company.

READER HEARD AT WGM LAST NIGHT

Mrs. Preston Wilhoit Gave Delightful "Uncle Remus" Stories at 6 O'Clock Program.

Mrs. Preston B. Wilhoit, widely-known Atlanta teacher of dramatic art and expression, made her debut to listeners to WGM last night at the 6 to 7 o'clock broadcast, in special readings from "Uncle Remus" stories. This splendid reader has only recently been added to the staff of artists of this station and will be heard at regular intervals during the coming months.

Mrs. Wilhoit's rendition of "How Mr. Rabbit Succeeded in Raising a Dust," written by the late Joel Chandler Harris, was unusually interesting and in a manner which stamped the reader as an artist of exceptional ability and talent. While this story was of particular interest to the children, it was no doubt enjoyed by the grown-up listeners.

"Mrs. Mulligan's Recipe For a Cake," a laughable reading with much humor and dialect, was particularly pleasing. Mrs. Wilhoit gave this number at the request of friends who were listening in.

Miss Nell Howze Entertains Fans AtWGMTonight

Well-Known Mezzo-Contralto Will Be Heard at Early Program.

Listeners for WGM's 6 to 7 o'clock program tonight will hear one of the best-known mezzo-contralto voices in the United States when Miss Nell Howze makes her debut at this station in several classical numbers.

Miss Howze will appear in prologues at the Howard theater the week of December 18, during which "Singed Wings," featuring Bebe Daniels, will be shown to Atlanta's motion picture lovers.

This station is fortunate in being able to secure Miss Howze for one program and listeners will enjoy a rare treat. Her voice is remarkably rangy, clear and highly trained, and her numbers will feature tonight's early program.

EXTRA FEATURES OFFERED TO FANS

Fred Collidge and Cliff Dodd Entertain Listeners With Excellent Mandolin and Guitar Duets.

Two of Atlanta's best known mandolin and guitar artists made their bow to WGM's invisible audience last night at the 6 to 7 o'clock broadcast in several popular selections. Cliff H. Dodd, guitarist, and Fred H. Collidge, mandolin player, concluded the program which had previously offered Warner's Seven Aces and Mrs. Preston B. Wilhoit, reader, in splendid manner.

Mr. Dodd is one of Atlanta's most celebrated guitar players and is a finished artist. Mr. Collidge is a teacher of mandolin and guitar of this city and is known throughout the south. These two exceptional artists offered several duets in a manner which left but little to be desired by any listener.

The offerings of Mr. Dodd and Mr. Collidge included "Down the Mississippi," "Austrian Army March," "Castinet Dance," "Then You'll Remember Me," and other popular numbers. They will be heard again from this station at an early date.

Big 'Army Night' Planned at WGM Saturday Night

Twenty-Second Infantry Orchestra and Soloists Will Be Featured.

The second monthly "army night" will be observed at WGM on Saturday night when Conductor John Anderson of the 22d infantry band of Fort McPherson will present his 10-piece orchestra in popular orchestrations. Sergeant G. J. Ryan, also of Fort McPherson, a well-known tenor, will intersperse the orchestra selections with popular song hits.

Conductor Anderson is one of the best known band masters in the United States and his organization delighted listeners to this station at the initial "army night" program in November. On Saturday night at the 9:30 to 10:30 broadcast Conductor Anderson will offer the infantry orchestra, composed of the best musicians stationed at Fort McPherson and recognized as one of the foremost musical organizations in the army.

Supplementing the orchestrations, Sergeant G. J. Ryan, popular tenor-soloist who has been heard from this station many times before, will give some semi-classical and popular song numbers.

The second "army night" program promises to be equally as successful as the first and will offer a variety of music which listeners throughout the nation will enjoy. The complete program will be announced in Saturday's Constitution.

ACES ADD GLORY TO WGM RECORDS

Violin Solo by Ralph Bennett Distinct Feature of Program by Warner's Seven Aces.

Warner's Seven Aces, The Atlanta Constitution orchestra and the leading dance orchestra of the south, heaped glories upon their long and successful record as star entertainers at this station last night. The program of unusually enjoyable orchestrations was interspersed with a violin solo, "Scotch Lullaby," by Lugi von Kunits, played by Ralph Bennett, violinist of the Aces. This number was the outstanding feature of the program and stamped the young violinist as a real artist in numbers other than orchestrations.

Telephone calls and requests for special numbers were received too late to be included in the program last night, but will be played at an early date. Special lists of request numbers are kept by the Aces at this office and are played as promptly as possible after the request.

Last night's numbers included "Gee, but I Hate to Go Home Alone," "'Twas in the Month of May," "Merry Widow Waltz" and many other popular dance selections.

ASK COURT RELIEF IN ROME GAS WAR

Would Restrain Company From Stopping Service When Bills Unpaid Because of Inferior Gas.

Rome, Ga., December 14.—(Special,)—As a sequel to the long and persistent fight of the people of Rome to obtain a satisfactory gas service a petition for injunction has been filed in Floyd superior court asking that the Rome Municipal Gas company be restrained from ceasing gas service where the payment of its bills is refused on the ground that the amount of the bills are not commensurate with the service rendered.

The petition has been set for hearing by Judge Wright on December 23 and the outcome will be watched with interest by all consumers of gas here, as complaints have been steadily increasing because the service, according to consumers, has become practically valueless.

The Rome city commission has asked the governor of Georgia to revoke the franchise of the company because of the utter lack of gas of proper quality as prescribed by the state public service commission and the matter is now pending. A hearing on complaints of the city and individual consumers has been set by the service commission for next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The Other Fellow

Christmas reminds us that we should think of others.

We ought to have the other fellow in mind all the year, but we are almost too busy to be human.

In business we are forced to think of his interests. If we didn't he would do business with someone else.

But the pity of it is that we don't think enough about the man himself and don't realize our loss of fellowship until he is gone.

Goods and chattels may be replaced, but the man cannot.

He is the composite of many generations and there is no other man just like him.

Let us think of him and make the most of our fellowship with him while he is here.

The Irishman says one man is as good as another—if anything a little better.

He will be a little better if we give him the best that is in us.

Deserted Wife Will Have Help In Lanier Fight

W. E. Minter, Head of Minter Homes Co., on Way to Atlanta to Aid Niece.

Macon, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Shortly before he left Macon for Atlanta this afternoon, James H. Dodgen, counsel for Mrs. Peggy Lewis Lanier in her fight against Dr. J. D. Lanier and his son, Sidney, of Macon, announced that Mrs. Lanier will not be alone in her fight. Mr. Dodgen stated he had received a long distance telephone message to the effect that W. E. Minter, said to be a wealthy man of Huntington, W. Va., president of the Minter Homes company, is on his way to Atlanta to join his niece and to throw the weight of his money into the fight against the Laniers.

It is understood here that Mrs. Lanier will come to Macon within a few days for a conference with local counsel, but the time of her arrival had not been decided on today.

Attorneys for the girl wife reached a tentative decision today to bring the suit for $50,000 for alienation of affection against Dr. Lanier in the Bibb superior court Saturday, provided the papers can be drawn up by that time. Another suit will ask for alimony and not for divorce.

Attention of lawyers for Mrs. Lanier was called to the fact that young Lanier is not employed and has no visible means of support.

"This will probably put him to work," said Mr. Dodgen, "if the court orders him to pay alimony, and he doesn't do it, he's in contempt of court and can be jailed. He remains in contempt as long as he fails to pay."

In answer to Dr. Lanier's statement that he came here to investigate his financial affairs, Mr. Dodgen said: "I have simply to say that I came here to confer with Attorney Oliver Hancock, who has been retained to assist in the case. Mr. Hancock will have charge of the suit from the Macon end."

"Shine Village" Is Destroyed By Prohi Men

13 Suitcases, With 20 Quarts Each, Nabbed Near Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Enforcement officers yesterday and last night raided and destroyed one moonshine "village" of five outfits in a nest and three individual plants; at Ways Station this morning they found the unlucky number of 13 unclaimed suit cases loaded with 20 quarts of Old Scotch each, nabbing them five minutes before a fast train stopped at Ways; and discovered in a local station a trunkful of assorted Christmas beverages distinctly higher in percentage than Christmas spirits should be.

Officers here have announced plans to go after liquor in the homes, and something of consternation reigns in several quarters by reason of doubt as to just what that order will result in during the holidays.

Houston Says No Hard Times Shown in South

Former Cabinet Member, the Head of Telephone Company, Is in Savannah.

Savannah, December 14.—(Special.) David F. Houston, president of the Bell Telephone Securities company, accompanied by J. Epps Brown, president of the Southern Bell company, and W. B. Gifford, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, spent the day in Savannah, guests of David Lair, in charge here, who is soon to move his headquarters to Jacksonville.

Mr. Houston's visit was of especial interest, too, from the fact that he was a member of the Wilson presidential cabinet.

He declared that a tour of the south reveals no evidences of "hard times." He said conditions are far superior in most ways over the conditions of four years ago. The party was entertained tonight at the Oglethorpe club and leaves tomorrow for Charleston.

NEGRO BANDITS ROB WHITE MAN THURSDAY

Two unidentified negro bandits held up and robbed H. P. Fuller, 210 Grant street, Thursday night on Brookline street, near Stewart avenue. He told Officer Charles Adams who investigated the case that he was forced to surrender $73 in cash. He said both of the negroes carried pistols.

Outside of Atlanta, Walter Mitchell, Cuthbert; Eli King, Augusta; Mrs. Morgan McNeal, Marietta; Lester Carroll, Savannah; Frank Garrard, Columbus; Mrs. John Thomas, Dalton; Walter Seaman, Waycross; W. M. Geamling, Brunswick; Mrs. Royal Daniels, Quitman; W. I. Fitzpatrick, Thomasville; Lovelace Eve, Americus, and Rupert E. Hall, East Lake.

The veterinary staff is composed of H. F. Burkland, J. R. Walsh and Henry G. Carnes. The medical staff includes Spencer R. Stone, M.D., and L. R. Robinson, M.D. The next meeting is called for July 9.

NOBLES, CHARGED MURDER, CLAIMS ACT JUSTIFIABLE

Waycross, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The case of the state vs. B. T. Nobles, charged with murder, was called this morning in the Ware county superior court. The greater part of the morning was consumed in the hearing of evidence, the state attempting to prove that Nobles, a young white man living near Braganza, in this county, stabbed Clifton Duffy, another white man, to death last month.

The defense entered a plea of justifiable homicide.

The argument of the attorneys occupied the greater part of the afternoon session of court and the case went to the jury at a late hour this afternoon. If a verdict is reached during the night it will probably be read at the opening of court in the morning.

Nobles is represented in the trial by Attorneys L. E.Pedrick and J. H. Quarterman. Solicitor-General Allen B. Spence handled the case for the state.

WESLEY MEMORIAL SERMONS POPULAR

Dr. Charles Dunaway's revival sermons at the Wesley Memorial church are attracting city-wide attention. The sermons are being featured by Thomas Eden, and his sister, Miss Estelle Eden, gospel soloists.

Those who attended the service Thursday pledged themselves to bring a score of friends to the Friday service, in an effort to fill the church auditorium to its capacity.

HEAD CRUSHED IN CANE MILL, YOUTH MAY DIE

Savannah, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Clyde McGee, 9-year-old son of W. W. WAYCROSS NEGRO GETS 12 YEARS FOR MURDER

Waycross, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Bob Bryant, charged with the murder of Wash Troop, another negro, was sentenced by Judge Summerall to serve a sentence of 12 to 15 years after a jury in the Ware county superior court yesterday returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter.

Bryant, according to the evidence, shot and killed Troop after the latter had interfered in a dispute between the defendant and his wife. The state attempted to prove that the act was murder, and asked for the extreme penalty.

The defense was represented by Attorneys John J. Moore and E. O. Blalock. Solicitor Allen B. Spence handled the case for the state.

HEAVY DOCKET FACES U. S. COURT IN ALBANY

Albany, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—United States court for the southern district of Georgia, Albany division, will convene here Monday with Judge William H. Barrett presiding. It will be Judge Barrett's first visit to Albany since his recent appointment, and District Attorney F. G. Boatright will likewise be here for the first time in his official capacity.

An unusually heavy civil and criminal docket will require the attention of the court. Thirty-one civil cases are docketed, and there is a considerably larger criminal docket. It is stated by local court officers that the grand jury will be kept busy with new criminal cases, and the prospect is for an unusually busy session of the court.

Head-On Collision.

Thorpe, Wis., December 14.—One trainman was killed and two others were badly injured and about fifteen passengers more or less seriously hurt today when Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste Marie passenger train No. 3, Chicago to Minneapolis, collided head-on with a freight train near here.
